Level-Headed Talk.

Columbia Register, Nov. 6. Our two Charleston contemporaries came to us yesterday with sound, sensible talk about the situation.

The Charleston World classes the peo-ple into three divisions. First, those who hate the Governor elect with a most hearty hatred. Of these it says: "Those who hate him, and there is no doubt but in some quarters he is the most intensely bated South Carolinian that ever rose to authority and command, will wait breathlessly for him to reveal himself as they have pictured him, the worst man in the State of South Carolina."

Of the second class, the admirers of the Gore nor elect, the World says: "On the other hand, there is no doubt but that thousands throughout this State look up to him with a devotion which is intense, a trust which is limitless and an admiration which is

Of the third class, the World most wisely takes ecguizance in the following striking words:

"But there is a third class, and embraces many more within it than the average observer would imagine, and the members of this class, made up of judge by his own works the power for good or evil and the purposes of this man, who, driving like a storm cloud through the State, has scattered his opponents, overturned all opposition and politically revolutionized the State

This is what every good citizen of the State should wish and should do his best to secure. "A fair but not high grade of which can be landed in the Custom House here at a cost of $1.05 per yard. Under the old tariff, a duty of fortyseven cents was added: the new tariff adds $1.70, making it cost $2.75 per yard. That is to say, every yard of this goods costs the person who wears it about two and three fourths times what it would cost him under real 'free trade ' This is what common peoplewage-earners-wear. The higher grades, costing, say $4 per yard, are taxed only about 85 per cent. of their value. In the same way with overcoating. Goods whch cost eighty-two cents in England, or $1 03 here free of duty, are raised to $2.35 by the new tariff; while goods at $4.50 per yard, free, are increased by the duty to $7 44. That is, on the lower grades the tariff tax is increased more than three times as much as on the higher."
