DAZED THE CROWN PRINCE.

The New Servant Who Went From One Extreme to the Other. In her book of reminiscences of the German royal family Mrs. Hugh Fraser tells the following story of the crown prince and a too-obsequious man: His royal highness had just taken into his service a new manservant, but the overdone obsequiousness of the man jarred on his master. At last the crown prince became so irritated that the servant received an intimation to the effect that his highness would prefer to be treated with more simplicity. The day after having given this warning the crown prince was seated at his table writing when he suddenly felt himself tapped on the shoulder. Thinking it was his wife, he turned quickly, smiling, only to behold the hitherto obsequious servant standing beside him and regarding him with a most friendly smile. Before the astonished heir to the German throne could find suitable words in which to re-

"IS HE DRUNK?" buke the servant's presumption, the latter jerked his thumb in the direction of the door, and announced: "Pappchen has come to see you." Now, the crown prince was expecting a call from his father, the emperor, and as "pappchen" literally means "little papa" his astonishment increased. "Pappchen" he grasped as soon as he could articulate. Then, thinking that the servant surely must have been drinking to dare to speak of the emperor in such a familiar way, he muttered to himself, while his eyes were fixed on the man in amazed inquiry. "Is he drunk?" The servant apparently thought the whispered remark was a confidential request for information as to the prospective visitor's condition, for after scratching his head in some perplexity he leaned closer to the crown prince and whispered softly: "Drunk? Well, I think not. I didn't notice anything."

Too Expensive. Two members of a country club were discussing a fellow member. The latter did not have a reputation for outbursts of wild extravagance. "I understand that 'Bucky' Brown has quit the game of golf." "What! 'Bucky' Brown? He used to be so fond of the game. Why on earth did he stop playing?" "He lost his golf ball."—Everybody's.

Dispensary Petitions.

Editor County Record:— Several neighbors told me yesterday that a petition is being circulated in this section to get signatures asking that an election be held in Williamsburg county on the dispensary question again. Several of my informants said they signed the petition somewhat carelessly and somewhat under a wrong impression. In two or three instances they understood from the presenter of the petition that the election would be held whether or not they signed. Many of my informants say they are unalterably opposed to dispensaries being placed in our county and that they are opposed to an election being held.

Now, Mr Editor, I do not accuse any one of wrongdoing, but I wish to call the attention of our people to the situation and ask them to consider well before signing such petitions. I would not, for a moment, be so presumptuous as to attempt to dictate to any one; but let us consider a fact or two.

In the first place, we now have no dispensaries in Williamsburg county and unless we have an election and vote it in, we will not have any under our present law.

Secondly, those of us who are opposed to re-opening of dispensaries in our county should not sign any petition for an election. If we do not want dispensaries why should we want an election? Again, suppose the majority of our voters are now opposed; who knows but that, if an election is held, the agitation consequent may turn many to become in favor of dispensaries.

Many people seem to think that because some will drink intoxicants and therefore their money goes to other counties or to other States, that it would be better to have the dispensary, so that our county would get whatever profits there may be in the sale.

Now, friends, I bend to my knees and ask you to pardon a personal experience. Twenty years ago your humble writer was agent and operator in one of the towns of the State. I was glad that I could keep my Bible on my desk where were kept the other books connected with my work. The Bible taught me how to keep the books and how to keep myself straight. I soon became persuaded that I should not work for a railroad company any quicker than to work on a farm on the Sabbath day. I resigned my position. Many told me then, and have said since, that some one will keep that office and that I might as well have kept it. That it is not wrong to work on the Sabbath for the reason that others will do the same work on the Sabbath. But I say because others steal or lie or cheat, is no reason why I should do these things. Because others drink intoxicants is no reason I should drink, or help to cause it to be sold for others to drink. If I help to try to keep it as far away and as unhandy as possible, then I feel that I am individually free from its evil consequences.

So let us not say that we may as well or better have intoxicants sold in our county, because others will buy it elsewhere. Let us "keep our skirts clear," for God holds us responsible. But, however we may sign or vote, let us do so with the full understanding of what effect the result will be. Before I close, let me say I am not posing as any paragon of perfection. I have faults and too many of them, too. JOHNSONVILLE.

BLEASE DISREGARDS PRIMARY.

Won't Appoint Nominee For Auditor of Georgetown.

Georgetown, April 17:—There are some heartburnings in this county because of the fact that Governor Blease has failed to commission some of the men, who, in the primary last August, won the election and were declared the nominees by the county executive committee, but the incumbents of the offices at the time are still holding over, in the absence of the appointment of their successors. Mr T S McConnell opposed Mr J A Hemingway for county Treasurer. The face of the returns gave Mr Hemingway 796 votes as against 774 for Mr McConnell. Mr McConnell entered a protest alleging fraud at one of the country boxes, and after a heated contest the executive committee threw out the box in question, giving the contestant, Mr McConnell, a majority, and declared him the successful candidate. His commission has not yet been received.

Mr W J Bruorton ran against County Auditor H C Tallevast and in the primary defeated him by a vote of 799 to 761. There was no contest in this case. Mr Bruorton has been patiently awaiting the receipt of his commission in order that he might enter upon the duties of the office. Long patience bringing no reward, Mr Bruorton addressed an inquiry to Governor Blease, asking him the direct question as to when he might expect the appointment, to which the following was the reply: State of South Carolina Executive Chamber Columbia, S C, April 1, 1913.

Mr W J Bruorton, Georgetown, S. C. —Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of March 31, Governor Blease directs me to say that, according to his information, the present Auditor at Georgetown is making a very good officer and the Governor sees no reason to make a change. Respectfully, JNO K AULL, Private Secretary.

Mr Bruorton feels very much aggrieved at the action of the Governor in this matter. He has made public the upshot of the matter only within the past few days.

Winthrop College Notes.

Winthrop College, Rock Hill, April 18:—Friday night Winthrop College entertained about fifty of the gentlemen who graduated at Yale College in 1885. A six-course dinner was served in the dining hall at 6 o'clock. Dr Johnson was assisted in receiving the guests by the marshal and the presidents of all student organizations. After dinner a musicale was given in the auditorium by the choral society and Prof Bauer, who is at the head of the music department. The field day exercises were held on April 7, at 10 o'clock. A good many visitors were present for this occasion. Winthrop gave a reception for the delegates, who are attending the State Medical association, Wednesday afternoon, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The parlors were beautifully decorated with roses and potted plants, and sandwiches and coffee was served. Dr and Mrs E T Kelley of Kingstree were in Rock Hill a part of this week, and while in the city they came to the college for a short while. We were glad, indeed, to see them and hope that they will come again. M J.

Look to Your Plumbing.

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers. adv
