

The Watchman and Southerner

TUESDAY, JULY 21

The Southerner Watchman was founded in 1850 and the True Southerner in 1856. The Watchman and Southerner has the combined circulation and influence of both of all the papers and magazines published in Southern States.

EDITORIAL ITEMS

The Daily Mail Gazette, an English paper, continues to be the leading paper in England. The people wonder and talk over the matter of it that has been in utter ignorance of the fact that it is a more advanced than the other papers, and that it is the only one that is not a mere reprint of the London Standard.

It has been reported in Washington that President Cleveland has ordered a halt in the prosecution of the case of the boy who was charged with the murder of a girl in the city of New York. The report is that the President has ordered a halt in the prosecution of the case of the boy who was charged with the murder of a girl in the city of New York.

We are glad to hear that the proprietors of the Watchman and Southerner have decided to continue the publication of the paper. It is a very gratifying news, and we hope that the paper will continue to be a valuable and interesting read for all our readers.

The Virginia Republican Convention met last week and had a very successful session. The convention was held in the city of Richmond, and it was attended by a large number of delegates from all parts of the State.

Billy Mahone, the well-known politician, is reported to be in the city of New York. It is said that he is there on a visit to his friends, and that he is enjoying his stay very much.

The Board of Commissioners of the city of New York has decided to purchase a new piece of land for the purpose of building a new school. The land is located in the city of New York, and it is a very desirable piece of property.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong beween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

Every man except the desperado is interested in having the laws executed, and the guilty brought to punishment.

TWO SIDES.

Last week the Crafts School in Charleston had a "little episode" and a flogging was administered, whether judicially or otherwise we cannot say, upon the shoulders of the offender. The boy's parents thought he had been mistreated and brought the matter before the Trustees, where we suppose it will be properly settled.

We refer to this matter though to show that there are two sides to every question, at least in our imagination. For example, see the two opinions below. The News and Courier speaking of it says:

Complaint was made some time ago by Mr. James H. Barton that his little son had been cruelly beaten at school. The superintendent of the school at once sent a thorough investigation was made. At this investigation Mr. Barton and his son were present. The following facts were brought out: The boy had violated some of the rules of the school and was designated for punishment. He became involved in a struggle with Miss Wynne, the principal of the department in which he was being taught, when Mr. Finger, the principal of the school, who had been sent for, arrived.

Mr. Finger stated that he ordered the boy to hold out his hand, the usual method of whipping being to strike the hands with a rattan. Young Barton refused to hold out his hand, whereupon Mr. Finger struck him across the shoulders with the rattan. The blows raised welts on the person of the boy, whose parents were indignant at the treatment he had received. The supervising commissioner of the school, without passing judgment upon the case, decided to refer the whole matter to the board of commissioners of the public schools, who will consider the matter at their next meeting, which will be held in August.

Per contra the Sunday Dispatch gives a quite different view of the case, as follows:

Only last week a little son of Mr. H. Barton was severely punished in this institution for the services of a physician who was necessary. The little fellow is about ten years old and of a delicate nature, it seems, had a cold, and was very nervous. He was sent to the principal of the department to be punished. The principal of the department is to whip the child in the palm of his hand with a rattan. The child's arm is on his side and he is in a state of exhaustion. Mr. Finger, the principal of the higher, or grammar department, was then sent for and ordered to punish the boy. He administered a fresh, and still more unmerciful dose over the child's head and shoulders. The little boy went home with the palms of his hands a mass of blisters, and his head and neck covered with scars and welts. His nervous system, which is naturally weak, was so shocked that he could scarcely walk, and a physician had to be called to attend him. The parents were very much incensed at the treatment of their child, and forthwith Mr. Barton reported the matter to the supervising commissioner, who made an investigation, and will refer the matter to the board of school commissioners at their next meeting.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong beween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

Every man except the desperado is interested in having the laws executed, and the guilty brought to punishment.

TWO SIDES.

Last week the Crafts School in Charleston had a "little episode" and a flogging was administered, whether judicially or otherwise we cannot say, upon the shoulders of the offender. The boy's parents thought he had been mistreated and brought the matter before the Trustees, where we suppose it will be properly settled.

We refer to this matter though to show that there are two sides to every question, at least in our imagination. For example, see the two opinions below. The News and Courier speaking of it says:

Complaint was made some time ago by Mr. James H. Barton that his little son had been cruelly beaten at school. The superintendent of the school at once sent a thorough investigation was made. At this investigation Mr. Barton and his son were present. The following facts were brought out: The boy had violated some of the rules of the school and was designated for punishment. He became involved in a struggle with Miss Wynne, the principal of the department in which he was being taught, when Mr. Finger, the principal of the school, who had been sent for, arrived.

Mr. Finger stated that he ordered the boy to hold out his hand, the usual method of whipping being to strike the hands with a rattan. Young Barton refused to hold out his hand, whereupon Mr. Finger struck him across the shoulders with the rattan. The blows raised welts on the person of the boy, whose parents were indignant at the treatment he had received. The supervising commissioner of the school, without passing judgment upon the case, decided to refer the whole matter to the board of commissioners of the public schools, who will consider the matter at their next meeting, which will be held in August.

Per contra the Sunday Dispatch gives a quite different view of the case, as follows:

Only last week a little son of Mr. H. Barton was severely punished in this institution for the services of a physician who was necessary. The little fellow is about ten years old and of a delicate nature, it seems, had a cold, and was very nervous. He was sent to the principal of the department to be punished. The principal of the department is to whip the child in the palm of his hand with a rattan. The child's arm is on his side and he is in a state of exhaustion. Mr. Finger, the principal of the higher, or grammar department, was then sent for and ordered to punish the boy. He administered a fresh, and still more unmerciful dose over the child's head and shoulders. The little boy went home with the palms of his hands a mass of blisters, and his head and neck covered with scars and welts. His nervous system, which is naturally weak, was so shocked that he could scarcely walk, and a physician had to be called to attend him. The parents were very much incensed at the treatment of their child, and forthwith Mr. Barton reported the matter to the supervising commissioner, who made an investigation, and will refer the matter to the board of school commissioners at their next meeting.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong be-

ween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

Every man except the desperado is interested in having the laws executed, and the guilty brought to punishment.

TWO SIDES.

Last week the Crafts School in Charleston had a "little episode" and a flogging was administered, whether judicially or otherwise we cannot say, upon the shoulders of the offender. The boy's parents thought he had been mistreated and brought the matter before the Trustees, where we suppose it will be properly settled.

We refer to this matter though to show that there are two sides to every question, at least in our imagination. For example, see the two opinions below. The News and Courier speaking of it says:

Complaint was made some time ago by Mr. James H. Barton that his little son had been cruelly beaten at school. The superintendent of the school at once sent a thorough investigation was made. At this investigation Mr. Barton and his son were present. The following facts were brought out: The boy had violated some of the rules of the school and was designated for punishment. He became involved in a struggle with Miss Wynne, the principal of the department in which he was being taught, when Mr. Finger, the principal of the school, who had been sent for, arrived.

Mr. Finger stated that he ordered the boy to hold out his hand, the usual method of whipping being to strike the hands with a rattan. Young Barton refused to hold out his hand, whereupon Mr. Finger struck him across the shoulders with the rattan. The blows raised welts on the person of the boy, whose parents were indignant at the treatment he had received. The supervising commissioner of the school, without passing judgment upon the case, decided to refer the whole matter to the board of commissioners of the public schools, who will consider the matter at their next meeting, which will be held in August.

Per contra the Sunday Dispatch gives a quite different view of the case, as follows:

Only last week a little son of Mr. H. Barton was severely punished in this institution for the services of a physician who was necessary. The little fellow is about ten years old and of a delicate nature, it seems, had a cold, and was very nervous. He was sent to the principal of the department to be punished. The principal of the department is to whip the child in the palm of his hand with a rattan. The child's arm is on his side and he is in a state of exhaustion. Mr. Finger, the principal of the higher, or grammar department, was then sent for and ordered to punish the boy. He administered a fresh, and still more unmerciful dose over the child's head and shoulders. The little boy went home with the palms of his hands a mass of blisters, and his head and neck covered with scars and welts. His nervous system, which is naturally weak, was so shocked that he could scarcely walk, and a physician had to be called to attend him. The parents were very much incensed at the treatment of their child, and forthwith Mr. Barton reported the matter to the supervising commissioner, who made an investigation, and will refer the matter to the board of school commissioners at their next meeting.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong beween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

Every man except the desperado is interested in having the laws executed, and the guilty brought to punishment.

TWO SIDES.

Last week the Crafts School in Charleston had a "little episode" and a flogging was administered, whether judicially or otherwise we cannot say, upon the shoulders of the offender. The boy's parents thought he had been mistreated and brought the matter before the Trustees, where we suppose it will be properly settled.

We refer to this matter though to show that there are two sides to every question, at least in our imagination. For example, see the two opinions below. The News and Courier speaking of it says:

Complaint was made some time ago by Mr. James H. Barton that his little son had been cruelly beaten at school. The superintendent of the school at once sent a thorough investigation was made. At this investigation Mr. Barton and his son were present. The following facts were brought out: The boy had violated some of the rules of the school and was designated for punishment. He became involved in a struggle with Miss Wynne, the principal of the department in which he was being taught, when Mr. Finger, the principal of the school, who had been sent for, arrived.

Mr. Finger stated that he ordered the boy to hold out his hand, the usual method of whipping being to strike the hands with a rattan. Young Barton refused to hold out his hand, whereupon Mr. Finger struck him across the shoulders with the rattan. The blows raised welts on the person of the boy, whose parents were indignant at the treatment he had received. The supervising commissioner of the school, without passing judgment upon the case, decided to refer the whole matter to the board of commissioners of the public schools, who will consider the matter at their next meeting, which will be held in August.

Per contra the Sunday Dispatch gives a quite different view of the case, as follows:

Only last week a little son of Mr. H. Barton was severely punished in this institution for the services of a physician who was necessary. The little fellow is about ten years old and of a delicate nature, it seems, had a cold, and was very nervous. He was sent to the principal of the department to be punished. The principal of the department is to whip the child in the palm of his hand with a rattan. The child's arm is on his side and he is in a state of exhaustion. Mr. Finger, the principal of the higher, or grammar department, was then sent for and ordered to punish the boy. He administered a fresh, and still more unmerciful dose over the child's head and shoulders. The little boy went home with the palms of his hands a mass of blisters, and his head and neck covered with scars and welts. His nervous system, which is naturally weak, was so shocked that he could scarcely walk, and a physician had to be called to attend him. The parents were very much incensed at the treatment of their child, and forthwith Mr. Barton reported the matter to the supervising commissioner, who made an investigation, and will refer the matter to the board of school commissioners at their next meeting.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong beween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

Every man except the desperado is interested in having the laws executed, and the guilty brought to punishment.

TWO SIDES.

Last week the Crafts School in Charleston had a "little episode" and a flogging was administered, whether judicially or otherwise we cannot say, upon the shoulders of the offender. The boy's parents thought he had been mistreated and brought the matter before the Trustees, where we suppose it will be properly settled.

We refer to this matter though to show that there are two sides to every question, at least in our imagination. For example, see the two opinions below. The News and Courier speaking of it says:

Complaint was made some time ago by Mr. James H. Barton that his little son had been cruelly beaten at school. The superintendent of the school at once sent a thorough investigation was made. At this investigation Mr. Barton and his son were present. The following facts were brought out: The boy had violated some of the rules of the school and was designated for punishment. He became involved in a struggle with Miss Wynne, the principal of the department in which he was being taught, when Mr. Finger, the principal of the school, who had been sent for, arrived.

Mr. Finger stated that he ordered the boy to hold out his hand, the usual method of whipping being to strike the hands with a rattan. Young Barton refused to hold out his hand, whereupon Mr. Finger struck him across the shoulders with the rattan. The blows raised welts on the person of the boy, whose parents were indignant at the treatment he had received. The supervising commissioner of the school, without passing judgment upon the case, decided to refer the whole matter to the board of commissioners of the public schools, who will consider the matter at their next meeting, which will be held in August.

Per contra the Sunday Dispatch gives a quite different view of the case, as follows:

Only last week a little son of Mr. H. Barton was severely punished in this institution for the services of a physician who was necessary. The little fellow is about ten years old and of a delicate nature, it seems, had a cold, and was very nervous. He was sent to the principal of the department to be punished. The principal of the department is to whip the child in the palm of his hand with a rattan. The child's arm is on his side and he is in a state of exhaustion. Mr. Finger, the principal of the higher, or grammar department, was then sent for and ordered to punish the boy. He administered a fresh, and still more unmerciful dose over the child's head and shoulders. The little boy went home with the palms of his hands a mass of blisters, and his head and neck covered with scars and welts. His nervous system, which is naturally weak, was so shocked that he could scarcely walk, and a physician had to be called to attend him. The parents were very much incensed at the treatment of their child, and forthwith Mr. Barton reported the matter to the supervising commissioner, who made an investigation, and will refer the matter to the board of school commissioners at their next meeting.

Secretary Whitney has just received a letter from the Board of Commissioners of the city of New York. The letter is regarding the purchase of the land for the new school, and it is a very important document.

The way of the true patriot is not always hard, but it is frequently so. It is a path of duty and honor, and it is one that is well worth following. It is a path that leads to the highest and best of all things.

A most interesting article is going on at Cleveland, Ohio, among the Rolling Mill operatives. The strikers are almost entirely foreigners and are unusually violent and turbulent. They are arming themselves and drilling, and it is probable that much bloodshed will result.

Base Ball is in trouble. The clubs in the Southern League are quarreling like cats and dogs, and nothing but blood can close the widening chasm between Augusta and Atlanta. The leading cities of our sister State, Georgia, are in a condition of excitement which forbodes most direful consequences during this oppressively hot weather, and all because of obstinate umpires.

We are surprised to see some State papers object to the criticisms made upon the trial of the convict, brought to trial some weeks back, and think that a mountain has been made out of a mole hill in the investigation. One paper quotes Dr. Pope's late report of the condition of affairs there as a complete vindication of Carroll. Well let us see. Carroll says that they do not work more than eleven hours a day, and that they are not overworked.

We are sorry the wind will certainly reap the whirlwind, by condoning offences against law, and tacitly encouraging them by failure to convict where the evidence is overwhelming. Whenever law fails to make human life sacred, we may assuredly look for the rule of the assassin and murderer. Human nature is too frail, too passionate to be a safeguard against wrong beween man and man, something stronger, more unchangeable is needed, and we have it in the law, which says "a life for a life."

FACTORY, WAREHOUSE AND OFFICE OF E. W. PERCIVAL, Charleston, S. C. SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, MANTELS, Brackets, Moulding, &c. LARGE STOCK, LOW PRICES, GOOD WORK. Get an estimate from me before purchasing elsewhere. You will save money by it.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY, Nashville, Tenn. HAMILTON COLLEGE, Clinton, N. C. FEMALE COLLEGE, Raleigh, N. C.

J. B. CARR, NEXT DOOR NORTH OF MONAGHAN'S, Main Street, Sumter, S. C. OFFERS A CHOICE STOCK, EMBRACING DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES, BOOTS AND SHOES, NOTIONS, CANNED GOODS, TIN-WARE, WOODEN-WARE, &c., &c., &c. All of which will be sold at the same low prices, that have made this store popular with cash-buyers. The patronage of the public is invited.

D. J. WINN, DEALER IN Clothing, Piece Goods, Hats, Gloves and Gents' Furnishing Goods and Underwear, Main Street, Sumter, S. C. SEWING MACHINES. I am selling the CELEBRATED WEEB SEWING MACHINES as follows: Plain Table, 1 Drawer and Cover, $20 Cash. $22, One-half Cash, balance October 1st. Drop-leaf, 2 Drawers and Cover, $23 Cash. $25, One-half Cash, balance October 1st. THE IMPROVED LONG ARM HARTFORD, the Best Sewing Machine ever offered, at equally reduced rates and liberal terms. All our machines are warranted in every respect and satisfaction guaranteed in every purchase. Having no agents causing the country at heavy expense, consequently we can save you from ten to fifteen dollars by purchasing from us. We have our usual stock of CLOTHING, GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, NECK WEAR AND PIECE GOODS, and will be pleased at all times to serve our friends and the public generally. May 19, 1885.

JOHN R. LONDON, General Agent, Rock Hill, S. C. W. E. BRUNSON, AGENT, SUMTER, S. C. FOR FRICK & CO'S Steam Engines, Separators, and Saw Mills, E. VAN WINKLE & CO'S Gins, Feeders, Condensers, and Presses, HURTER'S CORN MILL. If you want an Engine, Boiler, Saw Mill, Grist Mill, Cotton Gin, Cotton Press, Thresher, Reaper, Mower, or Trine Binder, write to us and we will mail you prices and terms that cannot be beat. We also put all machinery up free of charge, and guarantee satisfaction. I have a sample tractor on hand which I will be glad to show to my friends and the public generally. We sell a carefully selected line of Ginning and Harvesting Machinery, and can put out the best and cheapest Threshing and Ginning outfit in the market. All orders by mail promptly attended to. W. E. BRUNSON, Agent, Sumter, S. C. April 1.

IN STORE BEST TIMOTHY HAY. MIXED OATS. WHEAT BRAN. CORN. PEAS. LIME, (a fresh car load.) CEMENT. PLASTER. FINE BRICK. COW HAIR. A full assortment of BUGGIES, CARRIAGES AND WAGONS, Both double and single, also HARNESS. H. HARBY. May 26

The State of South Carolina, COUNTY OF SUMTER, By T. V. Walsh, Esq., Probate Judge. WHEREAS, R. ADOLPHUS FRIERSON, of said County and State, made suit to me to grant him Letters of Administration of the Estate and effects of J. M. FRIERSON, deceased, do hereby issue. These are therefore to cite and admonish all and singular the kindred and creditors of the said J. M. FRIERSON, dec'd, of said County in said State, do hereby give notice that they be and appear before me, in the Court of Probate, to be held at Sumter, S. C., on July 30th, 1885, after publication hereof at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any they have, why the said Administration should not be granted. Given under my hand, this 14th day of July, A. D. 1885. T. V. WALSH, Judge of Probate. JOHN R. KEELS, Attorney at Law, SUMTER, S. C. Will practice in adjoining counties. Collecting made a specialty. July 14

OPIMUM