Why Suffer From Eczema?

A Georgia Man Tells His Experience.

I was afflicted with a very bad case of Eczema for twenty-five years, which was in my feet, legs and hips. Through all this time I tried different remedies and Doctors' prescriptions, obtaining no relief until I used your HUNT'S CURE.

One box (50c) cured me entirely, and though two years have elapsed I have had no return of the trouble.

Naturally I regard it as the greatest remedy in the world.

The Scrap Book

Expecting Too Much.
Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol, tells a story about a new member of the house whose frugality he is always commending to his congressional friends.

The new member arrived in town and hunted Superintendent Woods up immediately.

"I reckon I'd like to look at my quarters," he said to the superintendent.

He was taken to the house office building and shown to one of the substantially furnished office rooms.

"This is fine," said the new member. "But where are my other rooms?"

"Oh, you can't have another room for several years—not until you have become chairman of a committee," replied Woods.

"What's that?" exclaimed the new congressman in dismay. "How do you expect me to sleep, cook, eat and work in one room?" — New York World.

Laugh It Off.
When you can't make any headway and each day seems like a dead day and the thorns begin to pierce till your nerves are shattered, racked, stop a bit, get busy quaffing from the bottle labeled "Laughing"—get your fill and then start over. It's a tonic, for a fact.

Are you grumpy? Are you faded? Do you feel all worn and jaded? Every time some fresh work doth claim you? Have you lost the thing called tact? Try a cup of sunny chaffing. Sweetened up with merry laughing. It's the best thing on the market for a tonic, for a fact.

A Dangerous Story.
A Yale undergraduate had been having a fairly lively time of it during his summer vacation, and his allowance had not been keeping schedule time with his expenditures.

He was invited out to dinner with his mother, and he was seen to get a bit nervous when she began one of her favorite stories. This concerned the burning of their home, on which occasion the son's watch, left on a bureau, was found ticking in the ruins after the house had been destroyed.

At the conclusion of the story the college boy jumped up abruptly and left the room with his handkerchief over his face, as if suddenly seized with nose bleed. He did not return for several minutes, by which time the conversation had drifted.

After dinner the "undergrad" chum asked the significance of the move.

"I'll tell you, but nobody else," said he. "When mother told that story I was afraid she was going to ask me to show the watch." — Chicago Post.

Full of Snap.
Gretchen, the daughter of an old German named Kruegel, had been serving as domestic about two weeks in the household of the local judge when father and employer met on the village street.

"Well, yoodas," said Kruegel, "how you like dot Gretchen by dis time alretty?"

"Like her?" returned the judge in his blunt way. "Why, she's just great! We never had any one in the house in her line that entered into work with so much spirit. She's full of snap all the time."

Kruegel turned ponderingly away, and, meeting his frau at his home portal, he sorrowfully said: "Teresa, something must good wrong mit dot Gretchen. I yood dit meered the yoodas, und he saidt dot she was fall of schnapps all de dime."

Settling His Bill.
The late Eugene Field when a resident of Kansas City drifted into a cafe one evening with a party of friends. Along came the proprietor and asked Field if he couldn't arrange to square up that little account of his that had been running so long.

"How much is it, anyhow?" asked the future author of "Little Boy Blue."
"It's about $38," said the proprietor. "Couldn't you square that up now?"
"Haven't got the money," declared Field. "If I had I'd pay you."
"Well, I'll settle for whatever you've got," chanced the proprietor.
Whereupon Field went through his clothes and dug up from all sources the sum of 65 cents. The proprietor was game and settled the $38 account for Field's pile.
But that wasn't all. "Isn't it customary," inquired Field, "for the proprietor to set 'em up when a customer comes in and squares up a $38 account?"
"Well, yes, I suppose it is customary," admitted the proprietor. "Sure it is. What'll you have?"
"I don't know what the rest of the crowd wants," says Field, "but I know what I want. I'll take a bottle of champagne."
