

MOB'S BLOODY WORK.

CARNIVAL OF LAWLESSNESS IN CAIRO, ILLINOIS.

Two Prisoners Killed in Heart of City While Ten Thousand Persons Look On—Mob Has Complete Possession of the Town and Work Their Will Unmolested—Hunting for Another Victim.

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 11.—Will James, the negro suspected of being the murderer of Miss Annie Pelley, was killed here tonight by a mob. James was strung up to the public arch, the rope broke and at least 500 shots were poured into his body. He made a partial confession and implicated another negro, Arthur Alexander, whom the mob is now searching for.

James was lynched in the most prominent square of the city and hanged to the arch at Eighth and Commercial streets.

Women present were the first to pull the rope. When it broke, the frenzy of the mob was uncontrollable, and they fired volley after volley into James' body, shooting him to pieces. The mob then dragged the body over the streets for more than a mile to Twenty-sixth and Elm streets, in an alley, and burned it where the murder was committed.

At least 10,000 people witnessed the lynching.

James was found with Sheriff Davis between Karnak, Ill., and Belknap, by the Cairo crowd, who went up this afternoon. The crowd overpowered the officers and took the negro from them, and after a conference it was decided to bring their prisoner back to this city and lynch him.

White Man Butchered.

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 11.—Henry Salzner, white, a photographer, who killed his wife last July with an axe, was taken from jail at 11:40 o'clock tonight by a mob and hanged to a telegraph pole, and his body riddled with bullets. This lynching followed closely on the lynching of Will James, a negro, who earlier in the evening had been hanged for the murder of Miss Annie Pelley.

The Governor, who is in Chicago, ordered eleven companies of the State guard to Cairo at once.

The mob gave Salzner a chance to confess after the rope was around his neck, but he was so frightened that he could only mumble that his sisters had killed his wife.

The mob became furious at this, and it was hard work to keep them off Salzner long enough to give him a chance to pray. The mob finally subsided and a short religious service was held, after which he was strung up, the rope being placed over a telegraph pole at 21st and Washington streets.

The mob found some difficulty in breaking the cage, as it was an entirely steel structure; but after an hour of telling blows upon the door it gave way and Salzner was secured. The mob rushed him out of the back door of the jail, which is in the basement of the Court House, around the building through the yard and out into Washington avenue, and up to 21st street, which is a prominent corner and has a public square.

He cried and begged piteously for his life and was met by cries and blows from the mob.

When Salzner was asked for his last statement a man, a stranger in the crowd, stepped forward and said he believed Salzner was innocent, whereupon the mob fell upon him, kicked him and finally knocked him down, and it was only the pleas of cooler persons that saved his life. He was compelled to beg for mercy from the mob, and announced in a loud voice that Salzner should be lynched, after which he was driven from the mob and all attention was given to Salzner. After Salzner was hanged, and while the body was being riddled with bullets, the rope broke and the body fell to the ground, where it now lies, the mob going away and leaving it.

Salzner was born and reared here. He had been married about two years last July, when his wife was found at her home with her skull fractured. A bloody axe was found under the bed. Two babies were playing in the mother's blood. Salzner was found at the home of his mother, where he often slept at night. Before Mrs. Salzner died she recovered enough to accuse her husband of attacking her.

Feeling against him had been bitter, and tonight, after the lynching of James, when some one suggested Salzner, the mob rushed for the county jail, got Salzner and lynched him. Search for the negro, Alexander, supposed accomplice of James in the Pelley murder, continues.

SOUTHERN FARMERS BEHIND.

Secretary Wilson not Satisfied With South's Advancement Agriculturally.

Washington, November, 11.—Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, is not satisfied with the advancement of the South agriculturally, as compared with its gains in manufactures. He has just returned from the annual meeting of the National Farmers' Congress at Raleigh, N. C., and while in that State, he made an investigation of its agricultural department. His inquiry has not satisfied him, according to a statement made to-day.

While the manufacturers of that section have wrested control of the cotton and other mills from outsiders, the farmers of North Carolina have not been keeping up to the same standard of enterprise. During his visit to North Carolina the Secretary visited Raleigh, Durham and Greensboro, excursions from those points into the adjacent country.

Mr. Wilson declared that within the near future there is certain to be an influx of Northern and Western farmers to North Carolina and other Southern agricultural States, for the Northern and Western lands can be sold at a price per acre sufficient to buy two acres in the South.

A MUSICAL CLUB THAT DISPENSES CHARITY.

The Beethoven Club of Memphis Has a Corps of Volunteer Music Teachers for the Poor.

The Beethoven Club, of Memphis, an organization of women, with four hundred and eight members, is one of the strongest musical clubs in the South. Its purpose is musical culture for the city. It has established a permanent symphony orchestra.

It annually gives four concerts, for which artists of world-wide renown are brought to Memphis, and there are monthly concerts by club members. There is a philanthropic department, through which each month a concert is provided for some charitable institution. Settlement work is conducted through a corps of volunteer music teachers. The junior Beethoven Department has seventy-five young musicians in training for future club work.—The Delinquent for December.

CHURCH WORKERS GET NO ENCOURAGEMENT.

A Man Who Has Ushered Fifteen Years Has Not Received a Single Word of Thanks.

A gentleman spent several weeks in "our town," where he was an entire stranger, says a writer in The Delinquent for December. During this time he attended "our church" every Sunday. A day or so before leaving, he had occasion to enter a shoe store, and recognized in the man who came forward to wait upon him the usher who had seated him the previous Sunday.

After making his purchase, he spoke of the pleasant little church, said he was about to leave the town, and thanked the usher for his kind services to him every Sunday he had been there. The latter was greatly pleased and touched by the stranger's appreciation, and said that he had ushered in "our church" for eighteen years, but could not remember that any one had ever before spoken a word of thanks to him. It is partly this thoughtless neglect of expressing our gratitude which makes church work so discouraging.

These suggestions, if all carried out, will not fill "the church in our town" or other churches in other towns immediately, but they might strengthen a few weak portions of our armor and send us forth better equipped for the conquest of the world for Christ.

YOUNG JESSE JAMES.

CASHIER KILLED AND PRESIDENT AND A CHAUFFEUR WOUNDED.

Louisville Lad Enters New Albany, Indiana, Bank and Proceeds to Shoot-Up the Men at Work in it. The Cashier Being Instantly Killed—Robber Seeks to Escape, But is Caught.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.—In an attempt at bank robbery, a young man, who has been partially identified as Arthur Hall, of Louisville, a dealer in second-hand furniture, entered the Merchants' National Bank at New Albany, Ind., shortly before noon today, and killed J. Hangary Fawcett, cashier of the bank, seriously wounded John K. Woodward, president of the bank, and wounded James R. Tucker, a negro chauffeur, probably fatally.

When Hall entered the bank he carried a pistol in each hand. After commanding every one to throw up his hands and "get into the vault" Hall began shooting.

Cashier Fawcett was shot through the chest and neck and died almost instantly. President Woodward was shot through the liver and his intestines were perforated. Tucker, the chauffeur, was shot through the body.

Following the shooting, the murderer rushed from the bank and tried to escape in an automobile, which he had taken from the curb in front of the residence of its owner, Mrs. Walter Escott, in Louisville. He had forced the negro chauffeur at the point of a pistol to drive him to New Albany.

After the shooting at the bank, the chauffeur was paralyzed with terror and apparently incapable of action, sat still when the robber jumped into the car and ordered him to speed up the machine. The robber then jumped from the automobile, shot the negro in the back and ran two blocks to the Ohio River. He seized a skiff and was on his way to the Louisville side of the river before the frightened citizens of New Albany knew what had transpired. An alarm was given through a megaphone on a dredge boat, and in a short time several policemen had started in pursuit in a fast motor boat.

Capturing their man they brought him to shore, where, by a ruse Police Capt. Adams kept back the crowd of 200 persons, which crowded around the dock as the police boat landed. Commanding the prisoner to lie down, Capt. Adams announced to the crowd that the man had taken poison and was dead, meanwhile carrying him to the patrol wagon and giving the word to drive ahead. The bandit was taken to the New Albany jail. A few moments later he was removed to the Southern Indiana Reformatory, at Jeffersonville, to escape the mob which realizing that it had been tricked, had assembled around the jail.

Rhinestones Are Used on the New Moyen-age Dressers.

A good many of the new Moyen-age dressers show a yoke cut into points in some way or other to break the straight line between the over and under skirt.

On a very beautiful reception gown, the points come at either side of the yoke. The lower part of the skirt was laid in groups of shallow tucks that held in the fullness of the dress for some five or six inches below the yoke. The waist was tucked at the back and front to match the skirt, though very little of the tucking showed under the wide bands of steel-embroidered net that crossed the bodice in surplice fashion at the front and met in back in deep V.

The dress was made of silk crepon in the new shade of deep bluish purple, known as yerdange or grape. Steel beads are used lavishly on the new gowns and take the form of wonderful embroideries scattered with a prodigal hand over both waists and skirts. Silver, gold and rhinestones are used as well as steel, but one sees little net. Metal fruits and flowers are quite the rage, clusters of them catching up the drapery of an overskirt or holding in the laces or chiffons of a bodice.—The Delinquent for December.

TO CONDEMN MOLDY CORN.

Texas Health Officer Urges Legislation in Support of Effort to Prevent Spread of Pellagra.

San Antonio, Texas Nov. 11.—The feature of today's session of the annual convention of the Southwest Medical association was the address of Dr. William Brumby, Texas State health officer, who yesterday exhibited a patient suffering from pellagra. As a preventive measure, Dr. Brumby suggested the exercise of the greatest vigilance in using corn or corn products in order that moldy or decaying cereal be not used. He also urged that an inspector be appointed, whose duties it shall be to see that millers do not utilize the "nubbins" or bad ears of corn, and that the officer be given power to seize and condemn any consignment of corn showing moldiness.

In using corn on the cob, he suggested, millers should cast off ends or nubs as these are most liable to contain the germ of the disease.

Mexico next year will celebrate the centenary of the beginning of its revolt against Spanish rule, which resulted in independence after years of struggle. Hidalgo, the priest who led the rebellion, met with crushing defeat, yet his motives have remained unquestioned, and his memory is to receive high honors. He lived in medieval days, but the celebration is to be modern and practical. At Saltillo, where he once lived, the citizens propose to observe the centenary by paving streets and in other parts of Mexico public improvements are to be inaugurated. The federal government also has extensive plans for carrying out the same idea. Its programme calls for an expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 on schools, charitable institutions, the National Museum, public monuments, and parks. Whatever may go to mere show, there is to be a great lot of permanent improvements to make the celebration memorable. This seems like a Northern programme. If it could include a demonstration of improved conditions of labor, there would be added reason for rejoicing.
