KINGSTREE HIGH AND GRADED SCHOOL NOTES.

The fall term of the Kingstree Graded and High school will begin Monday morning, September 21, at 9 o'clock. There will be short exercises in the school auditorium at that hour, and all patrons and well-wishers of the school are not only invited, but urged to be present.

Following are the teachers for the ensuing session:

High School—Prof J W Swittenberg, Miss Laura Cromer, Miss Ada Brockington.

Seventh Grade—Miss Sara James of Bishopville.

Sixth Grade—Miss Myrtle Robertson of Spartanburg.

Fifth Grade—Miss Quinette Dantzer of Holly Hill.

Fourth Grade—Miss Cornelia Plowden of Manning.

Second and Third Grades—Miss Lizzie Heape of Branchville.

First Grade—Miss Agness Erckmann of Charleston.

Music—Miss Julia Cork of Rock Hill.

There are only three new teachers in our corps this year, Misses James, Robertson and Cork. These young ladies come to us highly recommended. Miss James graduated from Winthrop college last June and the registrar of the college has the following to say concerning her: "You will see by reference to the catalogue that Miss James was among those announced distinguished at commencement. Moreover, as Miss James maintained a standard of excellence in all her senior work relating to education and was graded as thoroughly satisfactory in her training school work, we consider ourselves fully justified in recommending her to you." Miss Robertson is spoken of as "a teacher of force and great natural ability" by the superintendent of the Easley school, where she taught last session. Miss Cork has had instruction from the best teachers of music in the State and her ability is undisputed.

The school has brighter prospects this year than ever before. Let's offer every encouragement to these teachers who have come into our midst and show them our interest by being present at the auditorium Monday morning, September 21, at 9 o'clock.

A Sunday-school Picnic.

Editor County Record:—

Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to tell about a Sunday-school picnic at Piney Forest church, near Warr's Crossing. There were about 300 people assembled. The day was an ideal one—not too warm to be comfortable. Seeing that band of Sunday-school children march up to the table reminded your correspondent of happy childhood hours, when he, too, was a happy, care-free boy. To be in the company of the people of Piney Forest church and vicinity is to enjoy true Southern hospitality, as was shown by the way your correspondent was treated. Surrounded by every conceivable good thing to eat that is carried to country picnics, and ice-cold lemonade to drink, you can imagine what a poor old hungry, thirsty rural letter carrier did.

Well, Mr Editor, I wish you could have been there. One would think that the present high prices, said to be caused by the war in Europe, had nothing to do with the well-filled baskets that were carried to the picnic at Piney Forest. Summing up everything, it was a time long to be remembered and appreciated by your correspondent.

The programme was very effectively carried out by the little ones, and addresses were made by the pastor, Rev Mr Whaley, and the superintendent, Mr D S Avant, which were very interesting and instructive.
