Rev. C. C. BROWN, Editor. BAIL ON, O SHIP OF STATE. Thou, too, sail on, O ship of State!
Sailor, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
with all the hopes of future years,
is hanging breathless on thy fate!
We know what Master laid thy keel, What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel, What workmen wrought thy rios of steer.
Who made each mast and sail and rope,
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!
Par not each sudden sound, and shock,
The of the wave and not the rock;

The but the flapping or the sail, and not a rent made by the gale ! in spite of rock and tempest's roar, in spite of false lights on the shore, Seil on, nor fear to breast the sea Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee, Our hearts, our bopes, our prayers, our tears, Our faith triumphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee are all with thee!

The Iron Crown of Lombardy.

The cathedral contains several relics of great antiquity, among them the iron grown which has pressed so manuagust ows from Constantine's to Napoleon's.
On asking to see it I was startled to that the cost would be five lire (or francs) exactly five times as much as the most expensive exhibition, sacred or accular. I had hitherto seen in Italy, and ten times the sum usually exacted. But I ceased to be surprised when the meristan called a custodian, the custodian called a priest, and the priest with some native dignity, like Friar Took—accompanied by acolytes bearing four great silver candelabra and other mered properties. The candlesticks were placed on the balustrade of a side chapel where the relic is kept; tapers were put into them and lighted, and the then recited a short orison before the alter, above which is a sort of press, the of angels bearing the instruments of passion. The custodian then mounted a ladder and opened the first door, which disclosed a second one with two leaves of beautiful gilded bronze work; these, being opened, showed a rare curtain of golden tissue, and that falling, revealed the treasures—a great cross set with practions stones and crystal, and other objects which I did not notice, perturbed to I was by the ceremony and the attenthe people in the church. The famous coronal, inclosed in a circular glass case, was then taken down and displayed to me by the elder acolyte, who recited its his-Nov 18-tj JAMES McDOWELL. tory for my edification. The foundation origin of the crown is a narrow iron hand believed by the devout to have been made out of a nail which pierced our Saviour's hand; this is incased with a broad, thick gold circlet, inlaid with three rows of immense jewels in a splendid simple, enameled, Byzantine patone of the most significant facts in its memorable history is that it was never taken out of Lombardy until this ury. What Charlemage did not do what Charles V. did not do, what Naoleen, with his stupendous audacity, did not do, the unchronicled Francis Joseph II. presumed to do. He had the unigar impudence to carry this vencrable relic and symbol of universal intereignty to Vienna, where it remained for seven years. It was restored by Victor Emmanuel, who might most justly have used it to crown himself king of united Italy, but refrained with that curious mixture of personal modesty and want of imagination which was a characteristic in common between him-

Can't You Sleep? Many persons find themselves troubbled by wakefulness. Some resort to Hydrate of Chloral and other drugs to produce sleep. Such drugs, if their use is once begun .have to be continued, and in increasing doses, and every effort should be made to induce sleep in some other way. Among the methods that have been suggested, is the stopping of all study or serious reading, half an hour before bed-time, and to take sufficient exercise with dumb-bells or Indian clubs to produce a warm glow of the body, and then jump into bed. In winter, sleep in a flannel night-gown, and between blankets instead of cold sheets. The attempt, when in bed, to read some amusing novel may be made, in order to divert the mind from the wakefulness. A second method is, instead of reading, to repeat a poem with which one is familiar. Another plan is, to draw in a long, slow breath by the mouth, and force the breath out through the nose, imagining that the two currents can be distinctly seen. The mind is to be kept fixed upon the operation of breathing, and the endeavor to see the currents as they are expelled. One of our editorial associates finds relief by wetting a cloth with cold water and placing across the forehead, and binding it in place by means of a towel. It is worth while to give either of these methods a thorough trial rather than to resort to drugs of any kind .-American Agriculturist for November.

Norway. Norway impresses one as a country that has just been discovered instead of as a land of such ripe civilization that its sons were able to discover America half a century before Columbus. Monuments, castles, ruins, buildings, hoary or memorable it has none. Sweden seems much more ancient. Norway apas the valleys and as deep as the mountains are high. The people seem so content with the mountains, valleys and | dated 20th of August, 1884. fjords that they press no further claim on a country so lavish in these. The cultivated at all; farming has a very stocked barn, larder, or what people with our ideas would call a dairy. The milk often has a queer taste, the butter is bad and the cheese is worse. The with cookies and gingersnaps and pies and preserves. The poorest farmer in Nov 4 the United States can have cabbages and turnips and pumpkins and corn; here, the comparatively well to do countryman must content himself with flat bread, milk and the abominable cheese, fish and the poorest kind of meat. This is not the fault of the soil, however. It is because the Norwegian peasant rather despises vegetables from his scant knowledge of them. If ten kinds of vegetables, including asparagus and seven kinds of berries will grow in Tromso, at nearly 69 degrees North latitude, this is proof evident that they would grow further South, if the natives would but make the attempt to cultivate them. I devoutly wish that a few skilful Americans would come here and do missionary work by planting large gardens and raising vegetables and fruit for the market and to provide for the hotels. A supply of the best American garden seeds would be an inestimable blessing and a colony of Miss Parloas and Marion Harlands would win the benedictions and thanks of the whole grateful world of tourists, if they would each in Norway the art most needed and which only a tour Norway, under present circumstances will lead one to appreciate properly .- Boston Transcript Correspondence.

'Hasten the time when the world hall be evangelized.' Thus men pray; but many do nothing to help on the good work. They fold their arms in pparent indifference, seeming to think the Lord will by a miracle convert the world. It is related of an old negro woman in a congregation that she sang at the top of her voice, 'Fly abroad, thou mighty gospel,' but failed to see the contribution basket. The collector said to her, 'Put something in here to help the gospel fly.' The reader can make the application.

Instead of a few men in a nation leclaring war, let the question be submitted to a vote of the people. If a majority vote in favor of war, let only those who so rote do the fighting. There would be, we judge, but little poor gilded alto-relieve on the door, bleed shed. This plan is worth a trial until men will open their eyes to the sinfulness of shedding human blood.

A HOME DRUGGIST

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILIA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public.

E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SELT PHILIP GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883. PREPARED BY
