TEACHERS' COLUMN.

EDITED BY J. T. WILDER. Questions and Answers. LET THEM COME.

GRAMMAR. We are as near to heaven by sea as by land.

Spiders have eyes all over their heads, in order that they may see in many directions at the same time. Parse the words in italics.

The above is a complex sentence because it consists of an independent clause and a dependent clause. Spiders have eyes all over their heads is the independent clause...

A full analysis of the above sentence is submitted in the diagram form, making all an adverb, modifying the preposition over, which shows the relation in sense between heads and eyes. Correct.—Ed.

To correct—Suits ready made of material cut by an experienced tailor handsomely trimmed and bought at a bargain are offered cheap...

To the Editor of Teacher's Column: DEAR SIR: Please allow another pupil of Stateburg school to send in answers to two of the questions proposed. One of these questions has not yet been answered at all, and the answer given to the other, I think is incorrect.

Excluding repetition there are forty-six separate and distinct parables in the New Testament; of which twenty-one may be found in Matthew, five in Mark, and twenty in Luke. Including repetitions there are sixty-four parables in the first three Gospels, while in the Gospel of St. John there are none.
