Mr. Ingram's address will be Mechanicsville until August 15. Mrs. A. E. Kennedy, accompanied by Miss May and Mr. Frank Holman has gone to her place at Mechanicsville to spend the remainder of the summer.

The dials of the City Hall clock have been placed in position and show up well. Several communications of interest which are crowded out of this issue, will appear next week. Sheriff Green, of Marlboro, spent Monday night in the city. He was on his way to Columbia, with an escaped convict he had captured. The C. S. & N. R. R. will sell round trip tickets to Bennettsville, good for July 21st and 27th, on account of meeting of Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. The fare from Sumter will be $3.25. Mr. D. M. Campbell has been furnishing his customers with extra fine Wateres River Beef. He had one yesterday that was covered with fat, and weighed 756 pounds net. The meat was delicious. He has more to butcher, and he knows where he got them. There was a fight Monday evening on Main Street, near Levi's store between Spencer Barr and Beauregard Davis, both colored. They fought until satisfied as there were no police around. The lookers on pronounced it a very pretty draw fight with the odds a little in Davis' favor. In another column is given an extract from the Yorkville Yeoman in regard to the 3 C's R. R. There seems to be a strong probability that the road will be extended to this city. A gentleman who is a director of Sumter & Wateres R. R., has been approached concerning the matter by interested parties. The charter of this company grants the right to build a road between Sumter and Camden. The crowd of young men who have been camping on the beach near Wrightsville, N. C., returned home last night well sunburned and thoroughly salted. They all had a big time and speak in the highest terms of their treatment by the members of the Carolina Yacht Club, whose club house was thrown open to them. They were the recipients of many courtesies and attentions that will not soon be forgotten.

Upper Main Street.

The funds for the improvement on Main Street are now available. The County Commissioners have appropriated $100, the citizens living on that end of Main Street have subscribed more than the amount agreed upon and the city is able to do her part. Therefore the work should be commenced at once. The street needs improvement, and there is nothing to be gained by putting off the work. If the city has the work in charge, we are sure there will be no unnecessary delay.

Deaths.

Mrs. H. P. Jackson, (nee Miss Carrie Folsom) a daughter of Mr. F. A. Folsom, died at her home, Clover, S. C., on last Friday morning. Mrs. Jackson had been married less than two years.

Miss Janie Wingate, a daughter of Mr. J. M. Wingate, died on Thursday last, of typhoid fever, after a long illness. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. G. Herbert, and the interment was made in the old Nettles burying ground on Friday.

Religious.

The Rev. John Kershaw expects to keep his appointment next Sunday at the Church of the Holy Cross, Stateburg. Hours of service 11:30 a. m., and 6 p. m.

There will be an early celebration of the holy communion at the Church of the Holy Comforter next Sunday morning. The Rev. John Kershaw will officiate. Hour of service, 7:30 o'clock. There will also be service at 11 o'clock.

A Great Bicycle Meet.

The President of the League of American Wheelmen has requested the Sumter Track Association to have a Bicycle Meet here during the second week in October. The officers of the Association have decided to hold the meet and it will be the biggest thing of the kind ever held in the State. A majority of the famous bicyclists of America will be here and fast time is promised. Johnson, Sanger and other men of Class B, will be here, and Adams and Baird will meet again. It would be a good idea for all of the people to get together and make the second week of October a sort of gala occasion and get a big crowd to come to Sumter. A Fireman's Tournament would be a drawing card, and a first class company playing in the Opera House would also help. The matter is worth consideration, at least.

Fires.

The house of Julius Edwards, the barber, situated on Council Street was burned on last Saturday morning. The alarm was rung at 2:55 a. m., and the fire department responded so promptly that the fire was extinguished and the water turned off at 3:13. The fire had made considerable headway before discovered and the rear portion of the house consisting of two rooms and a kitchen were in flames when the reels got there. The front rooms were not seriously injured. The house was insured for $500 and the furniture for $300. The stables of Richard Thompson who lives near the A. C. L. Depot, were burned this morning about 2:30 o'clock. The fire was too far advanced when the alarm was given for the department to do more than prevent the fire spreading.

In this connection a remark on the efficiency of the fire department is not out of place. The Edwards fire is proof of what will be said. This house was situated between two other houses, which were distant not more than ten feet. When the reels arrived the whole back portion of the house was ablaze, yet the fire was put out and neither of the adjoining houses were injured. Sumter has a fire department that gives protection.

The efficiency of the department is traceable to two things, the energy and enthusiasm of the members and the fact that Mr. Bloom is the man for the position of chief. Quite a number of firemen have asked the writer to make public mention of the fact that chief Bloom speaks of refusing re-election, so that the people may bring pressure to bear upon him and induce him to continue in a position he has filled to the satisfaction of all parties.

The New County.

Messrs. John R. Haynsworth, of this city, and Pate, of Florence, commenced the survey of the proposed new Salem or Rutledge County on Monday. They were employed by the Salem County Committee of Bishopville. The lines of the proposed county are as follows in Sumter County: Beginning at Lynchburg River near Wood's Mill, below Lynchburg, thence to Swimming Pans, then up Scape Oer to McGirt's Branch, then up McGirt's Branch and in a straight line until the Kershaw line is reached at the point where Rafting Creek Township and Bradford Springs Township comes. The line will extend hence up into and across the south-eastern portion of Kershaw to Chesterfield. The south-western portions of Chesterfield County and the north-western portion of Darlington will be cut off. The line will cut the Sumter line at Field's Bridge on Lynchburg River, and from this point the river will be the line to the starting point. From what can be learned the people in the territory adjacent to Bishopville are nearly all in favor of the new county, but how the people of Lynchburg, Swimming Pans, and Spring Hill will look at it we have not heard. The next question is whether the required territory is available. According to the survey of Robert Brown, as given on the map of Sumter County, published in 1878 by M. H. McLaurin, the area of Sumter County is 850 square miles. The census statistics of 1890, credit Sumter County with 370 square miles. Darlington, according to the census of 1890, has an area of 673, Chesterfield 386 and Kershaw 473. From these figures it would appear that the required area can be obtained, so this objection is removed. The last question is in regard to the shape of Sumter, Darlington, Kershaw and Chesterfield after Bishopville has secured her territory. Speaking for Sumter, it must be said that the shape would not be at all satisfactory. Let all parties interested get a map and go to studying the question. Let those who live in the proposed new county ascertain whether they would be benefited by the change in any respect, whether they would be nearer the Court House than at present, or whether they would not rather come a few miles farther and have the advantage of a better market both to sell and buy.

The "last game of base ball of the season," played on Thursday afternoon by Sumter and Providence, was not much of a game—a sort of last rows of pea-picking affair. The score was 37 to 16 in favor of Sumter.

Hide out, Little Office!

Git out o' the way, little office! The candidates come with a shout; You'd better skeedaddle— They're all in the saddle! Hide out, little office, hide out! Git out o' the way, little office! There's no use to preach or to pout; The brass band's a drummin'— The candidate's comin'! Hide out, little office, hide out! Git out o' the way, little office! The mules, they are rearin' about; When the candidates charge you They'll have to enlarge you! Hide out, little office, hide out!

Go to D. M. Campbells for ice cold meats. China's Soda is cold and fine, and good enough to quiet any one's mind. Campbell's porter house steaks are the best on the market. Call and see them before purchasing. The K. of P. will confer the rank of Page on Mr. I. A. Ryttenberg next Monday night. The new paraphernalia will be used. All are requested to attend.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

A Rich, Rare and Racy Row.

Many Points of Order and Questions of Privilege. Much Information Desired by the Delegates.

The Republican County Convention assembled here yesterday to elect delegates to the Congressional Convention to be held at St. Matthews on the 19th instant. The delegates began to assemble early and there was considerable log-rolling and pow-wowing on the street corners before the Convention was called together in the Court House about 2 o'clock.

R. H. Richardson, the District Chairman, held a caucus of his followers in the hall of the Colored Investment Association on Liberty Street and there was considerable speech making. Richardson, he it said, is one of the most active candidates for the nomination.

When the delegates assembled in the Court House all were ready for business and more than ready to demand all the rights and privileges that citizenship makes them heir to.

Richardson, by virtue of his office, took charge and called for the roll of delegates; and while this was being made up called for the election of temporary chairman. Here the fun began. S. T. Frierson, one of Richardson's most zealous adherents, was nominated, a motion made to close the nominations, and in the face of several attempts to make other nominations, Richardson put the motion and declared Frierson elected, although the noes greatly outnumbered the ayes. This threw the whole house into an uproar, and nothing more was done for some time. There were dozens attempting to get a hearing, most of them protesting in the plainest language against the partisan, unfair, rascally, outrageous, unparliamentary, &c., ruling of the aforesaid Richardson. Richardson held fast and pounded the desk without intermission, but there was no order.

Capt. T. B. Johnston, another candidate for Congress, protested against Richardson's ruling, but it was no use.

J. C. Whittaker made a motion to nominate a temporary chairman. He was ruled out of order by Richardson, who held on to the chair and announced that he had decided that the temporary organization had been perfected. (Turmoil and yell.)

Z. E. Walker got the floor. He condemned so much talk and row. "The members of the convention is the bosses of this meeting and they should boss it. 'They should keep order and see that outsiders keep order also.' 'I am a member of this convention, and put out those who don't act intelligently.' Cap Shiver interrupted. 'I want to know if the chairman is acting fair and square with us.' Answered by Walker: 'I don't recognize anyone as chairman.' Richardson has prevented the meeting from being called to order, and has not done his duty."

W. W. Ramsey took the floor and said that if there was ever a time that he was disgusted with the proceedings of a meeting from the commencement to the end, this was the time. He believed in conducting a meeting in an orderly manner and according to law and decency. "I am a member of this convention and stand here to support a Republican candidate. Richardson—'For what purpose does the gentleman rise?' (Row and disorder.) W. J. Andrews—'Did you ever see a convention that assembled to do the will of the people?' Ans.—'I have seen such, but not this one.' (More disorder, and a baker's dozen or more attempts to make speeches.)

Richardson takes control again by main force of lung power, and reads his lists of delegates to Congressional convention. Motion made and seconded that nominations close—carried. Question of election put by acclamation, and declared carried amidst a war of protests. Meeting declared adjourned by Richardson, who hastily left the Court House, followed by his crowd. (More disorder, speeches and general confusion.)

Then there was a lull in the storm and something like quiet was obtained. Z. E. Walker took charge, and had started to make some remark, when a regular pandemonium broke loose around the secretary's table. S. T. Frierson, Richardson's attempted temporary chairman, had returned and seized the roll of delegates and was tearing it to tatters before anyone knew what was up. When the crowd realized what was going on they grabbed him on every side. They fought and pulled and struggled to get the roll from him. The police rushed in and took a hand in the incident. Chairs were overturned and it looked like the convention of the G. O. P. of Sumter County would wind up in a free fight and the delegates land in the guard house. Chief Bradford and Assistant Weeks were equal to the emergency, and with the assistance of some of the more quiet delegates rescued the roll, or rather what was left of it, and left Frierson depart in peace.

Z. E. Walker again takes charge, and announced that he did so as County chairman, the Congressional chairman having abandoned the position. The committee retired to the jury room to make up the roll of delegates. In the interval several high flown speeches concerning the Republican party, the negro race and rascally chairmen were made.

When the roll was completed 56 delegates answered to their names.

M. D. Wheeler and R. C. Wessberry took the floor. Wessberry was recognized, but before he could begin his speech Wheeler took the floor on a question of privilege. His question was: "I want to know why Mr. Wessberry was recognized?" Chairman: "Take your seat, and if you don't behave we'll have you put out." Wheeler: "Well I want satisfaction and must get it. I am a delegate to this convention and have as much right on the floor as anybody, and you can't run no bull over me."

During this Wessberry was going enthusiastically forward with his speech, and when he concluded, Z. E. Walker was elected temporary chairman, and J. C. Whittaker, secretary. Wheeler was constantly on the floor demanding recognition on questions of privilege, information and correction. When the organization had been made permanent, Walker proceeded to read the riot act for Wheeler's benefit. He told him he must treat the convention with respect or be put out of the door. Wheeler could not be intimidated, however, and insisted on having his rights as a delegate respected.

Committee on Credentials reported favorably on all delegates except Spring Hill, and for this delegation recommended that both regular and contesting delegation be seated on half votes.

W. W. Ramsey moved that the chairman appoint a committee to nominate a delegate to the Congressional convention, when there was some disorder, some objecting and some seconding the motion. Albert Spears held the floor. He did not want any such cut and dried plan. He would not agree to let two or three men lay out what is to be done. Ramsey wanted to ask Spears a question, who refused to yield the floor. Spears: "I have been a delegate to convention for 23 years— Ramsey: 'You won't be here 23 years longer.' Spears: 'I may be dead.' A voice: 'We hope so.'"

It must not be imagined that Wheeler subsided. Not much, he was still calling to the chairman. "Mr. Chairman, O—h! Mr. Chairman! You won't recognize me now, but my time will come. I am a delegate and got a right here and I will talk." Then he would make a speech to those immediately around him about the bull dozers and bums, trying to run the convention and not going according to parliamentary law.

Nominations for delegates to the Congressional Convention were finally made from the floor, amid great confusion. About fifteen or twenty were nominated, but when the election had been held by roll call, seven Johnston delegates were safely elected.

While the election was going on there was a continuous hub-bub. Wheeler was so insistent to his questions of information and correction that the chairman sent for the police and asked them to take Wheeler out if he did not sit down. Wheeler made a few remarks about his rights as a delegate and not letting them run the bull over him and then left the hall, but returned in a few minutes.

The delegates were then instructed to stick to Capt. T. B. Johnston, "first, last and always," over the protest of Albert Spears. The meeting adjourned.

It was a circus of the first order, but out of it Capt. Johnston and his followers came off victors. They whipped Richardson and Murray, who was on hand to aid his lieutenant, and then worked the remainder of the crowd just as they saw fit.

There will be, of course, two delegations to St. Matthews, one declared elected by Richardson and the one by the Johnston-Walker crowd.

There are already five candidates out in this district. T. B. Johnston and R. H. Richardson, of Sumter, J. H. Fordham and E. A. Webster, of Orangeburg, and E. M. Brayton, of Richland.

Unless all signs fail there will be a monkey and parrot time at St. Matthews, for as Wheeler remarked several times: "There is a monkey in this, and they are trying to run over us vicidiously."

THE M. & A. RAILROAD.

Something About the Coast Line's New South Carolina Line—The New Road to be Opened for Traffic August 1st.

General Manager John R. Kenley, and General Auditor W. A. Rich, of the Atlantic Coast Line, returned to the city yesterday from a trip over the Coast Line's new branch, the Manchester and Augusta Railroad, recently completed from Rimini, Clarendon County, S. C., to Denmark, at the junction of the Augusta division of the South Carolina Railway and the South Bound Railroad, in Barnwell County, S. C. They left here a few days ago, and on Wednesday last, in company with the South Carolina Railroad commission, made a tour of inspection over the new road. The inspection proved very satisfactory in all particulars, and accordingly the new line will be opened up for traffic on Wednesday, August 1st.

The Manchester and Augusta Railroad, as completed, embraces sixty-three and a half miles of track, including nineteen miles completed in 1888 from Sumter to Rimini on the Santee River. That portion just built from Rimini to Denmark is forty-four and a half miles in length, and runs through a magnificent country that is already well settled and largely developed. It is a particularly fine agricultural region, and we are informed that the crops along the new line are simply splendid. The country is also well timbered and well watered, and is one of the richest cotton districts on the South Atlantic. Besides being admirably adapted to other crops and abounding in the resources so peculiar to this favored part of the South.

The principal towns connected by the Manchester and Augusta are Sumter, which contains a population of 5,350, Rimini with 250, Orangeburg with 5,000 and Denmark with 500. The road traverses portions of Sumter, Clarendon, Orangeburg and Barnwell counties, and at the city of Sumter it is in junction with the other roads of the Coast Line ramifying in all directions traversed by the system. At Denmark it forms a junction with the South Bound Railroad running to Savannah and Florida and with the South Carolina Railway running from Charleston to Augusta and there making connections South and West. It will thus be seen that the new road is an important link in the Atlantic Coast Line system, and its construction during the period of financial depression that has paralyzed all industrial progress in America, shows that this great Southern railroad system is in the very front rank as a factor in the development of Southern resources.

The Coast Line people are now building six miles of belt line around Petersburg, Va., and that work, we learn, will be completed at an early day.—Wilmington Messenger, July 13.

What is Beauty? 'Question of a Blind Man'

Replied Aristotle. But Mrs. Sherwood says that it is "dynamite" in her article which opens the interesting pages of the July Cosmopolitan. Beauty is always a fascinating subject, and Mrs. Sherwood's discussion is an especially interesting one. That the July Cosmopolitan is a midsummer number is shown in many directions. Three short stories, including one of sport and adventure, two travel articles, and other light matter, make up 128 pages of charming summer reading.

The July Cosmopolitan marks the close of the first year since the revolutionary announcement was made that the price of that magazine, already low, had been cut to one-half of three dollars a year. All sorts of predictions have come to be unfulfilled during the year—it would be impossible to maintain the rate—the quality would be lowered—the size would be decreased. But even severe critics admit that with each succeeding number there has been a betterment in the quality of articles and illustrations, and the size has remained unchanged, except the always growing advertising pages. The magazine printed for the six months embraced in Volume XVI, one million four hundred and nineteen thousand copies, an entirely unapproached record, and has doubled its already large plant of presses and binding machinery. The walls of the magazine's new home are rapidly rising at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Artistically designed by McKim, Mead & White, the new building, with its eight great porticos, will be 279 feet long by 76 feet wide, and one of the most perfectly lighted buildings in the world, having 160 large windows, each nearly double the size of the ordinary window opening.

Editor W. & S.: Please announce W. J. DURANT, the present incumbent, as a candidate for re-election to the office of School Commissioner, at the approaching primary election.

Having confidence in my ability to perform actively and efficiently the duties of the position, I announce myself as a candidate for the office of County School Commissioner, subject to the action of our democratic primaries. Believing that the office of School Commissioner is in no sense a political one, but that, for the best interests of the whole people, it should be removed as far as possible from the strife and bitterness of party faction, I shall solicit the votes of all of those who feel themselves interested in the cause of popular education, and in the advancement and continued improvement of our public schools. Character, capability, and fitness for the efficient performance of official duty, should be the tests required, and, judged by those standards, I shall hope to merit the votes of my fellow-citizens. W. W. ANDERSON, JR.
