Mrs. Elizabeth Windham, mother of Mr. E. T. Windham, jailer for this county, died last night after a lengthly illness, aged 70 years. The funeral services were held at the Methodist Church this af ernoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr Joba Kingman, a native of Charleston and a well-known resident of this county, who for a number of years has been doing business at Gailliard's Crossroads, died in this city yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, of spinal apoplexy. Mr. Kingman was first strick en on Wednesday last, but it was not until Monday that he was brought to town, when his physician, Dr. J. A. Mood, found his condition very serious and even alarming. He passed a fairly comfortable night, but at about 8 o'clock suddenly the final change came, and in a few minutes he was dead. Mr. Kingman was conscious to the last, the doctor having spoken to him within five minutes of the end He leaves a widow and several children to mourn his loss. Mrs. Kingman was a daughter of Mr. Nat Bradford, of this county. Mr. Kingman's brother, Charles W., is a well known merchant of this city. Mr. Kingman was in the 40th year of his age. He will be buried in the city cemetery. The funeral service was be held at the Methodist church this morning.

George White, colored, familiarly known as "big six," died suddenly Monday night. George was generally liked by those who knew him and many of our citizens will regret to hear of his death.

Colored School.

Applicants for the first four grades will meet at Lincoln Graded School at 9 o'clock Thursday morning; applicants for other grades on Friday at same time and place. Those pupils who were conditioned on any one of their studies, will stand the required examinations on the days mentioned above.

Col. R. M. Wallace has returned from the The Palace Dry Goods Emporium

The trade mark of Schwar'z Bros, like the star in the East, carries glad tidings, for news of big burgains is a great joy to a host ling in the interest of the South Carolina of shoppers Their advertisement to-day not only announces the Grand Fall Opening, but gives prices on goods that will astonish even the most experienced shopper. Read the advertisement and then you will be certain to visit the Palace Dry Goods Emporium. Remember also the dates of the opening.

School Library.

At this time of the year our attention is generally directed towards our educational interests in this city-and we have advantages of which any city the size of Sumter may well be proud.

In connection with all educational institutions a well regulated library is necessary. At the very beginning of this scholastic year let every parent and child feel an interest in the library of our Graded School. We are behind in this particular Our school needs good books. The children should be encouraged in every way possible to read good books, and the first thing needed is to bring them in daily touch with authors of undoubted standing. We feel sure that efforts will be made this year to increase the number of volumes in the very small library now at the Graded School, and if you are approached, don t discourage a efforts that are made, but do everything in your power to promote this highly important feature of all good school work.

The Cotton Market.

The cotton season has opened very favorably in Sumter, and there is no reason why Sumter should not buy and ship a large amount of cotton during the season. The receipts are very encouraging, which is is a source of satis action and gratification to the cotton buyers. The receipts have been as follows: Sept. 2d, 2 bales; 3d, 8 bales; 4th, 14 bales; 5th, 28 bales; 6th, 41 bales; total up to and including last Friday,

The market to-day is steady and good prices prevail. Cotton is selling on the streets for 7.75 to 7 66.

D. J. Chandler, The Clothier.

The handsome suits illustrated in the advertisement of D. J. Chandler, in this paper give some idea of the large and elegant stock of Clothing which he has purchased for his fall and winter trade. Mr Chandler has established a reputation as a Clothier that carries trade to his store, for the public know that his goods are the best of the kind and that every article will prove to be exactly as represented. Clothing has decreased in price by the advantageous operation of the tariff law and this sesson much finer goods may be secured for the same money that cheaper suits cost in other years. Mr. Chandler went North early and bought to the best advant before the general rise in prices. Exan... his stock if you need clothing. Messrs. Jas. H. Chandler and D. W. Cunningham will take pleasure in serving all who visit the
