Items of Local Interest.

Cotton was selling on the local market at 29¢; seed at $71 per ton, or $73 in car lots.

Mr E H Thomas of Lake City was a caller at our office today.

Mr E L Montgomery of Cowards spent Sunday in town.

Hon Jno D Cappelman of Charleston spent Monday in Kingstree on professional business.

Union services will be held at the Presbyterian church Sunday night. Rev G T Harmon will preach.

Miss Cornelia Cockfield of Johnsonville has been made athletics editor of Chicora college annual.

Mr and Mrs J B Alsbrook of Greelyville and Mr A W McIntosh of Florence were in Kingstree this week.

Mr P C Becton has been elected president of the Law association of the University of South Carolina.

Special attention is called to the notice in this paper by County Food Administrator J D O'Bryan. It is important.

Heyward Brockinton has been chosen orderly critic of the Euphrasian society of the University of South Carolina.

Miss Lottie Naomi Blakely and Mr C P Ogburn, both of Trio, were married by Probate Judge P M Brockinton at his office here yesterday.

Saturday will be ground hog day. Let us hope the little animal will not see his shadow, which, according to an old tradition, will indicate that winter is past.

Mr and Mrs P B Thorn and Miss Selma Thorn were summoned to Hemingway this week by the illness of Miss Rubie Thorn, who is suffering with pneumonia.

Rev Dr Walter Mitchell will preach and celebrate the holy communion at the Episcopal church here Sunday at 11 a. m. He will also officiate at Boyd school at 3:30 p. m.

We regret to learn this morning that the condition of Mr Thomas McCutchen, whose illness with pneumonia was announced in these columns last week, is not at all encouraging.

Dr Walter H Harper of New York and Messrs M B Thomas of Columbia and Sam P Stackley of Branchville are in Kingstree today for examination by the local board for army service.

Miss Cora Sprott, who has been stenographer for Mr George A McElveen, has secured a similar position with the Gallivan Construction Co at Charleston and entered upon her new duties today.

Wilmot Scott Allen, oldest child of Mr and Mrs M L Allen, is ill with pneumonia. The little fellow is being tenderly cared for by his mother and Miss Bruce Hamilton, trained nurse, and is getting along as well as could be expected.

G C Bristol, veterinary surgeon, who has had considerable experience in the service of the United States government in the care of horses being transported to Europe, and who lectured here on several occasions, has located here to practice his profession.

Mrs W H Welch and sister, Miss Charlotte Winslow, were summoned by telegram Saturday to the bedside of their father, Mr Robt J Winslow, who was in a critical condition at his home in Hobbsville, N C, and died at 3 o'clock that afternoon, before his children arrived.

Teachers' Meeting Saturday.

About forty teachers were present at the meeting of the association held in the school auditorium here Saturday, representing schools in nearly every section of the county. The meeting, which those present claim to be the best ever held by the association, was opened with prayer by Rev G T Harmon, who also made an interesting talk.

A special and most interesting feature of the program was the dramatic reading by several of the first grade pupils of the Kingstreeschool, conducted by Miss Agnes Erckmann. Mr Montgomery, principal of the school here, gave an interesting talk relative to the organization and the cooperation of teachers.

Miss Erckmann was chosen delegate to the State Teachers' convention, which meets at Columbia on March 15.

A delightful musical program was rendered at the meeting by Miss Edith Sturgiss and Mrs L W Gilland.

Algie King Dead.

Algie King, eldest son of Mr and Mrs H H King, died at the home of his parents on West Main street at 3:05 o'clock Monday afternoon of last week, aged 23 years. The young man had been in bad health for more than a year. He recovered somewhat during the summer and was able to go about, and friends thought him on the road to complete recovery, but in October he was again confined to his bed and gradually grew worse until death came. The remains were taken to Bethune Tuesday for interment.

Mr and Mrs W H Carr, Mr and Mrs P S Courtney, Revs D A Phillips and G T Harmon and Mrs Dell Sedgwick were among those accompanying the body.

Pay Your Y M C A Pledge.

The treasurer of the Y M C A war fund in this county, Mr Geo A McElveen, urgently requests all who signed pledges of contribution to this purpose to come forward with the money. Fifty per cent of the amount pledged became due some time ago, but in a great majority of cases the matter has been apparently overlooked. The local treasurer is being called upon by the national officers for money and the matter should not longer be neglected by those who signed pledges and have not paid the amount promised.

Important Notice to Merchants.

The following telegram has just been received and I beg to call the attention of every merchant in Williamsburg county to same:

The President's proclamation requiring sale of equal weights of substitute with wheat flour is the law and went into force Monday morning. It must be strictly obeyed; no exceptions are allowed. Contracts for flour afford no excuse, but aggravate conditions. Prohibits merchants from filling such contracts unless pound for pound of substitute is sold at the same time. This order applies to all sales, whether to wholesalers, retailers or consumers.

J D O'BRYAN,

Food Adm, Wmsburg County. Kingstree, January 30, 1918.

Death of Miss Jane Salters.

Miss Jane M Salters, age 78, passed away quietly last night at her home at Salters. She was a daughter of the deceased Capt John A Salters, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs Sarah Gordon and Mrs W B McCullough. For fourteen years she was an invalid, and although she was a great sufferer, her life was an example of Christian piety and cheerfulness. She is mourned by a host of relatives and friends.

We are glad to learn that the population of Kingstree will soon be increased by three. Dr E E Montgomery, who has been located in Charleston for quite a while, was prospecting here last week and he has decided to cast his lot with us. He, with his wife and little child, will occupy Dr A M Snider's home on Railroad avenue, and Dr Montgomery will assist him in the practice of his profession, which he has been prevailed upon to resume.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Kellahan Warehouse, which, last year, was operated by the firm of Johnson-Mills Co, will be open during the coming season under the management of Johnson-Nesmith Co, Mr W E Nesmith, of Kingstree, becoming a partner. This new firm needs no introduction to the tobacco growers of the county, whose patronage is solicited only upon a guarantee of fair and square dealing.

MR J Q HARRELL KILLED BY TRAIN

A TRAGIC ACCIDENT OCCURRED NEAR LANES MONDAY--STUCK BY PASSENGER TRAIN 78.

Mr J Q Harrell, roadmaster for the Atlantic Coast Line railroad between Charleston and Florence, was instantly killed late Monday evening near Lanes by train 78, the local passenger train from Charleston to Florence.

Mr Harrell, with a negro helper, was riding toward Kingstree on the motor car, and owing to the thick smoke from burning debris along the track did not become aware of the approach of the train until it was almost upon him. The negro helper who was on the truck with Mr Harrell, with his face toward the train, told Mr Harrell of its approach, but the roadmaster, thinking he could reach Lanes ahead of the train, paid no heed. He might have saved his life, had he jumped from the motor car as his negro helper did, who escaped unhurt.

Mr Harrell was about 45 years old. He entered the service of the A C L as section hand when quite a young man and worked himself up to roadmaster. He was born in the Cades section and for years has been a familiar personage at this place as he passed up and down the road. He formerly lived at Florence, but recently moved his family to Lanes. He was a member of Walnut Camp, Woodmen of the World. He leaves a widow and several children.

Mr Harrell was very popular with the men under him and with other employees with whom he came in contact, and was held in high esteem by the officials of the road.

The Story of a Dime.

I am just a slick old dime. Once I was shiny and new. I had nine sisters, and we were all given to a boy on his birthday. He looked at us a long while, then decided to put me in his small bank. I was very happy. But one day he came and put me in his purse with a nickel and a penny, and started to church. But on his way he traded me for an ice cream cone, some fruit and candy. I was then used to buy a cigar, and my heart was heavy when I dropped into a cash register. But soon I was needed for change, and found myself with nine other dimes. I held my breath. I was chosen again, this time by a little girl for her small bank. I lay quite still for a long, long time, but by and by was put on a train and carried to New York. From there I was sent across the ocean to France and Belgium by the American Red Cross to help the little starving children there.

Mrs R D Guerry Barred at Clio.

Clio, Ga, January 22:--The remains of Mrs R D Guerry, who died Friday in Savannah, were brought here and interred in Laurel Hill cemetery. A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services, which were conducted by Rev T I Nease, assisted by Rev T W Shealey. The deceased was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and the members had funeral ceremonies at the grave.

Mrs Guerry was the wife of Dr Dave Guerry; a native of this county, but four years ago they moved to Clio, Ga, where Dr Guerry has been successfully practicing medicine.

The illness and death of Mrs Guerry came as a great shock to her friends and relatives, who believed her to be in the best of health until summoned to her bedside to find her seriously ill. After making the trip, by automobile, from Clio to Savannah, a distance of thirty miles, Mrs Guerry developed a case of lobar pneumonia and after an illness of one week, passed away. She is survived by her husband and six small children, her mother, three brothers and four sisters, one of whom is Mrs Fred P Guerry, of this county.
