CAPITOL THEATRE

"Torch Song by Kenyon Nicholson

Directed by WED. & THURS. Harry BEAUMONT Director Defends Much Maligned Theme Song

SERVES STRATEGIC PURPOSE IN "LAUGHING SINNERS," SAYS HARRY BEAUMONT

Is the theme song dead?

Harry Beaumont, who directed the first musical film, "The Broadway Meledy," doesn't think so. And to back up his contention, Beaumont introduces a new sing num. ber in "Laughing Sinners," Joan Crawford's new Metro-Goldwyn-May er starring vehicle which will come the Capitol Theatre.

"Any song that serves a useful purpose in a picture is welcome," declared Beaumont in discussing the use of music in talkie productions. If the song is part of the story de just as much as a part of important tialorgie. Nothing can so impress a sentiment upon an audience as an ppropriate song.

"Our Blushing Brides" brought
orth a costume that became suddeny diaphonous during her dance numer, and in "Dance, Fools, Dance" Joan wore a mirrored costume that lost its skirt as the jazz saxophones lared the mad rhythm.

ow in "Laughing Sinners" her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle playing at the Capitol Thea Joan dances in a farmer's overll outfit that loses its legs, leaving merica's Dancing Daughter as you ke to see her.

Harry Beaumont directed the new rawford film, which is based on the Cenyon Nichelson stage hit. Song." Neil Hamilton lark Gable share leading man honrs and the cast includes Marjorie Rambeau, Guy Kibbee, Cliff Edwards os oe Karns, Gertrude Short, Geo. oper, George F. Marion and Bert
