

The Watchman and Southern

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

Entered at the Post Office at Sumter, S. C., as Second Class Matter.

EXAMINE YOUR DATES.

We request each of our subscribers to examine the address on his paper, and particularly to observe the date upon it. This date shows the time up to which the paper has been paid for. Many of our subscribers will thus see that they have paid in advance; but there are many others who will discover that they have not.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Earthquake.—John Reid, Piano for Sale.—Apply at this Office. Lumber for Sale.—A. S. & W. A. Brown. The C. & C. R. Co.—J. D. Blanding. P. E. P. Ricker & Co.—Foreign and Domestic Liquors.

Personal.

Mr. Leonard Kennedy is again in town. Mr. David R. LaFar, has returned to Charleston. Prof. McIntosh of the High School is at his post of duty.

Miss Sallie Poole, who has been quite sick in Mayville, N. C.

Gen. Moore and family have returned from Sullivan's Island.

Miss Mary Tate, of Summerville, is visiting Mrs. N. G. Oates.

Miss Ruth Tindall, of Graham's, is in town attending the Eclectic College.

Mr. Chas. F. Heiser is in town, and is the guest of Mr. C. F. A. Bultman.

Rev. W. A. Gregg, of Bishopville, is home again from his month's vacation.

Mrs. H. C. Hughes and Miss Beulah L. Taylor, of Charleston, are the guests of Postmaster D. J. Auld.

Mr. C. W. Bewitt and family, and Dr. S. M. Garner and family, of Darlington, are visiting relatives in town.

Mr. E. A. Lowry and family have left Sumter to locate in Manning. Mr. Lowry will carry on merchandising.

Mr. M. J. Booth, and his daughter Miss Annie and also Mrs. Fraser, of the "City by the Sea," are the guests of the Misses McIlhenny.

Miss Jennie Ottolenghi, of Charleston, who has been visiting the family of Mr. Horace Harby, leaves this afternoon for her home, to the regret of her many friends here.

Mr. Willie Haysworth left for Varnville, Hampton County, last Friday, where he expects to carry on his school for another year. Judging from the reports of his success last year, Mr. Haysworth is developing into a successful teacher.

There are quite a number of visitors from Charleston in our town. They doubtless find Sumter far more pleasant than Charleston under present circumstances. Among others are Mr. John S. Biggs and family, Mr. H. B. Belcon and family and Mr. Hart and family.

The crops at Wedgefield, especially cotton, are magnificent.

Two wells on Capt. Joe N. Frierson's place have gone dry since the earthquake.

We are glad to report but little drunkenness yesterday. Why should any one get drunk at all?

Some people mistake profanity for wit. There could be no greater error. Profanity is simply disgusting—that is all.

The scaffolding standing on the pavement in front of the Scaff building is dangerous at night. There should be a light lantern placed at each end.

Messrs. Rydenberg & Sons have changed the arrangement of their clothing tables in their clothing department, much to its advantage.

Mr. D. J. Winn returned home last week, and the quantities of goods that are being opened indicate that he made large purchases. See his announcement in this issue.

Our readers need not be alarmed at the heading of Capt. Reid's advertisement. Read it through and the comforting assurances contained in it will be verified by a call at the store.

Help for the Helpless.

A public meeting of the citizens of Sumter will be held this afternoon, at 6 o'clock, in Music Hall, to confer with the Town Council in reference to sending assistance to Charleston.

Sumter's Safety.

Several of our absent friends have sent us telegrams of inquiry as to the safety of Sumter, and among others Mr. C. B. Portnois, now of New Brighton, Penn., and Mr. J. A. Meidan, of Reidsville, N. C. We are glad to say to them that we are all serene.

Opening of the Schools.

The Sumter High School opened yesterday under most encouraging auspices. The Sumter Eclectic College commenced its exercises yesterday. We understand there were about sixty students in attendance.

St. Joseph's Academy resumed its exercises yesterday, with four boarders, and a number more expected, and the usual number of day pupils.

The Sumter Institute opened yesterday with between 55 and 60 pupils—a most encouraging beginning. Quite a number of others will matriculate in a few days—probably as soon as the earthquake subsides.

I am daily receiving the largest and most complete line of clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, &c., ever exhibited by me in this market and will sell them at prices that can't be compared with. Look for Advertisement in a short time. D. J. WINN.

Italian Bees.

Those of our readers who take an interest in bees, and who have been accustomed to the common black or brown bees should by all means change their stock and get Italians. We have read a good deal about them, but never knew the difference until recently, after getting a hive of Italians from Mr. W. J. Ellison of Stainesburg. Besides their qualities for gathering honey, they are quiet and friendly, and can be handled with much less danger of being stung than is the case with the spiteful brown bees.

Mr. Ellison having an overstock, is now offering to sell them very cheap.

He has demonstrated that there is money in bee-keeping here, and we hope to see others following his example.

The Weather.

6 A. M. 1 P. M. 6 P. M. Aug. 30-74 81 77 Heavy rain. Aug. 31-74 82 80 Clear, earthquake at night. Sept. 1-86 81 78 Clear, several shocks of earthquake.

Sept. 2-84 80 76 Clear. Sept. 3-89 77 70 Clear, earthquake shocks.

Sept. 4-82 80 75 Clear. Sept. 5-81 75 75 Partly cloudy, rain in afternoon.

List of Candidates.

The following names of candidates appear in this paper: SENATE.—Marion Moise, D. E. Keels, W. D. Scarborough.

LEGISLATURE.—Alton Moore, Wm. O. Cain, A. K. Sanders, Junior, A. Rhame, Henry G. Shaw, E. M. Cooper, H. F. Wilson, J. E. Wilson.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—T. J. Baker, John H. Terry, F. M. Mellett, J. K. Brown, G. A. Brown, J. O. Dewart, J. M. Ross, S. D. M. LaCoste, R. E. Hoyt, Elias Chandler, J. J. McKellar, D. Reese DuRant.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS.—E. A. Edwards, W. G. Kennedy, Isaac W. Bradley, J. T. Wilder, J. W. Dargan.

COUNTY AUDITOR.—W. R. Delgar, W. N. ROUNTY TREASURER.—P. P. Gaillard, R. E. Mairdow, W. F. B. Haysworth, Dr. F. M. Beckham.

PROBATE JUDGE.—L. R. Jennings, T. V. Walsh.

The Wedgefield Meeting.

Last Saturday the Democratic Clubs of Staburg, Wedgefield, Manchester and Privater met at Wedgefield to get acquainted with the candidates. The voters were there to a considerable extent and the candidates were present in profusion.

Arrangements for speakers and people were quite comfortable, and the day was pleasantly spent.

We will not give a report of the speeches of all the candidates, confining ourselves to a brief statement of the views of the Legislative candidates, which will be found elsewhere.

The visitors, especially the candidates and editors, had a glorious lunch and enjoyed it.

We are under obligation to Dr. H. J. McLaughlin for his reportorial services.

The Sumter Meeting.

The Democratic meeting in Sumter yesterday was well attended. Not only the clubs, in whose interest the meeting was held, but many Democrats from the County were present.

And we think this argues well for the interest shown in the choice of County officers.

A large platform placed in the shade on the north side of the Court House, was the resort, and this was surrounded most of the day by attentive listeners.

The meeting opened at 12 o'clock and adjourned some time after four, by which time the audience had drunk in sufficient political knowledge to enable them to vote intelligently next Saturday.

We are glad to say that no unpleasantness occurred to mar the quietness of the occasion.

Republican Convention.

The County Convention held by the Republicans yesterday, was, as usual, stormy. The meeting was for the purpose of electing delegates to the Congressional Convention which meets at Lincolnville, the latter part of this month, and it was soon seen that Sumter is in a hopeless minority, and hence the row.

Most of the day was taken up in organizing, which was completed by the election of G. W. Murray as Chairman, and John H. Legare Secretary.

When it was definitely ascertained that fifty-five delegates were anti-Sumter, and only twenty for the Gullah statesman, he promptly left his followers out and organized a bolting convention which, we suppose, claims to be the regular convention. Both conventions elected delegates, and the battle will have to be fought out at Lincolnville. We have no doubt that Sumter will get the prize. His followers have the lungs and he has the brass necessary for success in South Carolina Republicanism, and indeed he is the most fitting man for the position. No more blatant fraud exists than Robert Smalls, and in this respect he is an echo of his party in this State. He is of no more consequence in Congress than a black stump, and save for the pay and mileage he draws, is no more felt in national politics than if he were in the jungles in Africa—in his normal home.

The Clarendon Primary.

Clarendon held its Primary last Tuesday, and the following were nominated: Jos. F. Rhame for the Senate, Jas. E. Tindall for the House, and Dr. H. H. Huggins for Treasurer.

As Clarendon requires a majority vote, no others were elected, and the contest will be between the following:

For the lower House, John C. Ingram and E. R. Plowden, Jr.; for School Commissioner, P. G. Beubow and John J. Conyers; for Auditor, J. E. Scott and J. D. Bradham; for Judge of Probate, J. DuPre Albrook and L. Appelt; for County Commissioners, A. M. Brailsford, T. J. Cole, R. J. Aycock, E. C. Horton, J. J. Broadway, and T. Adams Way.

We congratulate Clarendon on its choice thus far.

A Correction.

MANVILLE, S. C., Sept. 3, 1886. Mr. Editor: I see in your last paper that Mr. H. R. Thomas asked and was granted permission to speak. I am sorry to find that he was not invited by the Bishopville and Carter's Crossing Democratic Clubs to address us on that day.

Respectfully, J. Z. STUCKER, Jr.

Our Exchanges.

The Clarendon Enterprise. We see that our brother Nettles of the Clarendon Enterprise has taken a partner—not a wife though, for it was strictly a business enterprise. The firm now reads Nettles & Fitzpatrick. Mr. Nettles being a practical printer from Columbia, who has bought a half interest in the paper and who will have control of the mechanical department. Mr. Nettles was trying to do the work of about three men, and he acted wisely in making this change. Our best wishes to the new firm.

The Colleton Press contains sixty-five candidates in its list of nominations. It takes four columns of space to contain their advertisements.

The September Wide Awake is enriched with a very strong and interesting Frontispiece by Sandham which illustrates a Mexican poem by F. L. Stealey, entitled "Los Companeros." The opening story, "When Book Meets Book," is a salutary tale, and is read by both children and their parents. Hon. S. S. Cox, U. S. Minister to Turkey, contributes a long and rare article upon "Infant Terrible Turk." Following, and in contrast, is a long and dainty Irish ballad by Mrs. E. M. E. Matt, narrating a romantic incident which lately occurred on Queestown Beach; it is entitled "Three Little Widdow Emigrants." Another interesting article of travel, entitled "Some Indian Tribes," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs. Helea Campbell writes the "war story" of the number, "In the Turtle Claw," relating a thrilling experience of her ancestors in the Seminole War. The "tale of adventure," "My Friend's Staff Shook," is by John Carnifex, and describes a tiger hunt. A lovely story, with a lovely meaning, is "A Pot of Gold," by Mary E. Wilkins. There are a number of other articles equally attractive make up this delightful issue. Wide Awake is $3.00 a year. D. M. Lathrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

The serial in Harper's Magazine containing the extreme interest, "Blackmore," is by "Springbush," holds the reader's attention with its quaint and realistic picture of English sea-town life at the beginning of this century, while Charles Dudley Warner's sparkling "Somebody's Boy," is by Mrs. M. C. Norton, widely known in connection with mission-work in Dakota. Mrs