COUNTY CANDIDATES

AT TRIO TUESDAY.

Candidates for Superintendent of Education taught school. He strongly advocated the improvement of rural schools and the enlightenment of children. Too much was being done for higher education to the neglect of elementary schools. He realizes that the office of Superintendent of Education is a man's size job, but means to fill it, if elected, in a competent manner. He believes in only competent teachers and intends to give rural schools most of his attention, while the whole of his services shall be devoted to the office, which he regards as the most important in the gift of the people. Mr McElveen received applause.

Mr J G McCullough, offering for re-election to the office of Superintendent of Education, following Mr McElveen, said it was delightful to come with beautiful words, but the man of works has done more. He gave an outline of the work accomplished during his tenure of office. He had attended many schools and traveled over 1,600 miles attending educational meetings. Last year there were in the county sixteen schools that ran less than six months, but there would not be more than five this year, Mr McCullough said, and that he always kept an eye open for the small schools and improved them whenever circumstances would permit. He takes his hat off to no man when it comes to better qualifications for school supervision work.

FOR TREASURER.

Candidates for the office of County Treasurer spoke next, Mr W Dodd Daniel being the first speaker. He pointed out that he was not a politician, but a farmer; was competent to fill the office, and if elected, would give the people of Williamsburg the best service of which he was capable. It was a pleasure to be with the people of Trio and he would appreciate their support at the primary.

Mr W E Snowden was the next speaker in the race for Treasurer. He regretted that limit of time prevented him from making a live, interesting literary address and would confine himself to a business talk. On account of the great calamity wrought by the storm, people were going to have a hard time paying their taxes and would want to know to whom they were paying their money. He assured them that he was capable and well qualified to fill this responsible office, and if elected, the people could feel assured that their business was in the hands of one who knows how to take care of it, and he thought it would be a sad thing "if Williamsburg couldn't elect a man to fill the office as acceptably as the present incumbent."

FOR HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr R B Smith said that he was no stranger, had been before them two years ago. He thought it was evident that there is a desire for a change in this important office, as evidenced by the number of candidates in the race from various parts of the county. He thanked the audience for their support two years ago and asked for a continuance with a few more votes added. He was assured of an increase of votes whenever he had been in the county.

Mr J W Cook, offering for re-election, said he was back on the job again. He thanked the voters for what they did for him 14 years ago, had been doing for him since and for what they were going to do for him two weeks hence. He thought every well established household required a "daddy" and a cook; they had these at the court house—"Daddy" Montgomery and J Wesley Cook. He had made a good cook, had never burned anyone's bread and didn't intend even to scorch it. Referring to tax executions, he said it was a matter over which he had absolute control, that frequently executions were issued on account of errors made by people in making tax returns. He was applauded.

Mr C J Rollins was the last candidate for Treasurer to speak. He said he was pleased to be with the citizens of Trio, told them he was making the race on his merits and if elected would endeavor to render the best service of which he was capable. Judge P M Brockinton, offering for re-election to the office of Probate Judge, with no opposition, made a very pleasing little address, thanking the people for their support and expressing his deep appreciation of the confidence they had placed in him.

Mr J J B Montgomery was called and presented "the next County Auditor", for he has no opposition. He said he had been working for the people of the county for 25 years in various capacities, and may be for 25 more. Said he had never made any promises but did his duty as he saw it. He was the youngest old man in the county and challenged anyone that didn't believe it. He referred to the system of making tax returns as being the cause of so many executions being issued, and said that it was not the fault of the Treasurer. He closed by thanking the people for what they did for him 14 years ago and for what they are going to do right on.

Mr J N Hammet, offering for Supervisor, was not present.

FOR CLERK OF COURT.

Mr H O Britton, for re-election to the office of Clerk of Court, told the audience he was again seeking the office on his record. He was not well and would not attempt to make a speech. It was his sixty-eighth birthday.

Mr J O Carroway was glad to have as a running mate one of Williamsburg's honored sons and had not a word of criticism to offer against him; he had been your efficient Clerk of Court for ten years. Mr Carroway said he was seeking the office on his own platform of fitness and ability. He had been asked why he quit preaching. He had not quit, he said, and would never refuse to tell the story of Jesus and His love, and that he bears the endorsement of the South Carolina conference. He had preached for 14 years at a salary at no time amounting to over $500; he had stood behind the plow and been his own plowman for two years in order to earn bread with which to feed the little olive branches with which God had blessed his home. He needed the office and would appreciate their support, he told the audience.

FOR HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Hon R K Wallace was the first of the candidates called, but not being present, Hon S A Graham was the first of the Legislative aspirants to appear on the stand, he merely announcing that he stood for re-election on his record.

Mr S O Eaddy, who aspires to represent the people of the eastern section of the county in the Legislature, said he believed there was something serious ahead, a situation that calls for deep and serious thought, for backbone and brains in the Legislative halls. He has these qualifications, he told the crowd, or he would not offer for the office. He also believes we have too many laws on the statute books; they are confusing, he said, and he would vote against every bill brought up unless he knew its passage was absolutely necessary. He believes in education and thinks it wrong to educate the masses and not the masses. It was wrong to rob the taxpayers of their money without letting a portion of it come back to them; believes in biennial sessions of the Legislature and is unalterably opposed to woman suffrage.

Mr J W Kennedy was the next speaker and told the audience that it was the "thesis" of his ambition to go to the State Legislature; to be the mouthpiece of the people of Williamsburg county, and that he had worked as hard as any man for white supremacy. He had no new bills to propose as their representative, and declared that he had never failed to concentrate an influence in Legislative halls. Thinks the man who owns only one hen and a brood of chicks deserves the best protection the law can give him. He promised if elected to post himself upon the finances of the county so as to enlighten an enquirer in an instant. He expatiated on the bonded indebtedness of the county and exclaimed with emphasis that "relief must come." His idea of the tobacco warehouse business was to have a sworn weigher and an expert grader, who will sort the tobacco into grades one, two, three, etc, and see to it that if Mr A gets 20c a pound for his grade 2 Mr B gets the same.

Mr D E McCutchen was the last legislative candidate called. He was sorry he had not met more of the Trio people, but told his hearers that since the storm he had not been able to get into their community. Had been very busy as one of their county commissioners, especially since the relief work had been taken up in the county by the federal government. Mr McCutchen said he was no politician, was only a plain farmer citizen of the county and if elected would give people the best services in him. He received applause.

CANDIDATES FOR SHERIFF.

There are eight candidates for this office and they were all on hand Tuesday cocked and primed. They are a bunch of good fellows and there seems to exist not the least tinge of bitterness between them because of any real or presumable advantage one may have over the other.

Mr W E Allen was the first of the big eight to be called by the chairman. He simply announced his candidacy; said it was impossible to make a speech, but he would make a good Sheriff. Mr H U Kinder said he was no orator; that when he should have been learning to make speeches he was between the plow handles on his father's farm. He regards the office of Sheriff as one of much importance and promised that if elected he would do everything in his power to fill it creditably, and proposed to maintain at his own expense a pack of well trained blood hounds for the free use of the people of the county whenever their services might be needed. He said the present Sheriff was "a splendid gentleman, but he is your old Sheriff and I am going to be your young Sheriff"; that he started running for the office three years ago and was going to be in the second primary. He thanked the people for the support given him four years ago, and concluded by telling the preacher-beer story and asked that if they couldn't help Kinder not to help the bear, as he had worked hard for the office and wanted to be Sheriff because he needed the job.

Mr J H Epps was next speaker. He gave a brief sketch of his career; he was born and raised at Cades, and had been the plow handles until it was decided there were too many of them on their father's farm and he had to get out and seek other employment. He had worked with road engineers on public highways, was elected to the Florence police force and later to the office of chief of police at Kingstree, to which position he had been elected for a second term and feels peculiarly fitted for the office of Sheriff, to obtain which he asked the support of the audience.

Mr Geo J Graham, who has filled the office under the auditorium of the court house for nearly sixteen years, told the crowd that if they saw fit to elect him for four more years he would serve them to the best of his ability and would not ask for their suffrage again. He said he could not make them any promises, as Mr Kinder had done, with reference to the pack of trained blood hounds, because he regarded them as a farce, although he had always kept two hounds at the county jail but put little confidence in them. The Sheriff said he had served the people of the county in many ways, that he was the only living man arrested for connection with the Klu Klux Klan. He wouldn't promise to keep hotel or open house at Kingstree for his friends when they came to town as Mr Epps had promised, nor could he afford to pay from $100 to $150 for blood hounds, but he would do his best to uphold the law at all times.

Mr J Y McGill announced his candidacy and said "If you think I can serve you as your next Sheriff I ask you to give me your support." He was no speaker and did not think it required a speech-making man to make a good Sheriff.

Mr W T Wilkins announced himself as a candidate for Sheriff; told the audience that he was competent to fill the position and would appreciate their support.

Mr W E Brockinton thanked the people of Trio for the support they had given him in previous campaigns and told them that it was his highest ambition to make them the best Sheriff they had ever had.

Mr W T Rowell, who had so efficiently and patiently presided over the meeting, and in many other forms shown his big heartedness towards the forty odd candidates on the ground, did not intend to make a speech, but his friends insisted, whereupon he told them that he was 36 years old and they had known him all of his life. He had no political record but wanted a chance to make one and thanked them for what they were going to do for him on the 29th of August. Said his office would be at Kingstree and he'd be on the job, "and when you come up there, come to see Tom."

The county candidates are speaking at Greelyville today. They will be at Cades next Tuesday.

Just the Thing for Diarrhoea.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted over a week," writes W C Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere.

No matter how troubled the waters may be, if you look you can always find a stone upon which to step or a harbor in which safety may be found. Life holds more joy than sorrows for those who cultivate an open mind.

Cure for Cholera Morbus.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." Obtainable everywhere.

The loafer, the kicker and the bluffer are three of a kind, and the breed is not conducive to the welfare of any community. If they could see themselves as others see them they would not be seen at all.
