WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

London, June 16.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the American Lawn Tennis champion, was defeated in the semi-finals in the women's singles in the Kent Tennis Championship by Miss McKane, the British star. Washington, June 16.—The House Merchant Marine Committee rejected the amendment by Representative Bankhead providing that no government aid should be allowed ships on which liquor was sold. Cincinnati, June 16.—Organized labor and organized veterans of the World War have "as common enemies those who seek to tear down the integrity of America," National Commander MacNider, of the American Legion, told the American Federation of Labor at their convention today. Belfast, June 16.—The eastside was again the scene of incendiary fires this morning when flames were started in a soap factory, a motion picture theatre and a butcher shop. Scenes of great disorder followed. Cincinnati, June 16.—President Jewell, president of the railroad employes department of the American Federation of Labor, was authorized today by the chiefs of railroad shop crafts unions to request the officers of the United Mine Workers for a joint conference. Talladega, Ala., June 16.—Teague Cunningham, negro, was hanged here today for the murder of Policeman Hobbs. Cincinnati, June 16.—Railway union chiefs are considering today the serving of formal notice on the railroad labor board that an overwhelming majority of the million two hundred and twenty-five thousand shop crafts, and maintenance of way employes are voting in favor of a strike on July 1st, and that the officers of the union will abide by the decision of the workers. Richmond, June 16.—Search was continued here today for two negroes, who, late yesterday, attempted to attack a ten-year-old white girl and her six-year-old boy companion in the woods on the outskirts of the city. The police say they know the identity of the men. Later two young negroes were arrested and jailed charged with having attempted the attack. Palatka, Fla., June 16.—S. T. Fields, of Bunnell, a member of the board of commissioners of Flagler county, has left the county as the result of his third flogging at the hands of unidentified persons in the last few months, according to Flagler county officers, who are here to run down a clue. The Atlantic has been crossed by Lieut. Commander Read, of the American navy, and in a non-stop flight by Capt. Alcock of the British army, but the course of the British airman, and the course of the American, via Newfoundland, Greenland and Iceland is new. It may well be that the trans-Atlantic air travel which seems a certainty of the not distant future may find the more circuitous route less hazardous. From Newfoundland to the Azores is approximately 1,400 miles while it is about 800 to Greenland, with even shorter jumps from Greenland to Iceland and Iceland to Scotland. 2,000 Miles Nearer Japan. The British flyers also have as a precedent on the western hemisphere the carefully planned round-trip flight of Capt. Street, U. S. A., between New York and Alaska. Perhaps no portion of the flight is of more interest to Americans than that from Kamchatka to Alaska. Such a passage makes the old world seem infinitely closer. Geographies have been briefly disposing of the Aleutian chain of rocks, flower patches and volcanoes as a barrier between the Bering Sea and the Pacific, but these islands now loom as stepping stones between two areas of great economic potentiality. Japan is some 5,000 miles from continental America, but is only 3,000 miles removed by airship out of the Alaskan Peninsula. "Even more fascinating conjecture arises about the crossing of the Alaskan Gulf from Kodiak to Sitka, for off Kodiak is situated that eight world wonder, The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, discovered by National Geographic Society expeditions sent to study Katmai, the world's greatest active volcano. This region has been made a national monument, and when it is accessible its fifty square miles of steaming fissures and rainbows of hissing gases will form one of the most fascinating national parks." SHOULD RESTRICT RIGHT OF APPEAL

Judge Shipp Says Regarding His Charge—Thinks It Is Open to Loopholes and Subterfuges to Delay Justice Florence, June 17.—The right of appeal should be restricted to good and sufficient grounds—not open to every loophole and subterfuge that is resorted to today to delay justice. Judge S. W. G. Shipp, of the Twelfth judicial circuit, said today when asked by a Times reporter what remedies he had in mind recently when he charged a grand jury in the court of general sessions here that the public is to blame for the long delayed justice in criminal cases in South Carolina and has the remedy in its hands. "I would not limit the right of a man's appeal but that right should be restricted to prima facie evidence that the appeal is being taken on good and proper grounds and is not merely a resort to delay justice. Right of appeal is purely statutory and therefore can be changed at will by the people or their legislators. In my judgment, such changes should be made as will expedite the administration of justice in South Carolina. These changes should enable the courts to reject, summarily, any appeal which is evidently a move to delay the sentence of justice. "South Carolina formerly had a rule which required that an attorney had to get permission of the supreme court to carry his case before that body. This rule was nullified under a decision of that court in a famous case. Virginia has restricted the right of appeal to bona fide evidence of sufficient grounds. "In the federal courts, if an attorney would appeal, he must get the permission of the circuit judge—the court official before whom the case was tried. If he refuses, that ends the matter. I am not in favor of this responsibility being placed on the trial judge in the state courts, but I do favor a plan which would operate to the same end in the state courts. "Another law which the general assembly, in my judgment should change is that requiring a prisoner must be brought back from the state penitentiary for sentencing in the court for trial. Once a man has been sentenced to execution, the supreme court should be delegated the authority to name a date for execution. He should not be brought back to the county for sentencing. Or let any circuit judge then sitting in session, fix a date without having the prisoner brought again from the penitentiary into the court. The charge of Judge Shipp to the Florence county grand jury has aroused probably more attention than any charge which has been given in South Carolina in many months. It has been copied widely from The Florence Times and most of the papers have commented very favorably upon his charge. Judge Shipp ranks among the foremost of the circuit judges of South Carolina and stands very high in the legal profession of the state. Such words coming from him, mean a great deal in the judgment of the press and the public. Feminism advances rapidly, but we shall be spared the sight of woman pulling on a cigarette while darning the children's stockings. With all those whiskers the Russians are naturally in the soup. If work alone make a long life most of us would have died years ago. A man doesn't have to be absent-minded to forget himself. DOINGS OF THE DUFFS AW GEE!
