HELP! HELP!!

The citizens of the Village are respectfully requested to send hands to the Fair Grounds on Saturday morning next. The building is now completed, and all that is wanting to have everything in readiness is the clearing up of the grounds-the trimming of the trees, and sepairing of the roads. Let every citizen send, tled definitely.

-4-c o-NOTICE TO PLANTERS.

"Resolved, that Planters passing to any of the market towns on the Road, with cotton of their own produce for sale, be allowed to pass and return for one fare."

The above extract from the minutes is pullished by order of the Board of Directors. Planters will take notice that they will receive a return ticket, free, to the Station whence the Cotton has been shipped, on presentation of their Railroad receipts to the Ticket Agents, with the endorsement of the purchaser on the receipt, proving that sale has been made.

E. F. RAWORTH. General Superintendent.

OUR DISTRICT FAIR.

The Executive Committee have very nearly completed their arrangements for the forthcoming Fair, which takes place during the next week. The Fair Building has been completed and the various stalls for cattle will be finished on Saturday. The Building is a very spacious and commodious one, capable of accommodating fifteen hundred persons. It is provided with a gallery commanding a full view of the interior, and a balcony which affords a fine prospect of the adjacent grounds. An excellent band of music will be in attendance from Columbia.

From the general interest which has been manifested, we anticipate a large attendance, and an imposing display. The exhibition of fine horses promises to be unusually attractive. Let all come, and contribute their aid to swell the exhibition, whether they take prizes or not.

A dinner will be provided each day by Mr. F. McConp, at the moderate charge of 50 cents each-with a separate table for the ladies.

DISTRICT FAIR.

A special train will be run on Wednesday and Thursday, the 19th and 20th insts, between Ninety-Six and Abbeville, as follows :

" Hogdes, - 8.25 " "
On ceturn to Ninety-Six, leaves Abbeville at 5.50 o'clock, P. M.

Full fare will be charged on going to Abbewille and returned free. This privilege to ex-wille, and returned free. This privilege to ex-tend only until Thursday evening. Stock and articles for exhibition will be con-veyed from Ninety-Six, New Market, Greenwood and Hodges, on Tuesday, the 18th inst, and returned on Friday, 21st, free of charge, at the risk of the owner or shipper. The Company, in no case of transportation free ocharge, to be held liable for damages. Stock and articles must be delivered by To'clock, A. M. on the 18th, at the respective Depots. E. F. RAWORTH, Gen'l Sup't. Oct. 11, 1859.

By reference to the above notice of the General Superintendant, it will be seen that every facility will be extended by our Railroad to all who are desirous of visiting our District, either as exhibitors or spectators. An extra train will return each day to Ninety-Six, and but one fare will be charged. A general interest seems to be manifested in behalf of the success of the Fair, and we anticipate a large attendance. The hospitality of our private mancions will be extended to the utmost, and our

OUR COURT.

Our Court adjourned on Saturday last, after eing busily employed during the week. Not many criminal cases were tried, but from the number of Bills found by the Grand Jury, we suppose that the Solicitor will have full employment at the next Term.

One of the cases tried, was an indictment against the Captain of a Patrol for shooting and wounding a negro who was attempting to escape. In charging the Jury, his Honor stated the law to be that the Patrol had no right to use a deadly weapon, except in a clear case of self-defence. The defendant was convicted, but as the wound inflicted was slight, and there were mitigating circumstances, he was entenced merel, to pay a fine of five dollars.

Another case was the indictment of two of our most respectable physicians, for disinterring the dead body of a negro for the purpose of dissection. They plead guilty to the indictment, and alleged, in extenuation of the offence, that it was done with the design of advancing their professional knowledge-the negro having been the patient of one of them and his disease presenting some peculiar sympination. The Judge imposed a nominal fine of one doffar upon each, remarking that the common law offences, many of them, required some statutory modification.

The Issue Docket presented few cases of important litigation. One of the most interesting from the principle involved, was the case of The Commissioner in Equity vs. Partlow, being suit upon a bond for the purchase money of a the Annual Examination and Commencement negro, sold at the Commissioner's Sale, and of the Masonic Female College at Cokesbury, which proved to be unsound. Physicians testified that the negro died of a disease, which existed at the time of the sale, and the chief question to be defermined was, as to the right of the purchaser to claim a deduction in the price, where the Commissioner had expressly ty for Governor Joseph A. Brown, re elected. refused to warrant. The counsel for the plaintiff contended that this very refusal to warrant had already diminished the price of the negro, and this benefit having coured to the purchaser, must subject him to all risks. The Judge so charged the Jury, and affirmed the right of the Commissioner to disclaim all warranty at his sales. In accordance with this charge, the Jary found for the plaintiff. An appeal wil be taken, and the law upon this question set

THE CHINESE WAR.

The linglish and French have again renewed the war with China, and for this ne justifiable late hostilities was simply one of ratifying a treaty, or rather of exchanging the formal acts | Col. T. J. Roberts. I the English and French Governments, by which the late treay was ratified. And for this purpose it does not seem to have been necessary that the English and French Embassadors should go to Pekin; for the exchange of the acts of ratification could have been made just as well at Shanghae, or even at Canton. But admitting that by the terms of the late treaty the great contracting powers were allowed to send embassadors even to Pekin, this did not justify the English and French in taking with them a considerable armament. ounting to upwards of twenty-five armed vessels. There is no doubt that the British and French, and other envoys, could have gone to Pekin in a peaceful way, and by such route as the Imperial Government indicated for the purpose of exchanging ratifications of the treaties already made; but it is not probable that the Chinese Commissioners ever gave their consent to the introduction of an armed fleet into their waters, in the interior of the country. The conduct of the embassadors seems to have been precipitate in the extreme. Upon their arrival at the principal mouth of the Peiho, and being informed that at the more northern mouth of the river a high offithey should at least have made an attempt to Secretary, A. H. PRESENTMENT OF THE GRAND JURY-FALL TERM. 1859. The Grand Jury respectfully submit the following report to the Court: We have examined the Public Offices in the Court House. They are in good condition and

The Clerk receives about one hundred copics of the Acts and Resolutions of the Legislature annually, and disposes of about twentyfive copies to Magistrates and to the different Boards of Commissioners for the District. The remaining portion of said Acts and Resolutions remain and are accumulating in the Clerks Office, to the great inconvenience of the Office, and an annoyance to the Officer. We therefore ecommend that the quantity now on hand in said Office be returned to Columbia by the Commissioners of Public Buildings for this District, at the expense of the District. We also

DR. JOHN P. BARRATT. The subject of this tribute of esteem and af fection, died at his residence, (Chenquepin Ridge) in Abbeville District, on the 26th of September, 1859, in his sixty-fifth year. His disease was Cancer of the Stomach, which caused a protracted and painful illness.

Dr. Barratt was a native of England, being born in Surry county, on the 11th May, 1795. Being early impressed with the superior institutions and advantages offered by this country to the energetic and enterprising men of the old country, he determined, as soon as he should attain his majority, to make his home. in the United States. At the age of twenty-one, he bid adieu to his fatherland, and set sail for our shores, to which he arrived in 1816, penniless, having started with means only sufficient to defray his outward passage. Thus thrown upon his own resources, and pos-sessing great energy of character, he at once went to work in the school-room, that great educational laboratory of the juvenile mind; both with the view of self-improvement, and to raise funds necessary to the prosecution of the profession which he had selected—that of Medicine. He taught school for about five years near the Ridge in Edgefield District, and at the same time read medicine under his friend, Dr. Samuel Perryman; not in the ordirary manner of the present day, but as one determined to understand its great truths and principles. He attended Lectures at the University of New York, and when he had finished his collegiate curriculum, he entered upon the practice of his profession, at White Hall, in Abbeville District, in 1821.

In 1826, Dr. Barratt intermarried with the widow of Richard Watson—the sister of Western and Profession and American Profession and Pro ley, Stanmore, and Butter Brooks, and a more noble and spirited matron does not exist in South Carolina. It is enough to say that she is the mother of the gallant Richard and Edward Watson, of Palmetto memory.

It was no difficult matter to augur success for Dr. Barratt, for he possessed in an eminent degree all those necessary qualifications which always all those necessary qualifications which always ensure success in any pursuit—a constancy of purpose, determined will, great energy, indetatigable industry, frank and open in his intercourse with men: and add to these, great proficiency and knowledge in his profession. It was a large and lacrative practice, which he held for more than thirty years. No one could be more deeply impressed with the grave re-sponsibilities of the Physician, both to his fel-low-men and to his profession. His constant efforts were exerted for the amelioration of the one, and the advancement of the honor, dignity, and usefulness of the other. Every scheme that aimed at the elevation of the standard of Medical education, received his zealous suport, and he was no inactive member in the inceptive organizations of our National, State, and District Medical Associations. Even after he had retired from the netive duties of the

Dr. Barratt's vigorous and active mind could mere practical medicine, but was wont to push its enquiries into all those collateral sciences which tended to elucidate the great problem of Life and Peath. To the various branches of Natural Science he contributed many valuable Essays and Lectures, which were replete with profound research and thought. To the study of Natural History, particularly, was he enthusiastically devoted, and a large collection of specimens, illustrative of most all the natural iences, was the result of his investigations His Museum, probably, is the largest private collection in the Southern States. He was in defatigable in whatever he undertook, whether m his farm, garden, or Museum, Work he would, and even after his physical powers had been exhausted by the ravages of his terrible disease, he would cultivate his taste for the fine arts by his hards work.

It is not, however, to Dr. Barratt as the Physician and man of science, that we are to look alone for his many excellencies. In the vari-ous relations of private life, of husband, father, friend and companion, in the sick chamber and around the domestic fireside, were exhibited those exalted traits of character which drew around, and attached to him all who were for tunate to have formed his acquaintance. As a citizen, he was upright, liberal and public spirited, always ready to assist in any undertaking, whose object was the development of the Agri-cultural, Mechanical, Floricu tural and Horticultural resources of his District and State. It would not be saying too much to announce the fact that the inception and organization of the present flourishing State Agricultural Society due to Dr. Barratt and his friend and co-la borer, Capt. Thomas B. Byrd, now deceased. I do not think I would incur the charge of culogistic exaggeration when I say that Dr. Bar-ratt was no ordinary man, that nature had assigned him no dubious possition, but that he stood an intellectual chief in our midst. Above all, his mental endowments were adorned by many christian graces, patience and fortitude, under all trials and afflictions, temperance and prudence in all things, humane and charitable to all who needed his humanity or asked for his charity. He accepted the will of his Maker as the rule of his conduct, and steadily looking forward to Christon of his Maker as the rule of his conduct, and steadily looking forward to Christ as his great Exemplar. He lived a christian's life, and when the "dark valley and shadow of death" had to be passed, he could say "I know that my Redeemer liveth." No terrors were presented to him. He could say, "O death where is thy sting, O grave where is thy victory." He looked upon death as but the entrance to "that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Although laboring under intense victors." ens." Although laboring under intense pain from his fatal disease, his mind, though conscious of the result, was calm and clear to the last.

No one could have witnessed his humilty, unrepining submission, and carnest devotion, and not be convinced of the truth of the religion of His death has caused a loss to his numerous friends and society; but to that family circle of which he was the centre of love, his loss is irreparable and sad indeed; but they mourn not as those without hope. He has gone to meet the rewards of a well spent life: "Be ye also ready"—and may this bereaved family be able, through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, to say—"the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken a way.
