Manning, Esq, has been this buyer within the bounds of this town-pronounced "a born actor" and Miss Jennie ship. We consider the fact of a cofton buyer coming to the farmer as a buge sign of an improved condition of things, and hope it is ! this morning that another entertainment will | er will have all his cotton sampled at his own gin, weighed on his scales, and bought from his own vard, and with some say as to price. It is in his own hands to force that condition without any detriment whatever to our home merchants; but the farmer's factor may say my "occupation's gone," and it will be a blessed say for the farmer. This cotton buyer, as we've said, hails from Wilmington, and we'll venture to say has bought several thousand bales in the County; all shipped to Wilmington, of course. The prices paid were fair, and weights satisfactory. If Charlesa little competition in this matter she can thank herself for the results We must confess to some amusement at one of the arguments given in the "Reply" to the "Indictment" by a Sumter correspondent in the News and Courier, as to the reasons why shipments of cotton to Charleston had fallen off, which was, that Sumter Merchants and others were paying a higher price than was warranted by the Charleston prices. Well, so far as the farmer is concerned, de'il a bit do we care what the Charleston price may be so long as the home price is satisfactory and no commission and other figgers to pay, and so far as our merchants are concerned our John Reid is now offering an elegant line observation leads to the decided opinion that they are amply able to look out for themselves, and that's just what Churleston had best do. In spite of drought, &c., the corn crop seems to be very good. The only fault we have to End, is there's not small nubbins enough to feed the shoats on; but then we can't expect to have perfect seasons, and in the long run we don't know if the nubbins are any great loss any way; only we don't like to throw pearls, in the shape of sig ears, before swine, (some of our swines ears are too hig now.) We love to shuck out corn and hear it rumble in the horse trough, we like to listen to the plough stock and the hogs as they crunch it from the cob; but we do despise that kind of corn that we must dip with a toll dish from a darned sack, and like small change. We never did see anything get fat on such corn. Did you ever
