MARGARET WANTS THE WHOLE PAGE AGAIN.

Hello, Everybody!

Here I am again, but I am wondering why the club members will not write, since the Editor has been kind enough to give us a whole page. I certainly am reading the letters and I am sure they will not use the opportunity that we have. We had a very nice time at our school opening exercises last Monday.

Our patrons were out and made nice talks. Also all of the boys and girls spoke. I forgot to tell you we have a new teacher this year, Miss Louise Blanton. I am sure we now have six teachers. I was ten years old in September and I am in the sixth grade and I am studying hard, so that I will be able to pass this term. Well, the farm work is over and I am glad of that. I have plenty of peaches to eat and I have plenty of peaches to eat. The old big trees are turned out and they are doing very well.

So long Bill and next week.

Rembert, S. C.

EDNA LEE BACK ON JOB.

Dear Bill:

I really believe you need my letter for the second time, but how I am back on the job again. Bill, I was at Camp meeting last Sunday and Oh! What a crowd was there. I saw many of my old friends, whom I haven't seen for a long time.

The pastor preached a wonderful sermon and the choir sang. I had a very nice time, but I saw many more of my friends were there. Bill, I didn't get to go to the Fair, but our Fair will be on and I am expecting to go to it. So that is all. Bye, bye, Bill.

Yours truly,
Edna Lee Wilson.

CLAFLIN BEATS ALLEN 6-0

By T. K. Bythewood
Columbia, S. C., October 31—In the Annual Football classic at the S. C. State Colored Fair on Big Thursday, the Claflin Panthers pulled the strings out of the Allen Yellow Jackets by a score of 6-0. The Panthers defense was impregnable, but the offensive machine, which has been piling up large scores against opponents thus far, was unable to get going against the Allen warriors.

The Yellow Jackets offered stubborn resistance and with the aid of several Claflin fumbles were able to check the numerous Panther drives. Claflin scored within two minutes of the game, when G. Williams took a short Allen punt and raced 40 yards for a touchdown. After a sustained drive in the second quarter Claflin lost the ball when a costly fumble just inches from the goal line was covered by Allen in the end zone.

Allen, after failing to make much of a dent in the Claflin line, began throwing long forward passes in the last half; three of these were intercepted and the other two were knocked down by the Claflin secondary.

THE HORTICULTURE INST.

Ponies should be planted now. This will give them sufficient time to develop root growth before the general growing season which starts in the spring.

Ponies should not be planted under trees or too close to shrubbery where moisture will be absorbed from the plants. A well drained location is essential. They do not like wet feet. They can be planted in the perennial border, or as specimen plants or in beds by themselves.

Some ponies will fail to bloom because of a number of reasons. One of the outstanding reasons is that of too deep planting. The buds or eyes on the root stock should be placed so that when planting is completed, they will be just below the surface of the earth. Excessive shade, diseased condition of the root, caused by too much fertilizer, decay or root gall, are some of the other reasons. Small divisions of the root stock may fail to bloom the first or even the second year after planting. Lack of fertility may also result in failure to bloom.

Do not cultivate too near the plant because damage to some of the surface roots will likely result. Hand cultivation is best. One or two inches directly above the plant and eight to ten inches from the plant is deep enough. Never allow the ground to bake and harden about the plant.

The fertilizers recommended are, well decayed manure, wood ashes, steamed bone meal or well balanced fertilizer.

Roots containing three to five eye divisions is the most satisfactory. One of the most attractive lawns I have seen in the city is at 1429 Pine street. It is healthy looking, green, fresh, thick, even and well clipped, and edged neatly. All these are points to consider in a good lawn. This lawn is the result of constant conscientious care.

Continue to water the young trees and shrubbery. You will be surprised to know how dry the soil really is. Put the plants away for the winter in good condition. Remember, within the leaves of some of the plants are shedding and growth stops, the roots still active and are in need of the same essentials of life namely water and the several varieties of plant food.

If you are planning to do any planting, do not put it off any longer. These beautiful fall days will not last long. Do not try to complete the work in one year. Fill in your border with the proper pieces of shrubbery as your pocket will allow you to buy them. Three years is a good length of time to limit your self. A good gardener is never satisfied with his arrangement but is always planting and replacing the shrubbery, trees, and flowers in his garden.

Do not forget the evening class at the Booker T. Washington high school every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Come out and spend an interesting hour with us.

"IDLE MOMENTS"
(By E. J. DeLaine)

MAN'S CRITIC

While conversing the other night, I got a description of man; By one of the severest critics, That you can find in any land.

I shall not attempt to comment on it.

The author turns and twists; But in substance I understood, That story ran like this.

He is a distinguished creature, About every thing in doors, And where he'd throw his belongings, Gracious goodness knows.

He scatters books about the place, Papers, specks and pen; And streams of dirt from out the yard.

Wherever he sits to loose his shoes, He is sure to leave them there, If perchance then you'd like to find, Just look most anywhere.

And whenever wash-day comes, The house must be turned up-side down; To find his shirts and handkerchiefs, His socks and sleeping gown.

If perchance a meal he'd cook, You could trace his course across the floor, By washed water, greasy spots, And every where he smeared with dough.

Would you get angry if I should tell, Who note all errors in his life; 'Tis the one who wishes for him, the best, None other than his loving wife.
