CHILDREN GIVE SURPRISE

Dear Bill: Yesterday all the children in and around the neighborhood had a little surprise party for Miss Ella V. We enjoyed it very much. The cool drink that was served by Mrs. Easter before we went to her home, had us all cool and refreshed, and we were ready to go. Well, revival will start at Macedonia Sunday. After that the school opening will be next and I can hardly wait as I have so much to tell some of my classmates, and so much to hear from them.

ST. PETER'S A. M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Willie Williams, Pastor

Bonneau, S. C.—Sunday, August 28th was a red letter day at St. Peter's. Sunday school was opened at 10:30 a.m. Quite a large crowd was present and interesting discussion on the lesson for the day was enjoyed by all.

Divine service was opened at 11:30 a.m. Bro. Jones rendering the opening prayer. Our Pastor Rev. Williams being inspired by God delivered us a powerful message, taking his subject from the 11:22 of St. Luke, subject "And the Spirit of the Lord did Come in the Church."

At 8:30 p.m. we held a week annual conference at which the business transaction took place in behalf of the rally that was taken up very successfully. Those participating from other churches were Mrs. Beulah Flemmons of St. Peter's, who raised $22.55; Mrs. Sophie Smith of the Reform Episcopal church, who raised the amount of $16.75; also Mrs. Rosa Darby of St. Peter's who raised the amount of $8.88. These were the three highest amounts reported. Other amounts reported made the grand total $2.85.

We wish to congratulate and thank our presiding elder for his wonderful foresight in sending us such a man of God in the person of Rev. Willie Williams, an esteemed man that takes his work as interesting and whose ambition is to put his church on the highest standard, having also brought as much life to the Bonneau circuit.

Our pastor is making plans for our fourth quarterly conference. We are expecting our presiding elder to be with us on the 3rd and 4th of September.

BETHLEHEM BAPT. CHURCH

Rev. E. E. Gauden, Pastor

The Sunday school was called to order by Supt. R. F. Gladden.

A short talk was made by Deacon White of Zion Baptist church of Columbia. We enjoyed his remarks.

At the regular services our pastor brought us a burning message subject: "Peace Through Joy and Trust in Christ". The following named persons were with us from out of town: Mrs. Blondell Byrd of Detroit, Mich.; Samuel Rice of Allendale, S. C., and Mr. S. S. Abrams of Atlanta Ga.

Mr. Abrams gave us a very interesting talk on the youth and the parent. There must be some restriction placed upon the children of today if we hope to realize better men and women of tomorrow.

The parents should be the leaders in the home, but instead, the children are telling the old folks what to do and when to do it. Such as this was unheard of thirty years ago, the parents were the leaders from start to finish.

Mr. Abrams is well known in the city of Newberry. We are always glad to see the people that are striving to do well come back to the "City of Friendly Folks".

W. P. A. Conference Here Nears Close

The W. P. A. conference now in session at Benedict college has passed its middle stage, and those attending are looking forward to the close and to relief from the sweltering heat, only to resume their duties in their respective communities. Under the very efficient leadership of Mrs. Dora Danies the work so far has been exceedingly pleasant and profitable.

Regular classroom duties have been rendered less arduous by interspersing extra-curricular features here and there, which were at once beneficial and the source of enjoyment.

On Thursday, August 11 Dean J. E. Briggs of the School of Religion, Benedict college, brought to the conference a very instructive message on "Family Life," and on the following Tuesday conducted a forum on the same subject. Miss Will Lou Gray came on Thursday, August 18 and gave an unusually interesting talk offering numerous helpful suggestions. This was followed on Friday, August 19, by a forum conducted by Dr. R. W. Mance, who spoke on "Venereal Diseases. Mr. Emanuel Keitt, the preacher poet of Columbia and the poet laureate of the postal employees of this city, delighted the conference on Monday noon, August 22, by reading several of his compositions in verse.

In addition to these lectures and discussions, there have been several features offered by way of pure entertainment. The conference has enjoyed two bingo parties, made more interesting by the awarding of several prizes and the serving of refreshments. Talent Night, August 22 was enjoyed by all who heard and saw the participants in action. The program for this occasion was under the direction of Miss Rosamond Alston, Miss Sarah Henderson, Mrs. Etta Rowe, Mr. W. H. Hubert and Mr. Reginald Daniels.

The religious side of the conference has not gone aching. On Sunday evening, August 14, President J. T. Starks of Benedict college spoke at vesper services. Rev. S. H. Lewis of Bethel A. M. E. church delivered an inspiring gospel message at 6:30 Sunday evening, August 21. Besides, the members of the conference have attended regularly and participated in the devotional exercises at the noon hour each day.

The remainder of the session promises more pleasant things for the adult teachers in conference. On Thursday, August 25,

"THE ROVING REPORTER"

Way Down South

Time marches on the moderns say A dozen times or more a day; But 'Tempus Fugit', the ancients said,
 An' hit the nail square on the head.
 'Makin' Railroad Time' Minutes, hours days, weeks, months, seasons, years, clip by at a breath-taking pace. The world's business has been accelerated to offset the brevity of the life span.
 All the speed made in the world is that man might cover more physical, financial, spiritual ground in his three score years and ten.

Speed in manufacture, speed in commerce, speed in speech, even with speed in transportation the biggest problem of them all; haste in getting from one place to another. It reads like a fairy tale . . . the history of transportation. Transportation by man's own power; his sturdy limbs soon becoming weary an animal was found to do the traveling with man astride or carted on wheels. But animals proving too slow in the continual acceleration of commerce and travel, machinery took their place . . . this to be improved to the engine . . . the train, when many gazed in wonder at the iron horse and thought it against the will of God for man to move that fast.

But these cautious souls 'hadn't seen nuthin' yet' . . . more time to be saved somehow . . . commerce demanded a conveyance more flexible in use . . . one to drive about at individual will, and the first thing we knew the automobile, curious contraption in its infancy, was setting them back on their heels again. But before the horse less buggy had discarded its swaddling clothes some reckless upstart who wouldn't let well enough alone, was fooling around in the air . . . clean out of his element, but he conquered it . . . harnessed the air and mankind now rushes around in the clouds.

Steamships, railroads, planes . . . the three giant steeds of industry daily discover methods of gaining more rapidly . . . steamships clipping records . . . planes circling the globe with a nonchalance of a trip down to the village postoffice. Streamlined, electric trains whizzing from one city to another before Junior can want a drink of water . . . one wonders what will be next.

The plane has outdistanced the railroad, but the timonored expression "Makin' railroad time" has the same significance in commerce . . . leaving on schedule, arriving on time.

What, No Hospitality

Speaking of hospitality . . . the word all but run out of meanin' . . . specially here in the South where they used to make a proverb out of that "Good ole Southern Hospitality". A man name Driscoll writing in a North Carolinia paper sez that its cause they aint no more slaves. 'Pears lak it were easy enuf to entertain and show off, going to no end a trouble for the leas' little thing when somebody else wuz doin' the work. That aint such bad reasonin' when you come to think of it.

The Old Oak Tree
 I was standin' there in 'ole back yard
 An' thinkin' as how life's so dad-blame hard . . .
 Just wonderin' why Fate took her spite out on me When my eye chanced to light on an old oak tree.

It was knotted an' twisted, an' tough as leather, From bendin' and 'scuffin' with contrary weather; Guess a hundred years mus' a passed it by . . .
 As it held its own' neath a change-ful sky.

'Dog-gon' sez I, ef I aint as good As somethin' that's made of leaves an' wood;
 The handled the battle, the stronger the man;
 I can ride the storm if that oak tree can.

Makin' Dreams Come True

All great persons rose to prominence by pursuit of a dream a thing that gained substance through their own efforts. Men will smilingly tell you of childhood ambitions and hopes . . . and of their relentless travel toward that point. Hallie Q. Brown

C. E. B.—I have been married two years and my husband was Answer—You are "playing your cards" very backward when you turn against your husband's mother. Don't you know that you won't ever be able to come between them. To try to do so only makes your husband lose respect for you. You had better drop the grouch and make up to your moth-dislike to do so, and you will find your way back into your husband's heart again.

S.C.—Does this man mean what he said about attempting suicide on his family?
 Answer—In his depressed moments he means it . . . but he soon snaps out of the feeling.
