Romance of a Back Yard

By DWIGHT NORWOOD

One morning, going to my window which is in the rear of the house and looks out on the back windows of houses on another street, I saw a tiny white handkerchief pinned to the window sill. The same afternoon, going to my room, I was about to open the blinds when I saw through the slats : pretty girl kiss her hand to some one in the house adjoining my domicile She at once disappeared, but it was evident that a flirtation, perhaps on that had developed into an affair of the heart, was in progress.

After this I saw many a signal it the window opposite which I would probably not have recognized as such had I not seen the throwing of the kiss. My next door neighbor, of course. I could not see, but I had noticed good looking young man going and com ing, and I presumed that he was the fortunate possessor of the young lady favor.

I was one afternoon sitting at my window, with the blinds closed, when through a crack between the slats saw a pantomime between the lovers. The girl looked down into her back yard and shook her head. After she had left her window I looked down into his back yard myself. It was inclosed in a high brick wall topped with broken glass. I was not long in deciphering the pantomime. The girl had put a veto on her lover's undertaking to effect an entrance to her premises over the wall.

About a week after this I saw a ne gro bring a barrel into the back yard through a rear basement door. He set it down very carefully and turned to go away. He had taken but a few steps when he turned, went back to the barrel and busied himself examining the head, which I could see was not fastened in the usual way. While he was doing this his lips moved. Moreover, I saw something passed from the barrel to his hand. Presently he went away again and this time disappeared through the basement

I was reading a love story without words, or, rather, was seeing one enacted, not on the stage, but in real life. It struck me that something would occur in the premises on the other side of the wall. Should I be mean enough to spy with a view to satisfying my curiosity? Would it be mean to enjoy what I could of a drama in real life? The barrel was deposited shortly before my dinner hour, which was, 6 o'clock. After dinner darkness had fallen. Without turning on my lights I took a seat at the window. The space between my home and the houses in the rear of it was dimly visible from the lights of the houses shining upon it. I could barely discern the barrel standing where it had been placed. Not caring to reveal myself by lighting my room, I concluded to while away the time in the darkness by smoking. I had consumed half a dozen eigarettes and was thinking that if there was any one in the barrel he must be pretty well cramped when something rose out of its top end. There was a pause; then something larger followed. Curiosity sharpened my eyes, and I saw a bulk that looked like a man's figure get out of the barrel. take it up and proceed with it to a corner in the wall, where he was hidden from me. I fancied he was using the barrel for concealment from the opposite direction.

"That's the last of him for me." I remarked, "till the lights are put out." Nevertheless I was too interested to leave my post. I smoked till I fell asleep. When I awoke it was 11 o'clock, and there was but one light in the house visible to me, and that was in the room of the heroine of my story. As I looked it was turned off.

I was now thoroughly awake and believed that I had no great time to wait to see something more. I was right. Not long after the last light was turned off I saw the space occupied by the basement door of the house I was watching grow darker, indicating that the door was being opened. Then something stood in the opening. A dark spot flitted from the wall to the door, entered and the door closed.

I regretted that the elopement-for such I believed it to be-could not have been effected over the rear wall, where I could have seen it. They would go out the front basement door

I went to bed and had just fallen asleep when I heard the crack of a pistol. Rising, I looked through the window at the house of my story. The basement and the two upper floors were lighted. I saw figures passing before the windows, but heard nothing. After awhile the lights began to be turned off, and in time all was again dark.

The next morning I saw in my news paper an account of an attempted robbery of premises 73 Elm street. The police were called in, but the robber had escaped-nobody hurt, nothing lost. Elm was the street back of my the block to note the number of the house. It was 73,

A few days later, while scanning the marriage notices in my morning paper, I saw that Miss Emma A. of 73 Elm street had been married. I never learned what had occurred the night of the "robbery," but I formed this theory: In trying to get out on to Eim street the couple, or, at least, the lovers, had been detected, supposed to be burglars and shot at. The police entered, but were told there had been an attempted robbery.

REIGN OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

It Will Cost This Country This Year Over a Billion Dollars.

On June 1 the number of automobiles in the United States passed the 2,000, 000 mark for the first time, which leads the Scientific American to make the following calculation:

"To run 2,000,000 cars for one year requires at the very least 1,000,000,000 (one billion) gallons of "gas," worth $130,000,000; 20,000,000 gallons of lubricating oil, worth $8,000,000; 12,000,000 tires, worth not less than $16 aplece, or $192,000,000; accessories and extra comforts, goggles, gloves and caps at $50 per car, equal $100,000,000 garage charges on short tours (exclusive of gas and oil), $100 per car per year, $200,000,000; repairs made necessary by wear, tear and accident (exclusive of tires), $50 per car per year, equal $100,-000,000.

"According to these figures the total running expenses for all the cars in use amount to $730,000,000. Add thereto the value of the 600,000 new cars purchased during the year at an aver age price of $750, which equals $450, 000,000, and we get the immense total of $1,180,000,000 spent in a single year (1915) on the sport of motoring.

Aeroplanes In Warfare.

Without the aeroplane in its numer ous forms the present war would have been waged on utterly different lines at almost every point. Either the trench warfare would have been in definitely prolonged or there would have been an ever recurrent number of surprise attacks, with alternate success and defeats, and a ceaseless shifting of the balance of advantage, and when so many millions of troops were engaged, over fronts of unprecedented lengths, heaven alone knows how the commanders in chief would have controlled their forces or directed their tactics. In any future war no country will take the field without regarding its "fourth arm" as its most precious and indispensable factor.-Charles L Freeston in Scribner's.

Japanese Bandages.

The triangle bandage first introduced by the Japanese during the Russo-Japanese war is now being widely used in the European war. It has been found that bandages of this type are suitable for binding up wounds in any part of the body and that one can be carried by each soldier without inconvenience. The Germans improved it by printing on the bandage itself, in sterilized ink, various figures showing how it is to be applied. The British war office then adopted the idea, and every British soldier now carries one of the printed bandages in a special pocket of his tunic. This bandage is often applied without assistance by the wounded soldier.-Popular Mechanics.

There would be a ride on a big boat and ball games and swimming and a dinner—a whole day given up to hav-ing a good time. The Eastland was to sail at 7:30 and by then she was full of a gay crowd of human beings, eager, happy, and care free. Then it. happened.

For five days "No. 396" lay in the morgue unclaimed, unrecognized. And he was such a little specimen of hu-manity this boy of eight. There was no one in the crowd who had looked forward to the picnic day with more excitement or pleasure than this little mite. For days they came claiming their dead but all passed him by. Mothers, their own hearts bursting, stopped to shed a tear for the mother that did not come-who was probably in the bottom of the river. "We'll keep him as long as we can" said the coroner-but still no one came. Last Thursday this order went out to all the Boy Scouts of Chicago—" Comrade 'No. 396' will be buried with military honors." The coffin was massed with flowers- the mayo went to the funeral-it seemed that all Chicago wanted to adopt the little unuclaimed boy. Surely the story of "396" goes to prove that hearts can still be touched and this isn't such a hard, hard world we're living in after all.

Calomel Dynamites A Sluggish Liver

Crashes Into Sour Bile, Making You Sick and You Lose a Day's

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a slug-gish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.
