COLUMBIA MAN GAINS 24 POUNDS ON TANLAC.

Atlantic Coast Line Yard Foreman Given Remarkable Results.

HEALTH WAS RESTORED

Had Been in Very Bad Health Over Two Years and Almost Fast Going for Four Months.

Though he had been almost constantly under treatment for four months, and intermittently during the previous two years, and though he had wasted away until he was hardly more than skin and bones, and could hardly walk because of his weakness, G G Anderson, of 900 Whaley St, yard foreman at Columbia for the Atlantic Coast Line railway, gained 24 pounds on seven bottles of Tanlac and was restored to good health by "the master medicine." His statement follows:

"I suffered from a greatly run down and weakened condition. I had been in very bad health for several years, and just before I began to take Tanlac I had been continuously under medical treatment for four months. I was told I had nervous indigestion.

"For almost two years I had been so weak I could hardly work. I was just skin and bones, I was in such bad health, and I scarcely ever ate more than a few bites at a meal. I was in bad shape. One time, shortly before I began taking Tanlac, I was under treatment continuously for twenty-one weeks and steadily got worse. I just could not eat, and what little I did force down hurt me and caused me to feel puffed up and gave me a severe pain in my chest. My nerves were very bad, too. Really, I was just about past going at all.

"I had read about Tanlac, and finally I lost heart in the treatment I was under and began taking Tanlac.

"The relief Tanlac gave me was as follows: I took seven bottles and gained 24 pounds. I picked up right away and added a lot of strength. When the seventh bottle was gone I was really a new man: in health and strength. I did not begin to feel much better until I had taken the second bottle of Tanlac, but then I went up right along in strength and weight. Soon I was eating three big meals a day, so great an improvement did Tanlac make in the condition of my stomach.

"I quit taking Tanlac in May and I feel fine now, and I have been a different man ever since Tanlac built me up.

"I am glad to recommend Tanlac and to give you this endorsement, for it may help others to find a way to regain their health. I sure can recommend Tanlac highly, for I do not know of a better remedy, and I have spent many dollars for many kinds of stomach remedies that did me no good."

Tanlac, the master medicine, is sold by Kingstree Drug Co., Kingstree; Mallard Lumber Co, Greelyville; R P Hinnant, Suttons.

KINGSTREE EVIDENCE FOR KINGSTREE PEOPLE.

The Statements of Kingstree Residents Are Surely More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers.

Home testimony is real proof. Public statements of Kingstree people carry real weight.

What a friend or neighbor says compels respect. The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts.

Here's a Kingstree man's statement. And it's for Kingstree people's benefit.

Such evidence is convincing. That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills.

SA Nettles, ex-hotel prop, Mill St, Kingstree, says: "Several years ago I hurt my back, lifting a heavy piece of iron pipe. After that my kidneys acted irregularly and my back pained me severely. I was so sore and lame I could hardly stoop. The kidney secretions passed too freely at times, and then again they were too scanty. The least cold I got would settle on my kidneys and make me worse. When a friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them as directed and they relieved all symptoms of kidney trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr Nettles had. Foster-Milburn Co, Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

COTTON WILT; HOW TO PREVENT ITS SPREAD

A recently Wilted Plant side by side with the healthy resistant plant.—A common Occurrence.—James Island, South Carolina, August.

At this season of the year cotton wilt is very active; and reports from various sections of the State indicate that this troublesome disease is more widespread this season than ever before. Until recently, wilt has been confined to the coastal plain but now it is also being reported from the Piedmont section; so, every farmer in the State should keep a close lookout for the disease and as soon as it is found take steps to prevent its spread.

Plants affected with this disease shed their leaves, wilt and die. Upon examination, the wilted plants will be found to be black on the inside. If the stem is split open black streaks are found beneath the bark and in the tissues of the stem. This black coloration is very characteristic of wilt.

Cotton wilt is caused by a fungus which grows into the roots and stems of the plants from the soil. It gets in the water ducts and vessels of the plants and finally plugs them up; and in this way, cuts off the circulation of water and plant food, causing the plants to wilt and die. This fungus will live in the soil indefinitely so that soil once infected with it will remain diseased for a long time. The disease is spread from one place to another through plows or implements of any kind that carry soil from the diseased areas to other parts of the farm. It might also be carried in drainage water.

Where the disease is found in the fields at this season of the year, precautions should be taken to prevent its spread. Cut out the diseased patches and do not plow through them, and prevent drainage water from these patches from getting on to other parts of the farm. It is also a good plan to pull up and destroy the diseased plants where wilt occurs in small patches.

When wilt is already prevalent, it can be controlled by the use of disease resistant varieties. The Dixie and the Dillon are two varieties which are almost immune to the trouble. These varieties are being grown successfully on lands which are so badly diseased that no other varieties will grow on them at all. The United States Department of Agriculture and Clemson College are co-operating with a number of farmers throughout the State in the production of high grade wilt resistant seed and will be glad to put those who are suffering from wilt in touch with the people who have such seed for sale.

THE ONLY GOOD WAY TO KEEP MILK SWEET

Follow Two Simple Rules and Milk Will Bring the Best Price on the Market

When milk or cream is sold from the farm, doubtless the farmer has often had losses due to the products becoming sour. Whether the milk or cream is intended for the table, the creamery or the milk market, it must be sweet if it is to bring the best price.

To keep milk sweet, just two simple things must be carefully looked after: (1) It must be cooled as completely and as quickly after milking as possible, and (2) absolute cleanliness of pails, cans, and cows must be secured. If this is done, thunder storms will no longer sour the milk. The warm, damp weather which we have just before thunder storms really does tend to cause milk to sour because it has not been properly cared for.

A Milk Pail That Makes It Easier. The Top is Two-Thirds Covered and There Are No Seams to Harbor Germs.

The souring takes place because little invisible plants called bacteria get into the milk in dirt or by lurking in the corners and seams of poorly cleaned pails and cans. The remedy is plain. Keep the bacteria out by using seamless pails and cans and seeing that absolutely no dirt or dust gets into the milk in the stable or anywhere else.

Profits from milk will be greatly increased by good supply and proper use of clean hot water and an ice house or good cold spring.

—Clemson College, S. C.

The extension division of Clemson College is well equipped to assist farmers in any part of South Carolina with any problems in livestock that may arise. The college has two men giving all their time to beef cattle and swine extension work, three dairy extension experts and one extension poultryman. This is one of the largest and best equipped animal husbandry extension forces in the United States. South Carolina farmers should take advantage of their opportunities along this line to get expert help free of cost.

The insect fight must begin in the fall and go right on through the winter, spring and summer. Burn the grass off the terraces as soon as frost falls on it, and by so doing kill thousands of insects.

An Old Sweetheart of Mine.

As one who cons at evening o'er an album all alone,
And muses on the faces of the friends that he has known,
So I turn to the leaves of fancy till, in shadowy design,
I find the smiling features of an old sweetheart of mine.

I can see the pink sunbonnet and the little checkered dress
She wore when I first kissed her and she answered the caress,
With the written declaration that "as surely as the vine
Grew round the stump," she loved me—that old sweetheart of mine.

And again I feel the pressure of her slender little hand,
As we used to talk together of a future we had planned—
When I should be a poet, and with nothing else to do
But write the tender verses that she sets music to.

When we should live together in a little cozy cot
Hid in a nest of roses, with a fairy garden spot,
Where the vines were ever fruited, and the weather ever fine,
And the birds were ever singing for that old sweetheart of mine.

When I should be her lover forever and a day,
And she my faithful sweetheart till the golden hair was gray;
And we should be so happy that when either's lips were dumb
They would not smile in Heaven till the other's kiss had come.

But, ah! my dream is broken by a step upon the stair,
And the door is softly opened, and—my wife is standing there;
Yet with eagerness and rapture all my vision I resign
To greet the living presence of that old sweetheart of mine.

SHE DROVE 1,357 MILES.

Rock Hill Teacher Came from Michigan in Her Car.

Rock Hill, September 23:—Miss Ina Olesen, supervising teacher of music and drawing in the Rock Hill city schools, who lives in Big Rapids, Mich., drove her little Saxon roadster through from her home to this city, arriving here the morning of the school opening. The distance was 1,357 miles and she made the trip in 10 days, using 70 gallons of gasoline. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Gertrude Van Antwerp, who teaches in Indiana. The trip, which carried them through about a dozen States, proved a most enjoyable one, with no mishaps to mar it, and the young ladies arrived in Rock Hill as fresh as daisies.

The above speaks well for the little Saxon roadster, which is sold in Kingstree by Mr M F Heller and is very popular among the numerous owners in the community.

Taxation Plans That Would Help

This is the alarming situation as it exists today. Home-ownership is necessary for the preservation of the earth's fertility and the development of the highest rural civilization, and for this reason every State should adopt such policies as will encourage home-ownership and discourage tenancy. This can probably best be done through the power of taxation, a suggested programme being as follows:

1. Tax a resident owner's first $1,000 of real estate at only half the usual rate.
2. See that personal property is not taxed at a higher rate than real estate.
3. See that land held out of use for speculative purposes is taxed as much per acre as land held and occupied by industrious resident citizens.

4. To insure publicity, require the publication in the county papers of the rate per acre at which every man's land is assessed, each township, beat or school district being published separately; and compel the tax assessors to fix a uniform standard of values for cattle, hogs, horses, farm products, etc. Publicity offers the best way to remedy present inequalities and discrimination by which the strong and powerful are favored and the weak robbed.—Progressive Farmer.

No matter which political party is in power, the other side consistently and vociferously yells "pork" until it gets its own hand in the barrel.

Orphanage Day.

Attention is once more called to the Orphanage Work day that has been announced for September 30 inst. Appeals have gone out from the various institutions to Sunday-school superintendents and all others who are likely to be interested in the project. Emphasis might be given to the fact that Sunday-school and church people are not the only ones who could take part in such a deserving work. The destitute and helpless orphan should appeal to every individual within our State. Contributions may be sent to any institution that one may prefer. It certainly looks as if any person might afford to give one day out of the year as Labor day for the orphan children and contribute the results of the day, or the income of the day, to their care and training. It is to be hoped that thousands and thousands of our people will co-operate in the Work Day effort.

Stop the First Cold.

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drain the energy and sap the vitality.
