

Harmony Presbyterian Auxiliary.

Harmony Presbyterian Auxiliary, embracing the women's and junior societies of Clarendon, Georgetown, Lee, Sumter and Williamsburg Presbyterian churches, met with the Sardinia church on April 16, 17 and 18. All the officers were present, and most of the churches were represented by two delegates.

Reports of the work were encouraging, especially so was the spirit of consecration to future effort.

Helpful and most inspiring addresses were made by Mrs Beamlett, president of the State Synodical, Mrs Thornbury of Atlanta, Mrs S P Fulton, one of our Japan workers, and Rev Hugh R Murchison of Lancaster.

On Monday evening the young people presented a pageant—"Christ in America," which was splendid.

The same officers were elected for the next two years as follows: Mrs N Y Alford, president; Miss Bettie Aycock, secretary; Miss Annie Anderson, treasurer.

This was the first time that the Presbyterian had been entertained by this congregation—it being a comparatively new organization, and the good people were untiring in their efforts to make the stay of the visitors pleasant as well as profitable.

The ladies served lunch on the church grounds each day, which added very much to the social feature, as it caused the intermingling of visitors and hostesses to a greater extent than could have been brought about in any other way. There were three invitations for the meeting next year, Mayesville being the place selected.

Effect Of The War On The South.

Not being a Sahara, the mobilization of troops in the South will direct attention to the rich natural resources of the section and, when the war ends, addition to the permanent population will result. The scarcity of food, to which so much publicity is now given, is likely to turn the attention of people to undeveloped lands purchasable at low prices upon which food can be profitably raised.

In all the cities and towns will be great activity. The demand for cotton textiles will not diminish while the war continues if the farmers shall raise enough food to feed the people. In Charleston, for example, where the navy yard has for years been under criticism from Republican partisans, building and repairing of ships will proceed on a multiplied scale and its future will be assured. In every part of the South, especially of the Southeast, work will go on at high pressure.

The preparation for war will knit the country together industrially. Tens of thousands of workingmen and soldiers will be brought to the South who, otherwise, would never see it, and, when the war ends, the likelihood is that the flow of population in our direction will be swelled by streams of foreign immigrants.

In short, it is not possible to think of this war without foreseeing redistribution and readjustment and a part of the country that has been longest and most neglected by the outside world is certain to be most favorably affected.—The State.

Two young ladies of Georgetown have enlisted in the naval service of the United States government, Misses Daisy Nolan and Louise Colbert. Both stood the required examinations during the last visit of the naval surgeons and are now at the call of their country.

Mrs. W. F. Pickle, of Rising Fawn, Ga., writes: "We have used Thedford's Black-Draught as a family medicine.
