

CORBETT LOST ON A FOUL.

Jim's Second Jumped in Ring, Saving Him From Defeat.

New York, Nov. 22.—The Sharkey-Corbett fight, which was witnessed by the largest and most representative gathering of sporting men that ever congregated to see a ring contest, ended in a most disgraceful fiasco to night at the Lenox Athletic club.

It was an unfortunate and abrupt ending to what promised to be a most interesting fight. For weeks both Corbett and Sharkey had trained faithfully and carefully for the contest and when they stripped to night each of them showed in excellent condition.

On the other hand, Corbett hit the sailor in the body rather low and Sharkey protested. Sharkey's quickness and aggressiveness were astonishing from the very beginning and from the first it was evident that he held Corbett safely.

Sharkey's rushes were successful invariably, and Jim's quickness and leg work were tested to their utmost in trying to evade the aggressive sailor-pugilist.

Tickets for seats in the immediate vicinity of the ring brought fabulous prices to-night. The original cost of the pasteboards was $20 each, but to-night twice that sum could not purchase one of them and in two instances they brought $100 apiece.

The anxious sports who clamored at the entrances gladly paid five and in many cases $8 for the privilege of standing up at the extreme ends of the building.

Caution to Liquor Seizers.

A few days ago, at Fourth Adams, Mass., the chief constable seized a jar rum and arrested the party in whose possession it was found, for selling intoxicating liquors. At the examination before the district judge, he swore and testified that he had seized the liquor, and made a detailed statement of the fact.

Q. Did you have any liquor in your house when the state constable called there?
A. Yes, I had some rum in a jar.
Q. How long have you had it?
A. About six months.

Anecdotes of "Dizzy." In G. W. E. Russell's "Collections and Recollections" are these anecdotes of Disraeli: The atmosphere of a court naturally suited Lord Beaconsfield, and he had a quaint trick of transferring the grandiose nomenclature of palaces to his own very modest domain of Hughenden.

It is one of the proud boasts of Lord Charles Bessford that he can ride or drive anything. One day he may be seen tooling a four-in-hand, the next scurrying across country on a hunter or riding a bicycle.

Chicago has a novel trade in owls, the supply coming to the commission merchants from the farmers' boys in the nearby states. The first owl which came to Chicago in this manner was sent as a venture by a farmer boy, who had somehow managed to entrap it alive.

Most of the firecrackers are made by women and children at their homes, and rapid workers are able to earn from 5 to 7 cents per day. An expert can earn 10 cents, while a novice receives only his board for the first four years.

"If I were only a man," she said, "we could"— "Possibly we could," he said, "but the chances are we wouldn't. If you were a man, I wouldn't be here. I'd be saying nice things to somebody who wasn't a man."

"Goose on Friday." "You never heard about the time that Judge Egan gave that prince of birds, the goose, a new place in natural history, I suppose?" said M. W. Fitzgerald to the Philistine.

A Distressing Outlook.

A little Cleveland girl was greatly worried by the misfortune of a favorite playmate. The latter injured her knee by a fall, and for a time it was feared she might lose the limb. Happily this contingency was avoided, and in time the sufferer completely recovered.

Useful Neighbors. Sir, or madam, if you have any difficulty in making your children behave, just turn them over to the family next door. Both the man and the woman in that house are quite sure they could make those children mind.—Boston Transcript.

THE DUNKERS' LOVE FEAST.

The most important and the most beautiful custom of the Dunkers is their love feast, which they celebrate in commemoration of the Lord's supper, after the manner of the primitive Christians.

The celebration is held at nightfall and begins with the rite of feet washing, in imitation of the act performed by the Master at the last supper, when he washed the feet of his disciples.

Fun From the French. A bonvancher is at once surprised and enchanted to meet an old time companion whose suicide had been reported.

Surely He Wouldn't. "If I were only a man," she said, "we could"— "Possibly we could," he said, "but the chances are we wouldn't. If you were a man, I wouldn't be here. I'd be saying nice things to somebody who wasn't a man."

The Tongue. The tongue is divided into three regions of taste, each of which has its own special function. The tip of the tongue is chiefly sensible to pungent and acid tastes, the middle portion to sweets or bitters, while the back is confined entirely to the flavors of roast meats, butter, oils and rich and fatty substances.
