The Colatchman and Southron. BLEASE ELECTED GOVERNOR. NEW ORLEANS COTTON TALK.

MAJORITY OVER FEATHESTONE SPOT SITUATION PROBABLY ABOUT 5,000.

Has a Lead of More Than Four Thousand-His Election Certain-He Carried Charleston and Richland Counties by Large Majorities as Well as Newberry and Laurens -Cansler Defeated One More

Charleston, Sept. 14.-The News Courier this morning presents a tabulation of more than 95,000 votes cast in yesterday's primary. These are the most complete returns ever reported on the first night of an election in this State.

The total vote will run over 100,-000; it may run as high as 105,000 votes. There are about 200 boxes yet to be heard from, and these will average about 50 votes to the precinct.

Coleman Livingston Blease, of Newberry, has a lead of 4,538 votes over his opponent, Mr. C. C. Featherstone, of Laurens, and it is practically out of the question for this lead to be overcome on the unreported vote, and the returns now indicate that Mr. Blease has secured the nomination for Governor of South Carolina for the next two years.

There were only two other contests in the second primary for places on the State ticket. In the race for Adjutant General, Col. W. W. Moore has been nominated over his opponent.

In the race for railroad commissioner, Mr. Geo. McDuffle Hampton has a lead of over 5,000 votes, which there is little likelihood of Mr. Cansler overcoming, and the son of Gen. Hampton and the grandson of George McDuffie will serve on the South Carolina railroad commission.

In the 6th Congressional district, Congressman J. E. Ellerbe has been renominated.

The contest for the nomination in the 2nd Congressional district will be determined by the reports from the unreported 18 boxes. The figures in this contest, as far as reported, showing a difference of only two votes.

The result is best shown in the following tables:

WILL DOMINATE WEEK.

Out of 95,000 Votes Reported Blease Present Question is Whether Prices will Hold or Whether they will Continue to Decline-Operators in Future Market Can Do Little to Influence Spots-Farmers a Fac-

> Orleans, Sept. 11 .- The cotton market this week probably will be dominated by the spot situation, according to indications at the of business Saturday. Thus far the trade has not been able to get a very good line on what to expect from this direction, and it is anxious to secure information. During a large part of last week the tendency was to mark spot quotations down in a drastic manner, but at the end of the week the actual cotton had steadier tone. The question is whether prices will hold or whether they will continue to decline.

Operators in the future market can do little to influence the spot market right now, according to the trade. The situation rests with the farmers and partly with manufacturers of cotton. Up to now farmers have exhibited a disposition to rush their crops to market as fast as possible and to sell regardless of the price paid. The results have been decidedly against the farmers and they are apparently beginning to see it. According to the bulls should there be more caution and judgment displayed in marketing the new cotton in the interior this week the effect will be quick on futures. The action of spinners toward the spot market is a sore puzzle to traders in futures and the latter are quoted as expressing the hope that something will develop during the next week or so to make the spinners show their hands. All that future traders could read in lower prices of recent meetings of Southern spinners was indecision and doubt as to the wisdom of carrying their curtailment further. This indecision probably was more apparent to the spinners themselves than it was to outsiders, and some future brokers who know the spinning trade well express the belief that it will lead to independence of action among manufacturers. They say that will lessen organized curtailment and will lead to the buying of spots by manufacturers who are in position to lay up supplies. In line certain that Featherstone will have with this belief were reports on the week-end of a few Southedn mills working full time again after a period of curtailment. A certain element in the future market expects to see this full time movement increase this week. If the expectation is realized, they say it will have a healthy effect all around.

The weather will be a source of anxiety to the bears this week. Last week they had their first taste of the nervousness bred by the knowledge that a tropical storm was liable to strike the cotton belt. During the week to come the weather reports will be carefully read each morning and any signs of abnormal weather disturbances will be sufficient to prevent serious bearish endeavors. Another feature of the weather reports that will be carefully watched will be the minimum temperatures in the northern tier of States in the cotton belt. Oklahoma has already experienced one hasty drop in temperature. Anything approaching a cold spell anywhere in the cotton belt will have an immediate bullish effect on prices. The bulls contend that the crop is backward and cold weather in a backward season will do much more harm than in the average season. Oklahoma will attract more attention than ever before. It has prospects for the largest crop of cotton in its history and any unfavorable weather in that part of the belt will have much more influence in the big markets than usual.

Mr. C. A. Landgrabe, Box 25, Coalburg, Ohio, writes: "I had been a slight sufferer for a number of years, but paid little or no attention to it, until the spring of this year, when my sufferings became very severe.

"I had pain in the head, back, spine, liver, chest, and various parts of my body, besides indigestion that caused me much trouble and anxiety. I often thought when I retired at night I would not live through it. I tried medical aid, but to no purpose.

"Not knowing what was my main trouble I wrote to Dr. Hartman, after reading of his treatment, for advice, telling him of my various ailments, and he notified me at once that I had systemic catarrh.

"After using the first bottle of Peruna I felt relief, so I continued to use it until I had taken four bottles, when I felt entirely cured. I recommend it te all others, believing that they will experience the relief that I did."

ELECTION IN SUMTER COUNTY.

Featherstone Received a Majority of About One Hundred.

The returns from the election in Sumter county are still incomplete. but the unreported boxes cannot maerially change the result and it is a majority of approximately one hundred votes in the county. The total vote yesterday was above 1,600 -two hundred less than in the first primary. In this city Featherstone received 416 and Blease 244, giving the former a majority in the city of 172. Outside of the city Blease received a majority of the votes in the clubs reported and the unreported clubs probably gave him a majority, also, which will further reduce Featherstone's lead, making it about 100 for the entire county.

Moore for Adjutant and Inspector General carried the county by a big majority, and Hampton for Railroad Commissioner, has a big lead over
