Mr. Bryan's amendment was rejected-yeas, 127; nays, 169-and then Mr. Reed's substitute went the same way by a vote of 109 to 187. This was nearly a party vote, the Populists ran away from the trunk a little above and Democrats in opposition and the Republicans in favor of the substitute.

The amendment proposed by Mr. down viva voce and the substitute itself eight or ten rods back from the line; received but 55 votes in the affirmative that is, it might have been that much to 184 in the negative.

Mr. Cox's request for a yea and nay vote was not supported by a sufficient to the tree, and he crept partly into number to secure it.

By the unexpectedly large vote of 159 noes and 97 ayes, the House on a division, refused to order the eugrossment and third reading of the amended Springer bill, which announcement was partly into the little hollow and then received with applause. A vote stopped and raised himself up so that by ayes and nays somewhat reduced the majority of the vote, it on one arm and hand, and he sat up resulting year 135, nays 162, in that way and looked at the brigade present and not voting 4.

Just before the vote was announced' Mr. Reed endeavored to make an explanation of the attitude of himself and his associates on the Republican side, but was cut off by cries of "Regular order." He was going to say : "I had, with the support of all the Republicans, presented a proposition which the ruling powers saw fit to refuse. Nevertheless I had and look to him. gone farther and voted for a bill which contains things which I do not approve the Senate in hopes that something might be done. The bill has failed. I now desire to suggest that I have no practical chance of passing."

Mr. Springer, having changed his vote for that purpose, moved to reconsider the vote, and that motion on mowas laid on the table, yeas 135, nays 123, which finally disposed of the matter. The question pending when the committee of the whole refused conside ration of the bill was as to whether or not the decision of the chairman, ruling out Mr. Bland's substitute on a point of order, should be sustained. It was decided in the affirmative-130 to 52. In the course of consideration of the bill. Mr. Wheeler (Dem) of Alabama, moved to repeal the tax of ten per cent. on State banks circulation and it was lost by a vote of 96 to 84.

An amendment proposed by Mr. Bell (Pop) of Colorado, providing for the payment of the bonds in gold or silver without discrimination against either, was lost -106 to 74.

Mr. Bland got a vote on an amendment requiring the Treasury notes is- daughter of the late Jay Gould is ensued under the Sherman Act of 1890 to be redeemed in accordance with section S of that law, and directing the coinage Roanoke, Va. The firemen and of the seignorage of the silver bullion in the Treascuay, and it came within five rotes of being adopted-109 to 104.

The Western Union Telegraph Company will give Atlanta the first storage battery system in the United States. Seven hundred storage battery cells are to take the place of eight thousand gravity batteries now in its main office in the Constitution building. They can be stored in a space fifteen feet square and will furnish a full current for ten hours without being replenished.

From a recent report of Minister Denby it is learned that of ten Chinese recommended for honors recently four were former American students. One of them, Wo Ho, studied in the Sheffield Scientific School, New Haven, was breveted a commander, with a red button of the second rank, for bravery. Tsao Kin Chiong, breveted a captain and decorated with a red button, was

The front yard was, maybe, back to the tree. The man crawled along slowly along until he came to that little depression; I suppose it looked sort of inviting; it was a place; it wasn't just out-doors, but was a sort of place by itself, and the tree gave it a kind of companionship, too. He crept he was half sitting up, propped up on commander, who was standing in the yard. The brigade commander had been the colonel of the wounded man's regiment, and he knew every man in it; he knew this man, and, of course, every man in the regiment knew the colonel-the general, he was now-and from knowing him so long and so well the men had all come to rely on him
