She Claichman and Southron. WEDNESDAY. JULY 29, 1908.

The Commoner and the Democratic Campaign Fund.

The announcement of Mr. Bryan that he has acted upon the suggestion made by the Sun recently and will give to the Democratic campaign fund all the profits of his newspaper from this time until the election will be received with general satisfaction. It is assumed that the rule limiting contributions to $10,000 will not be enforced against Mr. Bryan or the Commoner. Whether this contribution will come under the publicity rule is not stated. This arrangement will give a vast number of Democrats the opportunity to make modest contributions to the cause ocompanying the announcement hat the profits of the Commoner will go to the campaign fund the stateat is made from Lincoln-on Mr. Bryan's authority presumably—that profits are not large. If the to of a paper the size of the Comner selling for 2 cents and havog a half million subscribers, as has on asserted, are not large, Mr. Brya had better look into the business gement. If the army of a miltion subscribers for which the Commoner callsts for the campaign, then surely the question of money need not cause the Democratic committee any great warry of mind.

Announcement is also made from Lincoln that Mr. Bryan will relinquish the editorial tripod during the campaign and will not be responsible for any articles except those which are published over his signature. Nevertheless, the Commoner will supply an excellent medium for Mr. Bryan to communicate with his fellow citizens and impress his views upon them.

The question has been asked what Mr. Bryan will do with the Commoner in the event of his election to the presidency. The property is too valuable as a money maker to be doned, and some think it would not do for the president of the United States to edit a paper. It has been sted by a Western contemporary hat the publication office should, in that event be removed to Washington and the paper used as a sort of court journal; that is, perform the ne service for the executive department of the government hat the sesional Record performs for legislative branch. All these things are to be carefully considered. In the meantime, it is most gratifying that the Democratic mind is at ease about the campaign fund.—Baltimore

John for Charleston.

In the July McClure Magazine Sammej Hopkins Adams in an article on e public health, refers to Charlesten as a place "Where every man astres to do just as his remotest recmable amcestor did, and the bes' as would all live in trees and eat auts if they were fully convinced of the truth of the Darwinian theory. Charleston, lovely, romantic, peacefu' Charleston, swept by ocean breezes and the highest death rate of any considerable American city; breathing serenely the perfume of its flowers and bacilli of its in-bred tuberculosis; Charleston, so delightful to the eye, so surprising to the nose!"

Good reading, but hard accusations. Such things as these, however, give us great hope of Charleston. She is bound for a great a vakening, a tremendous cons quent development. Her sleep is so sound that her snores are a positive disturbance to the rest of the world and like the beautiful entranced maiden of the fairy tale in her comn of glass, she wi'l come to life by sudden jolts .- Augusta Chron-

Wall Street Had the Tip.

Somebody made a mint of money out of the $29,240,000 fine incident. Subsequent to its announcement. with the help of the panic, Standard On Company shares fell as low as 390. Tuesday, the day previous to the announcement of the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals reversing Judge Landis' the stock went to the high record price of 650. Not only did the decision reinstate Standard Oil and put a lot of money in some one's pockets, but this last mentioned circumstance furnishes a mighty strong suspicion that somebody in Wall street knew what the decision would be the day before it was made.—Macon Telegraph.

The friends of Mrs. Roosevelt-Longworth at Newport are indignant at the charge made by Carrie Nation that Mrs. Longworth smokes cigarettes. A Newport dispatch defending Mrs. Longworth says: "She was always considered tip top here and not a bit more imprudent than the typical society girl, who, because she has social backing, often raises above 'pub-He opinion,' neither caring for it nor respecting it." Can it be that the president's daughter belongs to the "smart set?" This defense intimating that she does not respect publicopinion, would indicate it.

It takes a brave man to stick to his own convictions in the face of contrary advice and criticism, but if he is quite convinced that he is in the right he had better keep to them until it is proved that he is in the wrong.

No body is as much interested in what you do as you are yourself, and so you must learn to think and act for yourself.
