Luther.

At Eisleben, in Germany, on the th day of November, 1483, was born a great Reformer, whose fourth central anniversary the Lutheran will, the arch throughout the world has latecelebrated. In the fulness of time raises men for His work, and when the world could no longer bear the un-checked superstition and intolerance of Bonne, Lather appeared upon the scene.

A little Norwalk boy got a sliver in his foot, and a motion to poultice the wound, of the Reformer. Romish theoloundertook to answer him, and there as was ordered to appear at Rome and answer. The elector of Saxony terfered and prevented Luther going that journey, whence it is not pro-table be sould ever have returned. He published other works, constantly adand averaging of the Pope, and even-tually attacked the whole doctrinal syston of the Roman Church. But for the intervantion of his friends Luther would have been destroyed by the Roman power, but his teachings were embraced on all sides, and Romanism yes thrown on the defensive. He lived to see Protestantism well started on its medicant career. He was over forty sees of age when he married Katharina son Bora, who proved a most useful helpmate and a great support in subse-Absolute faith in his mission as di rectly from God was combined in Luther with the most sublime courage and the most gigantic will. He was indeed specially endowed with the traits of character and the gifts of mind and heart that belitted one for the great

All Protestantism may afford to lay neide any jealeusies in paying tribute of admiration to the great Reformer.

Boys, Don't.

Don't smoke eigarettes. It is a bad tice and injurious to your health; and then it looks so ugly to see a boy walking the streets puffing a cigarette.

A signette-smoking boy is not likely to make many friends among merchants or other business men. Boys, don't idle around the streets, particularly of a night. If your lessons are learned for the next day, then stay at home and read an instructive book or play some harmless game. If you are at work in a store, office or shop, de-vote a part of each night to study. The streets are not proper places for boys after nightfall-boys there contract bad habits, one of which is mentioned above.

Boys, don't touch intoxicating liquora. The drinking of liquor is a bad habit. It causes people to commit a great many sine and crimes; and it also destroys both soul and body. Again no man of business wants a boy in his employ that drinks liquor.
Now, boys, remember these things-don't smoke, don't idle, don't drink.

A Mighty Myth.

Some time since a woman delivered lecture in Lancastire, England, against ('bristianity, in which she declared that the Gospel parrative of the life of Christ is a myth or fable. One of the mill-hands who listened to her obtained leave to ask a question.

'The question,' said he, 'I want to ask the lady is this: Thirty years ago I was a curse to the town, everybody shrank from me that had any respect for himself. I often tried to do better, but could not succeed. The teetotalers got hold of me, but I broke the pledge so often that they said it was no use trying me any longer; then the police got hold of me, and I was taken before the magistrates, and they tried; and next I was sent to prison, and the wardens tried what they could do; but though they all tried I was nothing better, but rather worse.

'Now you say Christ is a myth, but when I tried, and the teetotalers, the police, the magistrates, and the wardens AND LIVER CURE is established on just of the prison all tried in vain, then this principle. It realizes that Christ took hold of me, touched my Sabbath-school, and I ask, if Christ is a is stronger than all the others put to- and pain from the system.

My cousin and I had a valuable stallion worth $400 which had a very bad spavin and was pronounced by four eminent veterinary surgeons, beyond any cure, and that the horse was done forever. As a last resort I advised my cousin to try a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure. It had a magical effect, the third bottle cured it and the horse is as well as ever.
