W. B. Kelly Dead.

W. B. Kelly, the white man living on Manning avenue who was convicted of selling whiskey at the summer term of court last year, died Wednesday at his home in Shannontown. He had been in jail for several months following a drunken spree when he was released by his bondsmen, but at the last term of court Judge Shipp, on account of his dying condition, released him from jail and he was at home at the time of his death.

Kelly was arrested for selling whiskey by the county whiskey constable and tried at the July, 1910 term of court. He was acquitted on one charge and found guilty of another. He appealed and the appeal was dismissed several weeks ago from the Supreme Court. A motion was made for a new hearing and it was pending the hearing that Kelly died. He leaves a wife and one child.

Death.

W. D. Glenn Dead.

Yorkville, July 12.—W. D. Glenn, a prominent and highly esteemed citizen, died this afternoon, after a long illness.

The funeral services were held at the residence at 10 o'clock this morning, conducted by Rev. J. L. Oates, pastor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, of which the deceased had been for many years a ruling elder. There was a large attendance. Mr. Glenn was about 45 years ago and son of the late ex-sheriff, Robt. H. Glenn. He was kind and honorable in all his dealings and was popular all over the county. He was a member of the firm of Glenn and Allison, and had built up a large business. Mr. Glenn took an active interest in his church work and also in anything for the good of the community.

He leaves a widow, a daughter of Thad L. Carroll, and four young sons, Robert, Lamar, William and James, the eldest about 15 years old. A brother and three sisters survive him—Jas. F. Glenn and Mrs. M. R. Williford of Sumter, Mrs. Nannie G. Allison and Miss Maggie Glenn of Yorkville. The active pallbearers were intimate friends of Mr. Glenn, and the honorary ones were the elders and deacons of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and the interment was made in Rose Hill cemetery.

In The Magistrate's Court.

The case against Lucius Cleiser for stealing fertilizer was heard in the Magistrate court Saturday and resulted in the conviction of Cleiser and the sentence of $15 or 20 days.

After being caught up with he broke his contract with Mr. Bradford and left him to get along the best way he could without one of his contract hands. Cleiser was released on bond during the time between his arrest and trial.

The Banker's Advice.

Although a very young man, Mr. Smart is a successful farmer and has made many good deals. "How is it," says Neighbor Small, "that you are always so successful in your transactions? You are young and a comparatively new farmer, while I am an 'old timer' yet in every instance you seem to do better than I?" "Why," says Mr. Smart, "I have always done business with a bank and I ascribe a great share of my success to the knowledge and advice I have received from my banker. I have never asked him for information or advice but what he gave it to me freely and wisely." We are expecting Mr. Small to open an account with us in the near future.
