DEATH.

The sad intelligence has been received of the death at "Hawthorn Hill," Clarendon county, of Mrs. Anna Sinkler Manning, wife of Col. John Canthey Manning, on the night of July 20. Mrs. Manning was the daughter of the late Col. Richard Charles Richardson and sister of the Hon. Henry B. Richardson, member of the house of representatives from that county.

FIRE LADDIES TO COMPETE.

Plans Making to Hold Tournament in the Fall in Charleston.

Efforts are making among the fire laddies of Charleston to hold a tournament in this city in the fall in which the various teams in the cities of this State and in Georgia and North Carolina will compete. The Charleston Hose Reel Association are looking into the advisability of pulling off a contest that will continue about four days. They will immediately set about to see what assistance will be lent by the local merchants, upon whom much depends.
It is believed that such a tournament will attract many crack teams here and that it will be the finest display of the skill and daring of the flame fighters of this and other communities. There will be no difficulty in getting companies to attend and enter if proper prizes are offered, and if the railroads will make a reduced rate it is believed that a large number of strangers will come here for the occasion.
At the recent tournament held in Sumter, where the local laddies made such an excellent showing, several hundred people from every section of the State were present, and they spent their money freely, to the profit of merchants and city alike. With a number of fair cash prizes the same condition would prevail here and the local flame fighters propose to push the cause along as much as it lies in their power.—Charleston Post.

Fire.

There was a fire at Mrs. Manning Brown's, Church street, last Wednesday about 1 o'clock. A hole was burned in the kitchen roof, and except from a slight damage by water this was the only loss. Monaghan hose wagon put out the blaze in a few minutes after arriving in response to the alarm.
The house of Frank L. Stewart, the colored merchant, which was situated on Cemetery avenue, was burned Monday night about 8.30 o'clock. The fire started in the kitchen, having originated from a defective stove, and spread to the body of the house. Nearly all of the furniture was removed from the house in time to save it from serious damage, but every thing in the kitchen, including a bicycle, was burned. The house was partially insured. The fire department was called out after the fire had made considerable progress, but could do little toward saving the house owing to the distance from the nearest fire hydrant.

Killed by the Heat.

John Kennedy, colored, a railroad section hand, was overcome by the heat last Friday and fell on Harvin street while on his way home from work. He was picked up and carried home and given medical attention but never regained consciousness. He died last night. Kennedy has been working with section Master Moore for sometime, coming to this place from Eastover, where his family are said to live at present.
This is the first death from heat prostration that has occurred in Sumter this season, so far as is known.

Mr. Algy Alston, of Hagood, was seriously injured Saturday night by being thrown from his buggy by a runaway horse while on the way home from this city.
He left here late Saturday afternoon and was found Sunday morning lying by the road side in an unconscious condition. There were evidences of a runaway, but up to late Sunday afternoon the horse had not been found.
