THE BRIDAL DAY.

She leans beside her mirror, in her old accustomed place,

Yet something unfamiliar is on her lovely face;

She wears a wreath, a snow white wreath which yet she never wore

It gives a paleness to the cheek unknown to it before. The maiden goeth to the grove, and o the flowers beneath.

She takes the lily or the rose, to bind her midnight wreath;

But of one plant she gathers not, though fair its blossoms be:

Only the bride hath leave to wear buds from the orange tree.

Once, only once, that wreath is wornonce only may she wear

The pale white wreath of orange flowers, within her shining hair;

They wear, upon their soft wan bloom the shade of coming years;

The spiritual presence is around of hu man hopes and fears;

Ay let her solt and thoughtful eyes upon her mirror dwell.

For in that long and tender look, she ta keth her farewell

Of all her youth's anconsciousness, of all her lighter cares,

And for a deeper, sadder life-a woman's lot prepare.

She leaves her old familiar place, the hearts that were her own!

The love to which she trusts herself yet a thing unknown;

Though at one name her cheek turned red, though sweet it be to hear,

Yet for that name she must resign much that has been dear.

It is an anxious happiness, it is a fearful thing,

When first the maiden's small white hand puts on the golden ring;

She passeth from her father's house into another's care;

And who may say what troubled hours, what sorrows wait her there?

Ah! Love and Life are mysteries, both blessing and both blest;

And yet how much they teach the heart of trial and unrest!

Sweet maiden, while these troubled tho'ts

'mid bridal fancies sweep, Well mayst thou pensive watch thy glass, and turn aside to weep!

How Kossuth LEARNED THE ENG-LISH LANGUAGE .- In his address at Baltimore, to a deputation of the Protestant clergymen, Kossuth, in reply to an allusion made to his great knowledge of the English language, made the following relation.

It is some twelve years ago, said he, that for my decided attachment to the right of a free Press, which had never been oppressed except by the arbitrary laws of my country, I was put in prison by the Austrian Government, where I laid three years; the first year, they gave me nothing to read, and nothing write with; in the second they came and told me it would be granted to me to read something, but that I must not make my choice of any political books, but not only an indifferent one. I pondered a little, and, knowing that a Saviour was a mechanic; a carpenter. knowledge of languages was a key to The great architect of the universe, in sciences, I concluded that it p. rhaps the mechanism of the heavens and the might be useful to get some little know- earth, with its productions, animate and ledge of the English language; so I told inanimate, displays a power and skill them I would name some books which which human hands and human wisdom would not partake in the remotest way may attempt to imitate, but which they way with politics. ANECDOTE OF JUDGE STORY .- The Portsmouth Journal gives an anecdote of the late Judge Story, which has never been in print. A few years ago, at a Court in New Hampshire where Judge Story presided, a case came up in which the recollection of an old lady was taxed to ascertain at what time a particular event of long standing oc-curred. She stated with confidence that it took place in a certain year .---This led to a very particular cross ex. bold, clear hand, "Go it Bill, I'll back amination by a young lawyer who was you !"

wedded to nothing but the law. "How do you know, mam, that the concur-rence took place in that year?" "Oh, I am certain it did." "But, mam, how are you certain of it ?" "Well, if you must know, it was in the same year massecond son was born." "Well old lady, can you not be mistaken as to the time of that event; can you-" Here Judge Story protested against further examination, and said to the attorney, " There is no doubt, sir, on this point. The mother cannot be mistaken in the age of her children-if you cannot tell the age of your children, go home and ask your wife, and she will tell you." The blushing attorney bowed amid the smiles of the bar. He

The Mobile Tribune, in the course of its comments upon that portion of the Message of Governor Whitfield, of the construction of railroads, holds the following language:

But let as come South, and compare all the States around us with Georgia. Here are Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. Each of these States is infinitely more favored by nature than Georgia, yet Georgia wisely followed the example of the Northern States, and now, in population and wealth, she surpasses all of her sister States in the South-save Virginia, and she, having grown great in other times, is rather decaying than other-wise. To help her, this very same policy that we are recommending has now become a paramount impulse to her people. Twenty years ago, Georgia was in a condition of decay. Some of her best lands were exhausted,-her people were leaving her, and to-day, had she continued, as it is proposed by some to continue Alabama, her population would not have been by one-fifth so great as it is, and her material wealth would have been much less,-She, however, adopted the internal improvement polic, and we see before us its benificent effects. Lands withnow extremely valuable-lands worked and worn out by improvident culture, have been brought into proximities which have made it the highest interest of their owners to nurse them.

Not only this, but all sorts of industry have become active in that State. She is the only State South of Mason and Dixon's line, which may be said to be self sustaining. All the rest are stationary, and dependent for almost everything they consume on remote States.

Epping's Compound Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight.

Recommended by the editors of the Southern Journal of Medicine and Pharmacy, and prescribed and recommended by most all respectable physicians of Charleston and the surrounding country. This preparation (by adding Queen's Delight, &c., to the Sarsaparilla) combines in a more perfect degree than any known remedy, tonic and alterative powers; and is highly recommended by emi-nent physicians. It is prepared in con-sequence of the recommendation given by Dr. H. R. Frost, Professor of Materia Medica, in the College of Charleston, S. C., in his work on Materia Medica, and concentrated by a process of the subscriber's, render it more convenient for ad-ministration, and with the exception of the addition of mercury, which may be at all times added when necessary.

As a general purifier of the blood, and an eradicator of all obstinate diseases, this preparation will undoubtedly take the precedence of all other remedies. It gently operates upon and regulates the bowels, restores to the blood its wonted purity, gives tone to the stomach, and promotes digestion.

It is the best remedy known for scrofuous affections, sores, and breaking out in young children, and is safe and efficacious in removing entirely every trace of hereditary diseases from the system in the tenderest infant; in fact in all cutaneous affections it is invaluable.

It is highly recommended for all diseases of the skin, chronic as well as recent. There are few cases of chronic . and painful Rheumatism that will not yield to the influence of Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight, if duly persevered, especially if taken in conjunction with Hydr. of Potash.
