An Unsuccessful Thief.

Last Thursday morning a fine milk cow owned by Dr. John Furman was missing from the barn yard. Later in the day when it became evident that the cow had been stolen, search was made and she was tracked to Sumter. Next day she was found in Richard Thompson's yard, he having bought her from a negro named Henry Nathaniel, who lives in the Bethel neighborhood. Nathantel was arrested and is now in jail. We understand that he acknowledges the theft.

A crowded house, the largest possibly ever gathered for a similar purpose in Sumter, greeted Miss Kellogg and her troupe of artistes last Wednesday. Sumter does not often have the opportunity of seeing or hearing a prima donna who has won laurels not only in the large cities on this continent but in Kurope as well, and hence the well filled

The entertainment was very enjoyable. Of course we cannot criticise-might as well attempt to give an opinion upon an eloquent oration delivered in Sanscrit, but have no doubt that it was perfectly delightful Miss Kellogg was "fair, fat, and forty," and possibly each of these descriptive terms might be put in the comparative degree. Her voice was exceedingly sweet, especially in the lower tones, and her execution of the simple ballads, several of which she sang when recalled, was the essence of musical harmony. Miss Montegriffo was a unanimous favorite with the audience. Her voice, a contralto, was sweet and full, and the rapturous applause of the audience testified to their delight. The little fiddler, Miss Torbett, completely captivated her listeners, not less by her pretty face and natural and girlish manners than by the wonderful melody she evoked from her violin. The pianist, Mr. Adolph Glose, seemed a perfect master of the superb instrument from which he called forth "such linked sweetness long drawn out." Messrs. David and Noves, the tenor and baritone, also have good voices. . Mr. D. J. Auld has earned the thanks of the music lovers of Sumter for bringing the
