

Allen College Opens With Bright Prospects

The postals of Allen College were opened last Monday to register the many students, old and new, who shall enter them seeking to further prepare themselves for life's duties. At the time this is being written the number of students who normally have registered at this time, have placed their names on the register. The first get together of the faculty was called by acting president Abram Simpson Monday morning at which time he made clear to the body what his ideas are regarding the place Allen College shall hold in the educational circles of our state. Mr. Simpson would have his teachers take the necessary time in order to acquaint the students with the proper methods of study. He abhors the passive pouring in of information on the part of the teacher; while the student is not qualified to assimilate the same. In his endeavor to gain the maximum for the student Mr. Simpson expressed the intention of initiating the tutorial system where the student may have the personal attention of his instructor where advice and encouragement are needed or desired.

Mr. Simpson expressed as his objective for Allen College, the taking of the raw material that comes into the school for fashioning and, by contacting it with the diverse educational processes, and the cultural atmosphere which he hopes will pervade the entire environment, send it into the work world a finished product of beauty and usefulness.

Tests are to be made when the students enter to determine their general cultural status. Achievement tests are to be made at various intervals and at graduation to determine what efficacy the environment has had in leading forth a more cultured individual. These tests are not part of the curricular work. Mr. Simpson is enthusiastic about the prospects and believes that Allen has a great mission that it can fulfill because of the preparation of its faculty, and its traditions in South Carolina.

It is expected that a splendid football team will represent Allen on the gridiron this fall, as the team will be under the tutelage of two men who were prominently connected with the last outstanding team Allen put on the field—that of 1926. Tony Swanton was the high scorer and most consistent ground gainer on that team. Tony is head coach at his Alma Mater. He is assisted by his former coach, H. W. Baumgardner, who besides his duties as College professor and acting editor of the Palmetto Leader is considered as being among the best known sports writers and authorities in this section. Baumgardner was Captain of the first team coached by Fritz Pollard, former Brown University star, who ran rough shod over Yale and Harvard during the same season. Several of the strong players of last season have returned and have been at work for more than a week. The coaches are pointing toward the Benedict game which takes place Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Simpson has made quite a few salutary and sanitary changes in the physical surroundings of the plant. The arrangement of president's, book-keepers' and treasure's offices made for less waste of time and therefore greater efficiency in handling matters pertaining to those offices. College class rooms have been prepared in Arnett Hall and the basement of the same has been floored with cement; its rooms too have been renovated where renovation was needed. Mr. Simpson believes that with the proper cooperation Allen College will soon be an A rated College the Country over.

Benedict Opens With 200 College Students

High School Has Been Discontinued

Benedict College which now has discontinued the high school will enroll more than two hundred college students by the end of the opening day (Wednesday). Classification of students and class assignments by the instructors begin promptly on the opening day.

Formal chapel exercises were held in the chapel several department heads and instructors greeted the host of new students that have been steadily arriving since Saturday. Despite economic difficulties Benedict expects a normal enrollment. Benedict's building program is steadily under way and the new auditorium is expected to be ready for use before the present semester is ended.

Twenty-two men reported to Coach Tarven for their first work out Tuesday afternoon. Much enthusiasm existed among the veterans and recruits who spent one hour and a half on the field. A balance program in athletics and physical education is planned for this year at Benedict.

With the high school discontinued Benedict has become the first Negro College of South Carolina to do only College work. Benedict also is the first Negro College of the state to be A rated in North Carolina, class association and a member of the association of Colleges for Negro youths.

LEADING DOCTOR BURIED AFTER 33 YEARS' PRACTICE

Many Pay Tribute To Dr. P. A. Scott Of Newport News

Newport News—After an illness of two weeks, Dr. P. A. Scott, prominent physician of this city, died at his home Monday, August 29, and was buried in his family plot in Norfolk Thursday afternoon.

Phillip Alexander Scott was born in Petersburg but reared in Norfolk, where he attended the now closed Norfolk Mission College. Later he studied at Shaw University and at the Howard University Medical School from which he was graduated in 1900. He had practiced medicine here for 32 years.

Dr. Scott was very active in professional and civic and religious circles. At the time of his death he was president of the Old Dominion Medical Society, secretary-treasurer of the Tidewater Medical Society, and vice-chairman of the health commission of the Elks.

He was also chief physician at the Whittaker Memorial Hospital and one of the mainstays of this community institution which is supported by pecuniary subscriptions.

Dr. Scott was a faithful member of the First Baptist Church, Jefferson avenue, and served as chorister of the B. Y. P. U. choir for a number of years. At this church his funeral services were held Thursday, with the pastor, the Rev. A. A. Galvin, officiating.

Politics also attracted him and in 1906 he headed a contesting delegation to the Republican national convention at which Harding was nominated. Later he became one of the leaders in the organization of Independent Voters League here.

In November, 1906, he was married to Miss Gloucester Ida Renfro of Washington, D. C. To this union one son, Phillip, Jr., was born, he died when about four years old. Mrs. Scott died August 20, 1927.

On January 1, 1930, he was married to Miss Geneva Isabel Cornwell, of Columbia, S. C., who with a young son survive him. Other survivors are a niece, Mrs. Pearl Parks of this city, and a nephew, Dr. Reginald Keamon of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Typical of the sentiment which is expressed over the passing of Dr. Scott, are the statements coming from Dr. W. T. Jones, one of the oldest physicians here:

"The community is still shocked over the death of Dr. P. A. Scott. He seemed to be rallying well from his illness and we hoped to see him again on the streets, but fate had a different program. Dr. Scott came to Newport News immediately after graduating from the Howard Medical School and at once entered into the hearts of the people. He consoled the sick with whom he worked. He entered heartily into the civic, religious, political social as well as the medical life and during his 32 years here built up a very substantial practice. He will be greatly missed here."

"In the death of Dr. P. A. Scott," adds Dr. G. Hamilton Francis, Norfolk, president of the National Medical Association, "the medical profession has lost a noble character and earnest worker, and the state a faithful servant."

Gospel Tornado Sends Money To Morris College

The Rev. Walter James Davis, who has been touring the East for the last two months and is planning to close his campaign at the Mt. Zion Baptist, Thomas St. pastorate, Rev. J. R. Brown, does not foresee the opening day of Morris College. Monday morning he wired Dr. Paine, $115.00 and has pledged $500.00 for Thanksgiving Rally at which time he is hoping that every club, individual, association, convention will help to raise $20,000.

It is a mystery to the reporter, and others, how the Evangelist in the face of the depression, can so freely give to the poor, needy causes and help institutions of learning and still

When asked last Sunday by the reporter from what source does his money come, his reply was "The Bank of Heaven." We will have to agree that the Bank of Heaven is the only bank that doesn't fail the effect of the depression.

While in Newark, New Jersey, he was able to help a number of needy ones and have offered several scholarships for the younger people that will take the advantage of such opportunities. He has been criticized by many but at present time is in a class by himself when it comes to charity. Honor should be given to whom honor is due. A word of praise is a stimulant to better work.

It was reported that he left Newark, Saturday night for Richmond, Virginia, preaching Sunday morning and Sunday night at the Fountain Baptist Church, 32nd and P. Sts.

where he has recently been called and has accepted. 12:45 Sunday night he was able to secure a session and returned to Newark, where Monday night he met with a overwhelming crowd that has been his supporters for more than two weeks. It is not known where he will preach next as he has so many engagements he hasn't as yet decided, but was to have his installation service in Richmond, and rest for 30 days at which time it was learned that he is planning to go to Aberdeen, Mississippi, Little Rock, Arkansas and visit several of his friends in South Carolina and make a lecture at Morris College and then return to Richmond to resume work as pastor.

Those wishing to secure a pamphlet may address him to 512 North 29th St., Richmond, Virginia.

BRAGO SYSTEM OF BEAUTY CULTURE GROWING

Mrs. H. W. Bradley—Founder

For the last fifteen years, Mrs. H. W. Bradley at 2328 Hampton Street of this city, has devoted much painstaking thought and effort toward the development of a system of beauty culture in Columbia that would be worthy of the name. In all systems, helpful for advancement and growth, the true incentive for extension must be the giving of unselfish services to their patrons. This fact alone accounts for the present success of Mrs. Bradley's system.

In the beginning, she too, was an agent for a then widely established system, well known in these parts. For several years, she was a conscientious agent for the work of Beauty Culture from which she received her diploma.

In such continued and thorough work, it was inevitable for her to understand completely the needs of scalp and skins. This acquired and intimate knowledge induced her to the present development of a system of her own toning, and perfected by its extended and satisfying work that it, as completely as possible met these needs of scalp and skin.

This service of Mrs. Bradley's which includes the entire art of Beauty Culture, has been given to the public for the last six years, and which, for four years, has obtained a legal registration in the United States Patent Office at Washington, D. C.

This successful system required expansion, and to cope with its demands she has made agents and does make agents. Among the present ones are Misses Thomas, Cheezbro, Bessie Thomas, Mallard Robinson, Ophie Anderson, Francis Baumgardner and Misses Lula Pharis and Edna Woodard.

Mrs. Bradley is sincerely grateful to the public for its patronage of her system and she assures her patrons that the same satisfactory service will always be rendered.

PHILADELPHIA NEWS

Mrs. Mamie Pearson and son, David of 1818 Judson St., Philadelphia, have returned from a trip to Columbia and Coxsberry, S. C., where they visited their relatives and friends. They enjoyed themselves very much from a short trip to Cleveland, Ohio where he visited his relatives. He reported a fine stay in that city.

The schools of Philadelphia will not open until Sept. 20, due to the dreaded case of Infantile Paralysis.
