A gentleman from Lynches Creek informed us that while on his way to Court last Monday he was attracted by a loud noise in the woods. He stopped his horse and buggy for a minute to see what was the matter, when he saw a fat looking cur dog run out of the woods pursued by two foxes. The tables seemed to have been turned, and the usual chase reversed. The dog made first class speed, and the race was continued for a considerable distance, the foxes occasionally taking a bite at the tail of the dog. At last accounts the dog had reached the banks of the creek, and was rapidly moving on. Where he is at present we are unable to tell, but we do give this as a real matter of fact.
