New York, Nov. 28.—Allen A. Ryan, the financier, who accused the financial world through his alleged manipulations of a corner in Stutz Motor stock, announced today that he was conferring with Samuel Untermeyer with the view of retaining him for the readjustment of his financial affairs.

Florence Teacher

Fights Pupil Supt. Sawyer Alleged to Have Participated in Fight and Carried Concealed Weapon

Florence, Nov. 28.—An arrest warrant charging the carrying of concealed weapons and fighting was issued Saturday afternoon against W. E. Sawyer, superintendent of the Florence city schools, following a difficulty which occurred between Mr. Sawyer and Rivers McCall, a student of the high school, in which the school teacher is alleged to have drawn his pistol.

Mr. Sawyer gave bond for $100 ($50 covering the charge of carrying concealed weapons and $50 covering the charge of fighting) for his appearance Monday in the police court.

McCall, who was also arrested shortly after the difficulty was called upon for a bond of $25 for fighting which he furnished.

The hearing of the case against both Mr. Sawyer and Rivers McCall will be held before Recorder McNeil on Monday afternoon.

From what can be gathered from witnesses of the occurrence, Rivers McCall and Hartley Coleman, high school student, met Mr. Sawyer on the street near the residence of H. S. Rice on South Dargan street. McCall is said to have told Mr. Sawyer that he was ready to take up the challenge alleged to have been issued by the superintendent in a speech to the high school boys a few days ago. In this speech it is stated that Mr. Sawyer declared that if the boys, especially those of the football team, did not like what he said, he would meet with one of them outside, or meet them all at the same time. It is also stated that Mr. Sawyer reacted positively to McCall.

Mr. Sawyer's reply to McCall, according to information given the correspondents, was that they met in the "party grounds" where the matter could be settled.

Reaching the school grounds, the argument was continued, where it is said the weapon was drawn and a spirited fight resulted without serious injuries to either combatant.

Immediately after the occurrence Rivers McCall and his father, E. M. McCall, applied to the chief of police for a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Sawyer on the charge of assault. The city authorities issued a warrant charging concealed weapons and fighting only, and the more serious charge was referred to Magistrate Wetmore.

When Mr. Sawyer was asked for a statement he answered that he had nothing to say at present.

Dr. W. H. Hicks, chairman of the school board, would make no statement, adding that he had nothing to make public in advance of the meeting of the school board which would be held Monday afternoon.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Arthur Brisbane says that the redoubt was the first great advertisement. It had position. It had color. It held out a promise of benefit. And still it had the value of repetition, because it was repeated in the same position and color and promise after every rain—always opposite the sun. The first big advertiser was Caesar, when he wrote on the walls of Rome for the people to read just what the senators were doing in the senate chamber. These advertisements of old contained the elements necessary in all great advertising, which are: Advertising must be seen; it must be believed; it must create a want. Advertising is different because you must make the man stop thinking as he thinks and make him think as you think and interested in the thing you are interested in. It is easy to interest a man in himself. If your advertising salesmanship convinces a prospect that your proposition is good for him, you have him in the right mood to put his signature on the dotted line. This should be the aim of every printer-salesman and publicity man. Domestic prosperity depends on what we can sell to the outsider. Good advertising creates a want and a desire abroad, and thus creates employment, prosperity and happiness at home.

ROY SCOUT NEWS

The Boy Scouts of troop No. 1 had a very nice meeting on Thanksgiving eve. After a short business session the troop repaired to the new outdoor valley ball court where various athletic contests were held, such as a monkey race, crab race, pack-a-back, etc. The wild cats won three first and one second, Sammie Harby starring. The Flying Eagles won two first and two seconds. The Beavers won two first and the Stags won four seconds.

On Thanksgiving day the Scouts and the Camp Fire girls of the city were entertained by Mr. Byers of the Lyric theater. The organizations are appreciative of Mr. Byers' courtesy and enjoyed the pictures very much as it was one appealing especially to youth.

The Scouts are looking forward to a busy week with the Shriners, anti-Tuberculosis association, etc.

Methodists Want 'Blue' Sunday Laws

Against Moving Mails and Trains on Sabbath—For Strict Observance

Georgetown, Nov. 27.—The work of the Methodist conference has been practically concluded and Bishop Darlington announced this afternoon that he would read the appointments for 1921 Monday morning, thus allowing the ministers and delegates to get away on the holiday trains. The session of 1921 will be held in St. George, St. George and Marion asked for the conference, but the vote for the former was overwhelming. St. George had asked for this year's conference, and the body felt bound to the lower Carolina town.

This is the first time the Dorchester county seat has undertaken the entertainment of such a large body. It has recently built a very handsome church and promises generous entertainment.

The reports of pastors by motion eliminated and the roll of ministers was called by districts and churches. The reports of committees and boards were read and adopted with little debate. The committee on Sabbath observance recommended very sweeping and drastic laws regarding the observance of Sunday. It was recommended that Sunday trains and mails and all work be forbidden.

Mr. Cooper, of Tennessee, spoke on the subject and stated that all conferences of the Methodist connection were being asked to join in a petition to Congress to pass laws regulating the matter. The conference adopted the report. Bishop Darlington addressed the class applying for full connection. The address of the bishop was unusually forceful and greatly affected the conference, it appeared.

Dr. R. M. Stackhouse, recently chosen editor of the Christian Advocate, was introduced and spoke of his new work. Dr. Kirkland, editor of the church paper for six years, during which time he purchased a home for the Advocate in Columbia. For the first time in the long history of the paper it now owns its own home and plant. Dr. Kirkland not only accomplished this fine work, but has given the church a fine paper.

The new editor is considered one of the most capable men in South Carolina. Methodist. Last night was given to the mission board. The Rev. A. J. Causton, missionary secretary, read his report on the centenary collections. The collection has been excellent in spite of the money depression. About 80 per cent of this year's quota has been paid.

The Rev. J. J. Stowe, general secretary of Nashville, spoke of the work which he represents. Tomorrow the bishop will preach at the Methodist church at the noon hour and other Methodist ministers will fill the pulpits of the several churches of the city.

REMBERT-CLIBBE

Rembert, Nov. 28.—A marriage of much interest throughout this state is that of Miss Emma Louise Rembert, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edwin Rembert and Boyd Felicia Clibbe of Fair Bluff, N. C., which took place on Wednesday afternoon, November 24, at 8 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bauley of Sumter in the presence of only a few members of the family. Immediately after the ceremony they left for Florida and upon their return will be at home to their friends at Rembert, where Mr. Clibbe is connected with the firm of Ellerbe & Co.

Air Travel

Some enthusiasts express the opinion that eventually it will be cheaper to travel by air than on the surface. By one thing, so expensive railway tickets are needed, but terminal stations are a prime necessity. However, it will be a long time before railroads and steamships utilize their facilities. —Hillsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Ocean

Osage, a mythical Gaelic hero and bard, is said to have lived in the third century, and to have been the son of Fingal, a Caledonian prince and hero, whom he accompanied on various expeditions. The story goes that Osage was carried away by his fairy mother to the "isles of the eyes yother," but he returned later, and then old, blind and alone. "Osage after the Poins," he told the story of the hero to St. Patrick, in 1700-03, James Macpherson published two epics, which he claimed to be translations from Osage's poems.

Machines Worth Having

"The typewriter will never be perfect," says the Syracuse Herald, "until it can go ahead and write something without somebody telling it what to say." Which reminds us of what Kipling in his livelier days wrote as a testimonial for a certain machine, "I just start the typewriter off with a line," he said; "then I go out for a walk, and when I return there is the poem all written."—Boston Transcript.

Steel and Iron

Steel is a kind of iron which can easily be hammered out thin without cracking, and can be made extremely hard by being heated and then cooled quickly. It is different from ordinary iron because of the amount of carbon in it. Wrought iron contains less carbon than steel and so it cannot be made so hard; cast iron contains more and so is brittle.

OF INTEREST TO AMERICANS

Pamunkey Valley and Its Surroundings Have Figured Conspicuously in the History of the Country.

Just south of White House station, where the railway crosses the Pamunkey, is a beautiful farm that was the old home of Gen. W. H. F. Lee. A mile northwest of the station is an estate that is of peculiar historic interest, for here one day a young surveyor who was on his way to Williamsburg and to fame in American history rested a while, dined, and met a young widow who was endowed with beauty, wit, and wealth, and who, through that meeting, was destined to become "the first lady of the land." The romance of George Washington and Martha Custis began there, and he finally led her up the hill to old St. Peter's church, about three miles to the south, which overlooks the Pamunkey valley, a church that was old when he was born. This old brick church stands today in perfect preservation in the quiet shade of great sheltering oaks.

Through this area, too, Cornwallis retreated to take his last futile stand at Yorktown, with Lafayette close on his heels. The southeast corner of the quadrangle touches the battlefield of Seven Pines, where embattled hosts in blue and in gray fought for the possession of Richmond.

BRIDGES REALLY GET TIRED

In Point of Fact, Steel Experiences Fatigue Under Prolonged Strain, Just as Human Body.

The fact that two men were killed recently as a result of the metal of the crane on which they were working becoming "tired" brings to light a little-known phenomenon.

"Steel nearly always tires under prolonged strain, just as the human body does," said an expert at the inquest.

The amount of fatigue depends on the strain to which the steel has been subjected, but it does not necessarily require an excessive weight to tire metal to its breaking point. An overworked chain, for example, will break under the weight of one or two tons, although normally it may have been tested to stand 20 or 30 tons. For this reason all government contractors are obliged to give their crane chains a rest at stated intervals.

One cure for the tired chain is to heat it until it is red hot and then put it to bed in quicklime.

Metal bridges get "that tired feeling" in just the same way. Sunday, in fact, is as great a benefit to the tired bridge as it is to the work-worn human being.

How to Appreciate Tomatoes

The tomato was not appreciated by our people until 1830. They planted it in their gardens as an ornament, but they did not dream of eating the fruit, deeming it poisonous. An old lady once told me of her first experience with tomatoes. It was when she was a child and was taking supper one night with a neighbor. She was surprised to see the fruit on the table and when her host offered to help her to some of it refused decidedly. "If" persuaded her host, "you will take a bite of him and a bite of sliced tomato with it you will acknowledge that it is fine." She yielded and finding that it was not very appetizing, was a friend to the tomato from that time forth.

It was early in the sixteenth century that the tomato was introduced into Europe. It came by way of Morocco and for that reason was called by the Italians, "pommo del Moro" or apple of the Moors. This name was twisted by the French into "pomme d'amour" or "apple of love," as if Mistress Venus had anything to do with it!

Has Own Umbrella

Each time you are caught out in the rain without an umbrella recall the example of preparedness furnished by a flower of the mountains, the harebell. It defies the cold blast on the high cliff, and the sweeping winds of the plateau. As for rain, the delicate blossoms display more wisdom in guarding against it than do some human. Every Scotchman knows and loves the flower—the harebell.

When the flower buds appear on the slender stalks they stand up erect like drum majors. But if the blossoms were to open in the same position they would become tiny clowns to catch the rain drops. Thus the flower would expose itself to death by drowning.

No such fate awaits the little blue beauties, however. When the petals open the blossom drops its head, not from a feeling of modesty, but to avoid the rain.

Interesting Wingless Birds

The weka, or wood hen, is especially interesting species of the wingless birds. These birds mate for life and take turns in hatching and watching the brood. One of the pair is always at the nest, the one "on duty" being supplied with food by the other. There is something almost human in the sight of a male weka leading his family out for a stroll on the beach. Another is the roa, which is distinguished by a remarkable beak—long slender and slightly curved. The roa like the kakapo, is a night bird, and its chief food is earthworms.

Pope Deeply Concerned Over Ireland

Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, Denounces Murder—Pig Fire in Cork—Dublin Castle Sees "Sinister Aspect"

Rome, Nov. 28.—The pope is following with anxious interest the development of the situation in Ireland and is deeply grieved at the daily reports of bloodshed. Learning of the arrest of Arthur Griffith and Prof. MacNeill, of the Sinn Fein, he inquired the effect it might produce and was told by a prominent Irishman that both men exercised a moderating influence on their followers; therefore their disappearance would probably have a bad, rather than a good effect.

BIG FIRE IN CORK

Cork, Nov. 8.—In addition to incendiary fires Saturday night an extensive block of buildings in St. Patrick street was completely destroyed, involving damage estimated at 100,000 pounds. The buildings destroyed included the Blackthorn House, which had been twice previously bombed and partially wrecked. The fire started in this structure on the present occasion and eventually involved the drapery store and the boot store on either side. The fire broke out at 1 o'clock this morning and burned fiercely until daybreak.

"SINISTER ASPECT" SEEN

Belfast, Nov. 28.—A statement issued tonight from Castle, after giving an account of the Liverpool fires and accompanying incidents, adds: "Read in connection with the fires discovered last week, in which plans for Sinn Fein reprisals against the English towns of Manchester and Liverpool among a number, were detailed, these things have a very sinister aspect. The fact of the police being fired on suggests that the methods of the Sinn Fein murder gang in Ireland are being employed against the English people, even if the personnel of the murderers is not the same."

DENOUNCES MURDER

Dublin, Nov. 28.—Cardinal Logue, the primate of Ireland, in a pastoral letter read today in all the churches of the Archdiocese denounces the murders in Ireland and declares that if a balance were struck between last Sunday's assassinations of officers and the shooting by the police in Croke Park, he believes it "should be given against the forces of the crown." The cardinal's letter scathingly arraigns the methods the government is pursuing, but warns the people "against any association, secret or open, which would lead them into any disorders or crime."

The cardinal in a letter says the ardent hopes of the Irish people for peace are shared by European and other countries. In support of this he cites a letter from the archbishop of Malines and all the bishops in Belgium conveying their cordial sympathy to the Irish people. The pastoral proceeds to condemn in the strongest terms Sunday's tragedies, declaring belief that every man and woman in Ireland deplored and detested these "cold blooded murders," which the cardinal says "no object could excuse and no motive justify" and adding: "The perpetrators of such crimes are not real patriots but enemies of their countries."

Increase by Postal Rates and Wages to Be Advanced Soon

New York, Nov. 28.—Increases of 20 per cent in rates and 10 per cent in salaries to employees effective December 1, were announced today by the Postal Telegraph and Cable company, through its secretary, William J. Deegan.

In a statement issued by the company and sent to its offices throughout the country, the increases are announced "as necessary to meet increased operating expenses to properly care for our employees and give better service to the public."

Under the increase the rate will be on a level with those charged by other telegraph and cable companies in the United States, Mr. Deegan said. The increase brings the Postal company's rates to the same level in effect before the wires were returned to private ownership, when Clarence H. Mackay, president of the company, was in controversy with Postmaster General Burleson in regard to Mr. Burleson's 20 per cent toll increase order.

Mr. Mackay in correspondence with Mr. Burleson, argued for an early return of the wires, and promised the public that when this was done the rates of the Postal company would be reduced immediately. Mr. Mackay made good his promise and reduced the rates 20 per cent. In opposing the increase ordered by Mr. Burleson at that time, Mr. Mackay said that it would mean a loss of $16,000,000 a year to telegraph users.

METHODIST PREACHERS NAMED FOR SUMTER

Word was received here this morning from the South Carolina Methodist Conference, held at Georgetown, that the following preachers had been appointed for the Sumter and Oswego churches: Trinity church—Dr. J. W. Daniels, Broad Street—Rev. J. G. Ferguson, Presiding Elder of Sumter District—Rev. D. M. McLeod, Oswego—Rev. J. W. Elkins.

No Anti-Trust Law Affect Farmers

Their Co-operative Organizations Are Exempt. Government Not to Notice Campaign for Withholding Crops From Market

Washington, Nov. 27.—Because farmers' cooperative organizations are exempt from application of anti-trust laws, the department of justice, has given no consideration to the campaign for the withholding of crops from the markets until prices advance, it was said tonight by Frank K. Nebeker, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions.

Mr. Nebeker's explanation of the department attitude followed the recent statement of Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' Union, that he understood that federal agents were attempting to obtain evidence for prosecutions in Kansas, Iowa and other Middle Western states.

The Clayton anti-trust act, Mr. Nebeker said, expressly provides that agricultural organization, not having capital stock or conducted for profit, can not be construed as conspiracies in restraint of trade. Withholding of crops from market for personal profit, Mr. Nebeker asserted, probably would not be held as organization profits.

Mr. Nebeker also explained that the limitations on the appropriation act for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws would seem to preclude action against the farmers inasmuch as the act specifies that no part of the appropriations shall be expended for the prosecution of farmers who cooperate to obtain a fair and reasonable price for their products. The construction as to what is a fair price for the various farm products, Mr. Nebeker declared, would, however, probably govern in any specific case that might arise as it would seem that since the present laws forbid prosecution where the effort is to obtain a fair price conversely attempts to obtain unfair and unreasonable prices would be contrary to law.

More Newspapers Astronomy

An English newspaper quoted in Popular Astronomy, undertakes to answer the question "Why is the Moon Not Always Round?" and enlightens its readers in the following terms: "It is the reason it changes in appearance is that the earth's shadow is thrown upon it by the sun, and the size of the shadow varies each night when the moon is visible."

Ship's Navigators

The world has never produced great navigators than the early Polynesians, who in their big outrigger canoes traversed the Pacific south and north, east and west. Without maps or compass, they pushed north to the equator and south to the ice pack. The white explorer came in the tracks of their canoes.
