He had only proceeded a short distance up Church Street and was passing the house of Mrs. Manning Brown, and under the shadow of Winburn, the Photographer, will leave in quick, stealthy tread of some one following, and on turning his head to see, was dealt a crushing blow over his right eye and across the lower part of his forehead. His hat was struck off in Mr. Matthic sen's yard and the picket feace alone prevented bim from falling under the force of the blow. Mr. Foxworth gave an involuntary cry of pain and putting his handkerchief to his face, ran up Church Street as fast as he could, followed by the man, who evidently left him and went off in another direction when he reached the corner. Dr. Hughson was sent for and after careful examination could find no fracture of the skull. Mr. Foxworth's right eyebrow was cut through to the bone and the cut extended across the forehead almost to the bridge of the nose where it ended in several ugly contusions, some of which extended below the partial breaking probably saved his life. The evident intention of the man was to rob, and failing in the attempt to get the watch when he asked the time, he followed Foxworth in the darkness to murder, if necessary to accomplish his object. This outrageous and dastardly deed committed on one of the principal thoroughfares of the city, at the very doors of its best citizeus and upon a worthy an inoffensive young man should stir the city authorities to a sense of their responsibility, in the premises. The vocal solo "Care Campagne" was faultlessly rendered by Miss M. Doar, and the "Shadowy Song," from the opera of Dinorah by Miss Hannah Manne was regarded by all present as the vocal gem of the evening. The participants in the French Drama: "L'Orgueilleuse" seemed to have mastered all the difficulties of this foreign tongue, and the charming cantata "The Kingdom of Mother Goose" entertained and delighted the audience perhaps even more than it did the throng of little children who sang and spoke and acted cleverly throughout this beautiful little play. The Valedictory was gracefully delivered by Miss Alja Heriot, the first honor graduate, who seemed to enter with her whole soul into the beautiful sentiments so beautifully expressed in this her last farewell to St. Joseph's.
