Simmons-Cannon.

(Received too late for last week's issue) Johnsonville, October 20: - The most pleasing social event of the autumn season was the marriage of Miss Jessie Jeraldine Simmons to Mr William Frost Cantion of Hem-ingway, which was solemnized at the beautiful home of Dr and Mrs Albert Eaddy Wednesday, October 15, 1913, at high noon.

The whole lower floor was thrown en suite and tastefully decorated with ivy and golden-rod, the parlor in which the ceremony was performed having an arch of white trimmed with green and banked with ferns and potted plants which extended toward the center of the room, from which hung a pure white wedding bell covered with flowers tied with white tulle.

For a half hour before the time appointed for the marriage the guests were delightfully entertained with musical selections by Miss Emily Hudson at the piano, Prof Brice Haynes, violinist, and Mr Frank Doyle, vocalist. Immediately at the time for the ceremony to begin, Miss Hudson struck the first notes of Lohengrin's wedding march, when the bride's pastor, Rev P B Ingraham, entered the room, taking his place directly in front of the arch. Next came the groom, Mr William Frost Cannon, with Mr Charlie Creele as best man. At the same time the bride, Miss Jessie Jeraldine Simmons, descended the stairs on the arm of her uncle, Dr Elbert Simmons, and joined the groom beneath the arch, where the vows were taken.

At the close of the ceremony the doors into the dining-room were thrown open and a delicious twocourse luncheon was served the guests by six girls daintily dressed in pink and white. The table in the center of the room, on which was the bride's cake, was covered by a beautiful piece of hand-made lace. Streamers of white ribbon extended from the table to the chandelier, where they were caught with bows of tulle. White and green candles in crystal candle-holders were burning on the table, buffet and mantel, shedding their soft light upon the scene. The young ladies enjoyed cutting the bride's cake, the ring falling to Miss Elizabeth Cannon and the thimble to Miss Nellie Hudgens of Baltimore. The bride wore a tailored suit of brown cloth, with hat, gloves and shoes to match, and was never lovelier than on this, her wedding day. Mr and Mrs Cannon left immediately on the north-bound train for a two weeks' tour, after which they will return to reside at Hemingway.
