Deaths. Mrs. W. James Fullwood, daughter of Dr. A. H. Frierson of Lynchbug, died last Friday We extend our sympathies to our neighbor, Mr. John Reid, for the loss of his infant child. Frances, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Pollock, of Columbia, died on last Thursday from congestion of the lungs. The Greenville News of the 9th contained the funeral notice of Julius Clarence, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crosswell. Mr. William Glaze of Columbia, well known to many of our readers in connection with the jewelry establishment so long controlled by him, died from paralysis a few days ago. He has long been identified with the business interests of Columbia, and in all the relations of life was honored with the respect and love of friends and associates. He was born in Chester Co., March 1815, and has spent most of his long life in Columbia. Court. Court was in session all last week, engaged on the civil docket. The docket may have been civil, but some of the proceedings, more especially the speeches, were much to the ontrary. The snit for slander, Bradham vs. Pennington, occupied several days last week and resuited in a verdict for damages to the amount of $5000. On the question of an appeal for a new trial, the Judge decided to grant the motion naless the plaintiff would consent to reduce the damages to $1000.

Judge Cothran made a most favorable im pression upon the bar and people of Sumter during the late session of court. A terror to evil-docrs, learned in the law, and an honest gentleman-what more could we want?

Accidents. We were just congratulating ourselves hat no gin accident would be chronicled this week, when the following was told us: A colored boy named Simon was badly ginned up a short time ago at Mr. Moran's gin near Packsville. His right arm was badly cut, and several fingers taken completely off. He recovering. Peter Wilder an employee at Epperson's saw mill got his left arm badly cut by the saw last week.

Wild Shooting.

Last Tueday about mid-night, a colored coliceman was sitting on a barrel at Eberhart & Wroten's fruit stand, when he saw a man cross the street from Mr. Lowry's corner, and after looking around, apparently to see if any one was in sight, walked to the Messrs. Folsoms' jewelry establishment and tried the doors and windows. The policeman hailed and well filled with ad- him, and asked "who he was," and receiving no answer, commenced firing on the suspect-

We have received a copy of the U.S. Salary List and Civil Service Rules," published Ly Henry L. Copp, a lawyer of Washington, D.C. The funncially inquisitive mind will find much in it to satisfy its craving, esecially in the matter of official salaries. It also contains the Civil Service Rules, and has the examinations required of ap-bicants for places under the government. Mesors. Latham, Alexander & Co., of New York, send us a very pretty book with gilt edges and fancy letter press, filled with a arge amount of information about king cotion. It contains portraits of the firm, and several other cats, and statistics of the sales, prices and receipts of cotton from 1876 to 1813, inclusive. The book is published for fremiation among the patrons of the firm and contains much useful information.

All lovers of a good comedy should not fail to see the performance of Joaquin Miller's "Silent Man" at Music Hall on next Thursday night the 18th. The correspondent of the New York Dramatic News says : "The Frank Evans Comedy Co., closed a sucessful engagement at the Academy of Music, New Orleans, on Sept. 19th. Our theatre goers appreciated the acting of this excellent company, each member performing his or her respective part in a way that was all that could be desired." The Company plays in Charleston to-night.

> Boy Cigarette Smokers. It is a rare thing to find a fast boy who will listen to a word of advice, but still we hope that some of our boys will be induced to take warning from the fate of a young Brooklynite about fifteen years of age who recently died from nicotine poisoning caused by smoking cigarettes. Just about the time when they ought to be at work diligently, learning something that will be of use to them in life, too many of our boys are trying to ape the habits of The Premium List of the Darlington Agri- grown men and think it's an indication of
