TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24.

Published at the Post Office at Sumter, S. C., as Second Class Matter.

EXAMINE YOUR DATES.

We request each of our subscribers to examine the address on his paper, and particularly to observe the date upon it. This date shows the time up to which the paper has been paid for.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

J. B. Carr-Lumber. J. W. Vandiver- Seeds. T. V. Walsh, Citation-Estate Elizabeth R. Gibson.

Personal.

Mr. P. E. Farnelle of the Advance is still very ill. Mrs. C. H. Mose left last night for New Orleans.

Rev. A. J. Stokes gave us a hurried, very hurried, call yesterday.

Misses Annie and Rosine Jennings, of Providence, are visiting Dr. China's family.

Mr. J. E. Rytgenber, after having been almost around the world, has returned home.

We hear that Mr. Chas. Spencer of Bishopville is very low, and with no chance of recovery.

Dr. H. F. Christy has gone to Charleston to lecture before Sam Jones, the great Georgia preacher.

Misses Kate, Edith and Maud Solomon and Mrs. Perry Moore have left Sumter to take in the Exposition at New Orleans.

Mr. Richard Hood has returned from his trip to the North Pole, or at least, to a place as near the Pole as he could conveniently go.

Misses Officers Flowers, who has been off on a six weeks vacation in Marion, returned home yesterday. We are glad to see Gilbert home again.

Mr. J. P. Russell who has been with Mr. Hudson of Florence for some time, has left the hardware business and has a position on the W. C. & I. road.

Mr. A. A. Solomons has gone North on his semi-annual pilgrimage, after new goods, so our readers may know what to expect in a few weeks.

We have seen the statement in some of our exchanges that Marshal Tuohy is quite sick. Mr. Tuohy is attending the United States Court in Greenville, and the papers to that city say he is quite well.

Mr. C. T. Hason, Jr., has returned from his trip to New Orleans. While there he witnessed the Mardi Gras and Rex's grand pageant, of which our readers will be duly informed next week.

H. J. Haysworth Esq., of Kingstree, with Mrs. H. has been spending several days in town. Harry looks as if the world was using him kindly, most especially in giving him so bonnie a little woman as Mrs. Haysworth for a helpmeet.

Capt. E. C. Green, who has held a position with Messrs. Brier, Maddox & Faulkner, for some time as traveling salesman, has recently accepted a position with Messrs. Witz, Biedler & Co., of Baltimore. This firm deals largely in dry goods and notions, and the Captain will soon call on his friends with samples.

Mr. J. N. Robson of Charleston gave us a call yesterday which we greatly enjoyed. Mr. Robson is a man of whom Charleston should be proud. Earnest, intelligent, progressive, and a devout believer in the manifest destiny of Charleston to become at no distant day the leading Southern sea port, he lets slip no opportunity of aiding in the important work. It is not often one meets a more patriotic, useful man than J. N. Robson.

Messrs. Maise & Lee are comfortably domiciled in their new office in the same building, but on the opposite side from their old offices.

The County Commissioners have some hands busy engaged in planting out shade trees in the Court House Square. It is a good idea. Sumter's greatest beauty in spring and summer is her pretty shade trees, and we are not apt to have too many of them.

Several mistakes will be found in D. B. A.'s letter this week, for which the printer or proof reader must be responsible, or may be both, at any rate the copy was all right.

County Lodge I. O. G. T. After consultation with some of the officials, it has been thought best, on account of the severe weather, to postpone the meeting of the County Lodge till Friday and Saturday the 6th and 7th March.

W. M. GRAHAM, C. C. T.

The Weather.

G.A.M. 12 M. 6 P.M. Feb. 16-43 49 39 Clear. Feb. 17-39 50 46 Clear. Feb. 18-46 51 54 Rainy morning, clear afternoon.

Feb. 19-26 38 40 Clear. Feb. 20-33 38 30 Clear. Feb. 21-16 38 38 Clear. Feb. 22-23 46 45 Clear.

The week has been unusually cold for the latter half of February. We had but one rainy day and that only partially so.

A Big Fight.

Henry Albert and Sam Davis, two negro couples of Bishopville, both of them Big Licks in their own estimation, had a rough and tumble fight in that village last Saturday, the result of the surreptitious whiskey sold there. The winners were badly bruised, the only regret, however, being that, like the Kill-keney case, each did not exterminate the other. There is no doubt, from what we hear, that whiskey is continually sold at Bishopville contrary to law, and we recommend the matter as a promising field of investigation to the Grand Jury.

Run Over and Killed.

Mr. M. E. Lee, a man who was in the employ of M. C. P. Mallett in the Concord neighborhood, while walking along the tramway last Tuesday evening, with several other persons, sat on the engine with two empty flats returning to the mill. Mr. Lee made an effort to jump on the engine while it was in motion, but his footing failed and he fell under the truck wheels which ran across him, crushing and killing him almost immediately. The coroner's jury found the verdict in accordance with the above facts. The deceased leaves a wife and two small children.

Working Roads.

We have read with great pleasure the strictures made by "Fax" in reference to road working. They are all true. We wish every man in the County would read and ponder them and act. There is great need of a healthy public sentiment favoring the working of roads; the sentiment in favor of having good roads already exists, but when it comes to working—well every one prefers seeing his neighbor performing that duty. It would not surprise us to see an editor shirking road duty, though he has no right to do so against other rough corners in life that road working would be rather a relaxation than otherwise.

Married.

February 18th, at Sumter, S. C., by Rev. P. F. Kistler, Mr. Frank N. Blakely, of Greenville, S. C., to Mrs. Mary K. Keels, of Sumter, S. C.

We enjoyed a pleasant call from the happy couple last week. They left for Greenville County, Mr. Blakely's home, last Friday morning, whither the good wishes of Mrs. Blakely's numerous Sumter friends accompany them.

Death.

On the 21st, Mr. Henry Anderson, of Mayesville. Mr. Anderson is a brother of our fellow townsman, Mr. W. J. Anderson.

On the 14th instant, Mrs. John Sweeney, aged 64 years. Her remains were interred in the cemetery in rear of the Catholic Church.

On the 19th instant, Mrs. Susan Norton after a long illness, in the 70th year of her age. Mrs. Norton's health has been feeble for years, and for months she has been confined to her room.

On the 18th inst., at Orangeburg, Rev. John W. Kelly, of the South Carolina Conference, aged about 60 years.

E. G. Ghio, General Superintendent of the Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad Company died at Norfolk, Va., on the morning of the 18th instant after a short illness.

The 10th instant, at Orangeburg, in the 76 year of her age, Mrs. A. L. Holman, the venerable mother of our fellow citizen, Capt. E. H. Holman.

The Centenary.

We had a call from that genial Christian gentleman, Rev. A. W. Moore, last week. He is working up his Centenary and is meeting with remarkable success. We publish a notice of the prospectus in another column, and judging from the "Basic Principles" Bro. Moore will have a grand field to cultivate. We wish him great success, for if the Centenary fills the field he has chosen for its occupancy, it will be a valuable addition to the religious literature of the State.

The S. C. College.

The following Sumter boys were distinguished or proficient in the intermediate examination that closed last week: Senior class, Mr. Willie Haysworth; Junior Class, Mr. V. R. Pringle; Sophomore Class, Mr. D. M. Blending; Freshman Class, Mr. McCutchen. The following were absent from one or more examinations but were also distinguished or proficient in the schools in which they were examined, Messrs. C. R. Spencer and C. S. James. Among the elective students Mr. J. Reynolds is proficient.

Suspicious Death.

A colored woman named Lina Deas who lived near Sane Savannah, died suddenly last Thursday week, and was buried. Whispers of foul play were heard and Tuesday the Coroner took a trip through the neighborhood to see if there were any grounds for these whispers. He heard plenty of rumors but could trace none to an authentic source, and he gave up all idea of holding an inquest, Wednesday, however, the rumors began coming in again, and the Coroner and a Doctor made a private inquest, having the body dug up and closely examined. The fearful wounds which fancy had painted were not found; not even an abrasion of the skin could be discovered, and we suppose "rumor" will now take a rest.

Court.

The Sessions Court continued through most of the week.

The following cases were heard: The State vs. John A. Owens, larceny of a horse—guilty; State vs. Joe Edwards, larceny of live stock—guilty two years in Penitentiary; State vs. Frank A. Smiling and Jesse Davis, Grand Larceny—guilty, Smiling two years in Penitentiary, Davis one year; State vs. Isham Hilton, larceny of mule—guilty; State vs. Jake Jennings, burglary and larceny—guilty, five years in Penitentiary; State vs. Sam Joy, house-breaking—continued to next court; State vs. London Sumner, assault and battery—continued; State vs. Bill Degree, larceny of live stock—continued; State vs. Sam Hayes, selling whiskey—guilty; State vs. E. H. Bateman, larceny of corn—continued; State vs. James Colclough, selling property under lies—continued; State vs. Stephen Johnson, selling corn under lies—guilty.

The Sessions Court adjourned Thursday night and the Common Pleas was immediately called. It is still in session, and will possibly consume the balance of the week.

We will give in our next issue a statement of its work.

Solicitor Gilland managed his side of the Court with skill and energy.

[For the Watchman and Southern.]

An Opinion.

Mr. Editor: Mr. T. R. Barner, after a short visit home, has returned to Washington, where he has for several years filled a position in the Pension Department in a manner which reflects credit not only upon himself, but upon Sumter. And when a general "move home" is called for after the Fourth of March, if any of the Republican clerks are permitted to retain their places, I feel confident that Mr. Barner will be among the chosen few.

FRIEND.

Mr. Editor: I am glad to say that we have had some rest from the rain, and the blessed sunshine is out once more. (We will sing another sort of song next June and July may be.)

Mr. Henry Anderson died last Saturday from consumption. Rev. Mr. Cozby preached his funeral at the Presbyterian Church to a crowded congregation. He was buried at the Mayesville cemetery.

Miss Grier, of Charleston, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Willie Wilson.

Miss Turnbull, of Virginia, is with Mr. C. Wheeler's family.

Mrs. J. N. Corbett, of Sumter, has returned home from her visit to Dr. C. and family.

We are all quiet and on our good behavior, which makes any letter rather brief this week. DUGGAN.

South Carolina Training School for Nurses, Charleston, S. C.

A class will be formed April 1st. Persons wishing to apply, should do so at an early date, as but a limited number can be received. All necessary information can be obtained from the Principal, as above.

Messrs. C. I. Hoyt & Bro. want everybody to know that they keep jewelry of all kinds. Job work done neatly, cheaply and expeditiously.

Go to DeRans for hardware, tinware and all kinds of wares.

Lynchburg in Ashes.

LYNCHBURG, S. C., Feb. 22, 1885.

Mr. Editor: A disastrous fire occurred here last night, between 10 and 11 o'clock, destroying three buildings and most of the goods contained in them. Messrs. Keels, McLeod, Kilpatrick and Moore were the losers. Mr. Keels lost his entire stock of goods valued at $1,500; the building belonged to Kilpatrick and was entirely consumed—no insurance on building or goods. Capt. McLeod lost his store and nearly all his goods—loss $4,000, two-thirds insured. J. M. Moore lost a small building and a few articles. $150 or $200 would cover his loss—no insurance.

The fire was first discovered bursting from Capt. Keels' store, and as no fire had been in there since 12 o'clock Saturday, it is thought to have been incendiary.

The wind was favorable, and by great efforts the fire was stopped from doing further damage. J. M. S.

Bishopville Items.

BISHOPVILLE, S. C., Feb. 23, 1885.

Mr. Editor: The continued cold weather has not only retarded farm work, but seems to have affected a portion of our colored population in a peculiar way. On Saturday afternoon last, several of them having their wits muddled (we presume) by the cold North wind, determined to throw each other heads by pummeling with stocks, and an occasional thump on the frozen ground. Quite a crowd assembled to witness the performance, and cheered lustily as their favorite combatant would alternately get the advantage. "Sam" was evidently getting the worst of it—with his head considerably flattened, (apparently) he retired from the field, but soon returned with a heavy stick, and with all his might he tested the solidity of "Henry's" head, which he laid him insensible to the ground. Repairs were soon made, however, as it was mostly head work. An exciting foot-race—"Sam" in the lead—the ceremony ended—all hands sober. Messies prevail.

Mr. Charles Spencer is quite sick.

Rev. N. K. Melton is on a visit to Spartanburg.

Mr. John Barrett is visiting relatives here, and addressed the M. E. Sunday School last Sabbath.

The private schools of Misses James, Rogers and Dinkins will resume exercises in March.

Mr. D. E. Durant will launch his new fishing boat in Lynch's River this week. Look out for the shad.

The Tenant System.

SUMTER CO., Feb. 20, 1885.

Mr. Editor: I see that you have some remarks of your own and some copied from the Columbia Register on the "Colored Tenant System." I agree with you that this would be a very interesting subject of discussion for the farmers, but like most subjects on the negro at present, it will be hard, if not impossible, to come to any positive conclusions. There are a great many different opinions respecting the negro and his relations to the future of this country from learned professors, presidents of colleges, newspaper editors, etc., and as far as I have seen, a most profound silence on the part of those who know him best, viz. the farmers. Striking thoughts and beautiful theories are often enunciated as the honest opinions of learned writers and speakers, which must be convincing to the North and to the world at large of an earnest determination on the part of the South to fit him for a future of great usefulness to a common country by a liberal education, and of an honest faith in our success. I do not believe from my limited observation that the farmers and planters who represent the great unspoken thought of the country, and who shape the future quietly and inevitably think this in spite of glittering theories, set in well rounded sentences of studied words, with which he is immediately submerged as soon as he dares modestly say that, he differs with most of these learned writers, and that a sad, every-day experience tells him, more forcibly than words can, that the negro is, at best, a makeshift, and becoming more and more worthless and unreliable with each passing day. Like a large lump of shifting sand in our midst, which the tide of time is surely and not so very slowly sweeping away, the pillars of no "system" can be firmly built. The man who makes an outlay with hopes of realization covering several years founded on any single plan to be fulfilled by the colored race will spend his money in building on a sand bank in the Mississippi. The very idea, which is talked about and written about and considered so dangerous a thing to touch, that our learned legislators let it go and catch it again, like a ball with an India rubber string attached, is gasping in the throes of death, "starved out by Cuffy. Without him, a law which would make credit easy to a poor man, could be considered a splendid thing, and indispensable to people in our position. It is nothing but Cuffy's presence which gives variety to discussions of the lien law and almost stifles our legislative brain.

I am sure it is not pleasant work for a farmer to write or speak unkindly or bitterly of the colored man. There are plain reasons why we should wish to feel more kindly towards him than any other class, and he has besides, a something about him, as it were, recalls the past, which disarms bitterness, but it is certainly best to look square into the face of facts, and it does good whenever a man tells what he conceives to be the truth no matter how feebly. It may stir up discussion if nothing else.

As I have had a good deal of experience in renting to colored men, and have been tolerably successful in collecting and also satisfying the tenants, I will presume to give what I think the best way of conducting the "colored tenant system." In the first place, I do not think that it pays to charge more than about two dollars an acre, each year. More than this would break up your tenants every year or so and keep all on the brink of the penitentiary all the time. When your land is rich enough to be worth more than this, I believe it would be better to let it lie out, than to rent to almost any colored farmers who would, except perhaps swamp lands; which would keep up and make crops of itself. Never let any part of his rent be due after the second year; also turn off every fellow always being suspected of stealing but too sharp to be caught. Watch your timber as closely as you can. Count on their almost invariably planting, mowing and working as near the truth as the matter will permit. If he spends just a little on him as will keep him from starving and be covered a hundredfold by his promises. In a few words, look upon him and his whole system (if something better) as a thing to be done to have some years yet and will make the best of while we have. Let pity be strongly tempered with enforced stinginess. His very joints crack. "I'm going, go!" and it is the only truth he breathes. Every new in that direction looks above the horizon shrivels more or less his hopes of staying here, and Mason with his cotton picker is his deadly enemy. What but one deduction can be drawn of the future of a race, to whom we are all quiet and on our good behavior, which makes any letter rather brief this week. DUGGAN.

The young folks had a Valentine Party at Mr. W. S. Scarborough's, on Friday evening, last. If one can judge from the frolic of the sentimental valentines, I would say some of the boys who attended are hopelessly in love.

"This true," said the young man who accidentally shot himself in the thigh while handling a pistol on the 19th instant.

Edward Hines, late Radical Supervisor of Election, and the prominent leader in the Hinson faction at this place during the last election, is crazy. He is violent, and is said to have shot over the heads of a number who assembled at his house. The crack through which he put his gun was too high, and consequently no one was hurt. N. A. T.

Our Exchanges.

The Laurensville Herald is out as usual, notwithstanding its baptism of fire. Brother Crews will soon be in a new office with a new outfit and with the best wishes of all his brethren of the press. The people of Laurens know they have a good paper in the Herald, and they show their appreciation by substantial aid in this way of need.

The Cotton Plant in its March number will be unusually interesting and instructive to our farmers, and of great interest among other valuable articles the following:

How Fourteen Bales of Cotton were raised on nine acres of sandy land.

The culture and management of Tobacco, by Carr R. Davis.

How to raise Sheep and their value, by Z. T. Patton of Gardner, Ill.

How to raise Chufas, by I. E. Watson.

"Wonderful Efficacy."

Some people are slow in telling what good things have been done for them, but Mr. John P. Daly, of Gillisville, S. C., says he takes great pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Brown's Iron Bitters in dyspepsia, fever and ague, and general debility of the system. He has personally experienced the most satisfactory results from the use of this valuable medicine. Make a memorandum of this, all who feel systems weak and run down. Brown's Iron Bitters will cure you.

MECHANICVILLE, S. C., Feb. 18, 1885.

"Mystery loves company" is an old saying and if there is any truth in it, it will be a satisfaction to others in various portions of the County and State to know that our record for many days past has been neat, sleet, sloop, &c., and all planting operations are suspended. With boggy fields and woods and their attendant drawbacks, there is a complete "dead-lock." The water in my well, which is twenty or twenty-five feet in depth, and has never fallen to the severest drought, is nearer the surface than it has been in twenty-five years, as well as I can remember. It is simply impossible to plant small grain or plough for any purpose.

I mentioned the public schools in a former paper, and neglected to state that there are nine public schools in Swimming Pen Township or School District, all in good running order, six colored and three white, there about 600 colored and 80 white children in daily attendance. How do you think that will do for Democratic rule.

Sim Jenkins, a colored man about 65 years of age, was found dead on Sat. last Saturday, on the plantation of Mrs. McKain, about two miles from Mechanicville. He has been subject to "fits" for years. It is not generally known that L. L. Traser, Jr., is a legally appointed Deputy Coroner at Mechanicville. And an inquest was held under the direction of Trial Justice Dinkins, and I understand that the verdict of the jury was apoplexy.

The general health of this section has been very good, so far, and none of the epidemics which have been afflicting other parts of the country have reached us yet.

The roads are in bad condition, but nothing can be done towards fixing them while the weather is so cold. One over-seer here has ordered out his hands twice, but had to dismiss them; he will try it again next Monday. The crossing at Mechanicville is in his jurisdiction, and he has been trying to get it repaired, but has failed to do so. The County Commissioners and the Over-seers are censured by many for the bad condition of the roads, but the fault is in the people themselves. When ordered out to work the highways, they seem to have pride enough to take care of their own roads—that are the parties who are principally interested. They have to use them in drawing their buggies, wagons and carts, and in the name of common sense, can they not have pride enough to take care of their own property for their own benefit? The highways do not belong to Over-seers or Companies but to the people themselves, and until they quit playing hooky, and sitting down on the road, talking and laughing, and stalling away their time on Road Days, they should never complain. It is their own fault. To speak very plainly, it is a shame to see a people who boast of their intelligence and industry, and who are so good at getting on the open bay, without a shadow of an excuse, and then try to lay the consequences of their laziness and foolishness on some one else.
