Kid Chocolate is reported as having said after his fight with Kid Berg, in which all the leading Sports authorities agree that Chocolate was given a dirty deal, that he is through with the fighting game. Whether he sticks by his decision or no the fight game is a game in which fairness doesn't count for much. Kid Chocolate has done his part in trying to salvage the reputation of the boxing game, but the game did not appreciate his efforts. It is tough to outclass your opponent and then have the decision given to him.
