SENECA JR. COLLEGE

Scheca, S. C. Last Friday nite cessful school year under the leadership of our wide awake Presi-dent Mr. J. D. Bryan. President Bryan and his co-workers have worked hard and we can see that the fruit of their labors by the number of young men and women that are making good in the world

There were nine (9) that finished the high school course and 18 from the college course. The High School Diplomas were precollege course. The tional, sented by Professor James Becks, Principal of the High School Department. The College Diplomas were presented by Prof. George II. Washington, Principal of the Walhalla, City School. The College Chapel was packed with visitors and friends. On Wednesday the Seneca Jr. College Alumni Association met for the election of officers. We were sorry to get the resignation of Dr. B. S. Sharp, our President. Yet we feel that his resignation was justifiable. After looking over the group we found as our new leader Professor George H. Washington who is Principal of the Wal halla Cloy School, President of the Oconee County Teachers Association and a wide awake man. We believe that Mr. Washington, with our help, will put the program over. The plan for the Association for '35-'36 is to add e quipments to the Chemistry and Biology laboratories. The speaker for the evening was Mr. A. N. Daniels from the Union High School of Belton, S. C. Mr. Dan-iels was at his best. His address gave every alumni something to think about. Sara Noah of- Liberty Miss City School was the week-end guest of Miss Bertha Washington. Miss Fields of Georgia was the guest of Miss E. R. Clinkscales. Miss Noah was entertained on Saturday evening by Miss B. M. Washington having a small bridge party. A delicious course and mints were served.

We are corry to learn of the illness of Misses Hoover and Craft. We hope how soon they will be out.

Miss Lottie Daniels' neice was the guest of Mrs. W. C. Beeks. Little Reginald Chapman, Jr. is visiting his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Washington on Pop ular St. ----
