The Chautauqua.

In a few days the Chautauqua will be with us again. It has been with the keenest anticipation that we have looked forward to the return of this cultured group of people, traveling through the Southland and presenting the cleanest and most wholesome kind of educational entertainment for the masses. The Chautauqua has well been called the "University of the People," giving to the people that which goes to perpetuate its motto: "Better Living and a Better Life."

It was in 1874 that Bishop John H Vincent, of the M E church gathered about him some of the clergy and ardent laymen, and went camping on the shores of one of the most beautiful lakes in New York, Lake Chautauqua, and discussed ways and means for the furtherance of the work of the church. Feature after feature was introduced until today each summer sees one of the greatest gatherings in this country at this place, listening to some of the world's greatest artists in every field of human endeavor. It has now outgrown its religious order and today it is non-sectarian, bringing together all classes and creeds, attracting the masses and elevating them as nothing ever before has done in this country.

A few years later some of the wealthy men of this country became interested and gave financial backing to companies of artists and lecturers who appeared at Lake Chautauqua in order that they might go out into the country and reach the people who were too far from the lake to come to it, and to give them those things which leave something worth while after the artists and lecturers had gone. At first these men lost considerable money, as the people did not seem to appreciate the work, but soon they responded and today the Chautauqua is driving from the field those cheaper entertainments which are not only frothy but harmful. Within this present year more than four thousand Chautauquas, with a total attendance of more than 8,000,000 people, have been held. The movement in the Middle Western States has been the strongest, but within the last two years the movement has begun to get a foothold in the Southern States. Under the Radcliffe management more than six hundred Chautauquas have been organized in the South Atlantic States within the past year.

Last year the Chautauqua was enjoyed by every one who attended, each individual feeling that he was a little better off by coming, and hoping for its return.

"Back to the farm" is very good, but "stay there," is much better.

It now looks as if Rumania intends to enter the European conflict on the side of the Allies. Greece has assumed a smoother tone and she may yet slide in on the side of the Entente.

The man of means is usually content to draw away on a 25-cent pipe while many a worthless cuss puffs daintily from a 5-cent cigar or a scented Turkish cigarette that has been charged to his dad.

Chicago has produced another literary genius in the person of one Charles Werner, who thusly describes his wife in his bill for divorce:

"She is an uncultured woman of the shallow, hair brained, pin head, Calamity Jane type; large, muscular, bony and beefy; she is some athlete, having the activities of a Corbett, the ferocious temper of a tiger, the strength of an ox, and the reason of an ass."

We admire a man who speaks well of his town, and his neighbors, and his friends, and who is slow to speak ill of other people. We of today are so prone to speak hastily and without thought of consequences that it is a relief to find one occasionally who considers the effect of his words before they are uttered. Such men are more than an asset to any town. How many has Kingstree of this type?

James Nicholson Robson, a veteran merchant of Charleston, who was long identified with the progress of that city, died about midnight Sunday at his residence there in the 89th year of his age.

The Florence county fair will open at Florence on the 17th and continue through the 20th. The citizens of Florence are working hard in the interest of the event, and an exceptionally good fair will be held.

Two Hundred and Fifty Stories.

And every story a good one. They are entertaining, but that is not all you can say about them. You know there is hardly a periodical published that is not full of time-wasting stories, but not a single story in The Youth's Companion is a time waster. Take the stories of C A Stephens. It would be hard to pick out one from which you cannot learn something useful and yet entertaining.

Some of The Companion stories refresh your knowledge of geography; some tell you the mysteries of chemistry, some reveal the secrets of forestry and of general farming. They cover a wide range. They are chosen with an eye to the possible likings of every member of a Companion family--stories of vigorous action and stirring adventure for boys, stories of college life and domestic vicissitudes for girls, stories that range all the way from sheer drollery to deep seriousness for men and women. There are no stories quite like those in The Companion. If you are not familiar with The Companion of today, let us send you sample copies and the Forecast for 1916.

New subscribers who send $2.00 for 1916 will receive free a copy of The Companion Home Calendar for 1916, in addition to all the remaining 1915 issues from the time the subscription is received.

ORANGEBURG FAIR NEXT WEEK

Record Crowds Expected to See Best Ever Held.

The annual Orangeburg County Fair will be held in Orangeburg four days, beginning November 9.

With a record of four years of success, the managers of the fair are confidently expecting that the fair this year will exceed all those previously held and all exterior signs point to the fulfillment of their expectations. The fair this year will be notable for several reasons, one of which is the fact that a different parade will be given each day, for which cash prizes have been offered and many entries have already been made.

The fair opens on Tuesday with an agricultural parade and farm display, headed by automobiles bearing the municipal officials of the towns in Orangeburg county and containing the displays from a number of progressive Orangeburg farmers, who will demonstrate what is business in this agricultural age. Commissioner E J Watson will make the address of the occasion at the fair grounds immediately after the parade and the fair will be in full blast after that time.

The educational feature will be emphasized on Wednesday and the schools of Orangeburg county will contest for the Efficiency Banner, which is awarded to the successful school at each fair. Upon this day the parade will consist of floats entered by the various schools for cash prizes and also trade displays entered by progressive Orangeburg merchants for similar cash prizes. Entries for this parade have already been made to a considerable extent and its success is likewise assured.

Items of General Interest.

Capt J Lewis LaBruce, a popular citizen of Georgetown, died at Sumter Wednesday night of last week.

American soldiers continue to meet death at the hands of Mexican soldiers, several being shot this week as a result of Villa's attack upon the Carranza forces at Agua Prieta.

Virginia has elected to both branches of the General Assembly a heavy majority pledged to support the prohibition legislation which becomes effective November, 1916.

Agents of the federal department of commerce are expected to arrive in South Carolina within the next few days to begin an investigation into the prices of gasoline charged by various dealers throughout the State. A similar inquiry is now in progress in Georgia, principally in Atlanta, where gasoline prices have been constantly increasing recently. This inquiry will extend over the States in the Southeast.

ENGINEER SIDETRACKS DISEASE FOR HEALTH.

Tells How He Quickly "Railroaded" Stomach Trouble.

BY THE TANLAC ROUTE.

Former Seaboard Locomotive Driver Living at Brookland Tells Interesting Story of His Troubles.

Of the many glowing testimonials that have been given of the beneficial results accruing from a treatment of Tanlac, there is none stronger than that of H E Pierce of Brookland, just across the Congaree river from Columbia. Mr Pierce is well known in Columbia, particularly among the railroad men of that city. For a number of years he was a locomotive engineer in the employ of the Seaboard Air Line railroad. He resigned from "main line" some time ago and accepted the position as locomotive driver of the Guignard Brick Works that he might be near his family.

Mr Pearce was in very poor health and he almost despaired of being again brought to the normal, when he read the advertisement of Tanlac and saw what good the Premier Preparation was doing other people. He decided to try it. The results that Mr Pierce secured best can be described in his own language given in the following statement to T W Galyon, State agent for Tanlac:

"I have been suffering from some form of stomach trouble for the past five or six years. Everything I ate seemed to disagree with me and gave me a feeling of fullness in my stomach, with resultant gas and sour belching. I had tried almost every form of proprietary medicine that has ever been recommended, but I obtained very little relief from them.

"The first dose I took of Tanlac gave me almost instant relief and made me feel like a new man. Since that time my improvement has been steady and sure and I am now getting along nicely, although I have taken only one bottle. I feel sure that I have found the right medicine at last.

"I recommend Tanlac, which is well named the 'Master Medicine,' to anyone that has suffered as I have done."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is sold in Kingstree by the Kingstree Drug Co.

How to Prevent Croup.

It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs H M Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.
