

POETRY.

ANGRY WORDS.

Angry words are lightly spoken
In a rash and thoughtless hour, Brightest links of life are broken By their deep, insidious power.
Hearts inspired by warmest feelings, Ne'er before by anger stirred,
Or are rent past human healing,
By a single angry word.

Poison-drops of care and sorrow, Bitter poison-drops are they,
Weaving for the coming morrow Sadder memories of to-day.
Angry words, oh, let them never From the tongue unbridled slip; May the heart's best impulse ever Check them ere they soil the lip.

Love is much too pure and holy,
Friendship is too sacred far,
For a moment's reckless folly Thus to desolate and mar.
Angry words are lightly spoken:
Bitterest thoughts are rashly stirred;
Brightest links of life are broken
By a single angry word.

TOUCH US GENTLY, GENTLY, TIME.

Touch us gently, gently, Time!
Let us glide adown the stream, Gently as we sometimes glide Through a quiet dream!
Humble voyagers are we,
Husband, wife, and children three—
All are one—and linked in love, One we'd be below, above.

Touch us gently, gently, Time!
We've not proud nor soaring wings, Our ambition, our content, Lies in simple, simple things, Humble voyagers are we,
O'er life's dim, unbounded sea, Seeking only some calm cline—
Touch us gently, gently, Time!

WE ARE GROWING OLD.

We are growing old—how the thought Will rise.
When a glance is backward cast On some long remembered spot that lies In the silence of the past:
It may be the shrine of our early vows,
Or the tomb of early tears;
But it seems like a far-off isle to us, In the stormy sea of years.
Oh! wide and wild are the waves that part
Our steps from its greenness now,
And we miss the joy of many a heart,
And the light of many a brow;
For deep o'er many a stately bark Have the whelming billows rolled, That steered with us from that early mark:
Oh, friends! we are growing old!

WIDOWS.

Some people have a prejudice against widows, but for our own part we never could tell what for. Girls will do very well in their places, but one widow is worth a half dozen of them any way.
Girls are so shy, so timid, so reserved, so bashful! Very few of them know how to make love, and when they do undertake it, it is so awkwardly done!
But widows understand the whole process. They are used to it. They are experienced cavaliers in the dashing court of Cupid. They know when to advance, and when to retreat. When to lay siege to a heart and when to attack it by storm. More castles have succumbed to the dazzling bright eye of a widow, clad in weeds, than were ever taken by the dreamy, melancholy robes of maidenhood. Believe us, there is more real danger in the dark and waving tresses of a bereaved one of twenty-two, than lurk in the golden locks of all girlhood. See, there goes one of them now. Scarcely a twelve month has softened down her excessive grief. But woman can't weep always.
They are made of something else besides tears; and that one has already found out that her charms are not entirely faded. She has not thrown aside her sable weeds yet, but the heavy and sombre bombazine has given place to a light and graceful fabric, and sets off more beautifully her symmetrical form, and falls more elegantly from her polished shoulders. Notice her little foot as she trips along—how daintily it touches the ground, and how adroitly she manages to exhibit the well-polished ankle. Ah! that is a woman for you. But look at that bonnet, will you.
Seventeen summers could never manage to wear it after that fashion. See, how jauntingly it covers her head, and how many sly glances she is enabled to throw from beneath it! and every one a barbed arrow that transfixes the heart of some poor love-sick swain.

Did you never notice how much more apt young men are to fall in love with widows and girls that have passed the summer of life, than with young girls? Well, here is the secret of it.
They are experienced anglers. They know what hooks to fish, what bait to use; and how to draw in their prey. In this they have a great advantage over girls who are still only in April and May. The former does three fourths of the courting, while the latter leave it all to be done by their suitors.

But here comes one of them. Look at her. She is decidedly pretty. She is a girl of capacity, and it is well cultivated. She is what is called accomplished. Her toilette is perfect. What colors could better become her complexion, or what fabrics better suit her form! Look at that eye, if you can catch a glimpse of it beneath the languishing lid, how soft and dreamy—Behold that brow, how white and polished. See that arm, how firm and round; those fingers, how soft and tap-pering. In conversation she is agreeable, and a party is incomplete without her. And yet—and is it not melancholy to believe it!—the chances are that even that girl, lovely as she is, will die an old maid. At any rate, we will wager our old boots that our widow girls married before her.

Such, however, is the world. Evidently there is a fault somewhere.— There must be a wrong in the way marrings are brought about among civilized nations. Look at the number of old bachelors about, who have never tasted the sweets of matrimony. And look at the number of women, too, who are pining in single blessedness.
The Great Being who presides over all things did not intend it to be so. He intended that every man should have a mate.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—A long winded subscriber to a newspaper, after repeated dunnings, promised that the bill should be paid by a certain day, if he were then alive. The day passed over, and no money reached the office.

In the next number, therefore, of the newspaper, the editor inserted among the deaths a notice of his subscriber's departure from this life. Pretty soon after this announcement, the subject of it appeared to the editor—not with the pale and ghastly countenance usually ascribed to apparitions nor like them did he wait to be spoken to, but broke silence with—"What, sir, did you mean by publishing my death?"
"Why, sir, I mean what I mean when I publish the death of any other person, viz: to let the world know that you are dead." "But I am not dead."
"Not dead! then it is your own fault; for you told me you would positively pay your bill by such a day if you lived to that time. The day passed, the bill is not paid, and you positively must be dead; for I will not believe that you would forfeit your word."
"Oh, ho! I see that you have got round me, Mr. Editor; but say no more about it; here's the money. And hark, my wag, you'll contradict my death next week?" "O, certainly, sir, just to please you; though upon my word, I can't help thinking you were dead at the time specified, and that you have really come back to pay this bill on account of your friendship to me."
—Arvine's Cyclopaedia.

PUNCTUALITY.—A punctual man is very rarely a poor man, and never a man of doubtful credit. His small accounts are frequently settled, and he never meets with any difficulty in raising money to pay large demands.
Small debts ruin credit; and when a man has lost that, he will find himself at the bottom of a hill, up which he cannot ascend. Small debts, observes Dr. Johnson, are like small shots—they are rattling on every side and can scarcely be escaped without a wound, great debts are like a cannon, of loud noise and little danger. Ninety-nine out of a hundred will acknowledge the truth of the Doctor's observation.

POWER OF IMAGINATION.—The influence of the imagination on the nervous system has on some occasions produced effects bordering on a state of insanity. The following is a case in point:
A few years since, Elijah Barns, of Pennsylvania, killed a rattlesnake in his field, without any injury to himself, and immediately after put on his son's waistcoat, both being of one color.— He returned to his house, and on attempting to button his waistcoat, he found to his astonishment that it was too small. His imagination was now wrought to a high pitch, and he instantly conceived the idea that he had been bitten imperceptibly by the snake, and was thus swollen from its poison. He grew suddenly very ill, and took to his bed. The family, in great alarm and confusion, summoned three physicians, and the usual remedies were prescribed and administered. The patient, however, grew worse and worse every minute, until at length his son came home with his father's waistcoat dangling about him. The mystery was instantly unfolded, and the patient being relieved from his imaginary apprehension, dismissed his physician, and was restored to health.

TRUST IN PROVIDENCE.—I know but one way of fortifying my soul against gloomy presages and terrors of mind, and that is, by securing to myself the friendship and protection of the being who disposes of events and governs futurity. He sees at one view the whole thread of my existence, not only that part of it which I have already passed through, but that which runs forward into the depths of eternity.
When I lay me down to sleep I recommend myself to his care; when I awake, I give myself up to his direction.—Addison.

NEVER GIVE UP.—We never were more struck with the powerful influence exerted by the expression of a noble sentiment, than on learning recently from a friend, that a stanza of Tupper's, "Never Give Up!" printed on a large card, is to be found nailed up over the business desks of many of the Philadelphia merchants. We can easily conceive that the stirring energy of these lines would be a source of constant strength and encouragement; and this placing them where the eye, fatigued with the minds' toil and anxiety, may always turn towards them with a refreshing feeling, shows, we think, as much genuine wisdom on the merchants' part, as it reflects glory on the true hearted poet.—Phenixville Pioneer.

A good story is told in an old paper of an aristocratic lady, who, being asked how she liked the dinner of Mrs. A.'s great party, replied: "The dinner was excellent, but my seat was so promote from the nick-nacks, that I could not ratify my appetite, and the pickled cherries had such a defect on my head, that I had a motion to leave the table; but Mr. — gave me some hartshorn, resolved in water, which bereaved me."

ODD FELLOWSHIP.—A female was recently run over by the cars, on the New Hampshire Railroad; she was a widow and a stranger, but had in her reticule her husband's card of Odd Fellowship, and the members of the order instantly took charge of her, watched over her sufferings with brotherly kindness, and on her demise, buried her with respectful ceremony.

An Irish Musician, who now and then indulged in a glass too much, was accosted by a gentleman with—'Pat, what makes your face so red?
'Please yor honour,' said Pat, 'I always blush when I spakes to a gentleman.'

'Jake,' said an old farmer, one day, to one of his mowers, 'do you know how many horns there are in a dilemma?'
'No,' replied Jake, 'but I know how many horns there are in a quart of whiskey.'

The remark that, 'there is more pleasure in giving than receiving,' is supposed to apply chiefly to medicines, kicks and advice.

'Pat, if Mr. Jones comes before my return, tell him that I will meet him at two o'clock.' 'Ay, ay, sir; but what shall I tell him if he don't come?'

Somebody says, 'There is nothing in which the power of art is so much shown as playing on a fiddle.' That somebody is mistaken. Getting up a paper and making it pay, beats the art of fiddling all hollow.

ASKING QUESTIONS IN A HURRY.—
'Tom, a word with you.'
'Be quick, then; I'm in a hurry.'
'What did you give your sick horse t'other day?'

'A pint of turpentine.' John hurries home, and administers the same dose to a favorite charge who, strange to say drops off defunct in half an hour.

His opinion of his friend Tom's veterinary ability is somewhat staggered.
He meets him the next day.

'Well, Tom.'
'Well what is it.'
'I gave my horse a pint of turpentine, and it killed him as dead as Julius!'

'So it did mine!'

GEMS OF THOUGHT.—The mind may be overburdened; like the body, it is strengthened more by the warmth of exercise than of clothes.

Uneasy and ambitious gentility is always spurious gentility. The garment which one has long worn never sits uncomfortable.

If you wish for care, perplexity, and misery, be selfish in all things, this is the short road to troubles.

The forms and ceremonies of politeness may be dispensed with, in a measure, in the relaxations and intimacies of one's own fire side, but kind attention never.

The heaviest fetter that ever weighed down the limbs of a captive, is as the web of the gossamer, compared with the pledge of the man of honor. The wall of stone and the bar of iron may be broken, but his plighted word never.

Childhood is like a mirror, catching and reflecting images all around it.— Remember that an impious, profane, or vulgar thought may operate upon a young heart like a careless spray of water thrown upon polished steel, staining it with rust that no after efforts can efface.

I never knew one who was in the habit of scolding able to govern a family. What makes people scold? The want of self government. How then can they govern others! Those who govern well are generally calm. They are prompt and resolute, but steady and mild.

In Distress we Succor.

COTTON GIN MANUFACTORY.

The subscriber begs leave to inform the public, that he has located himself at Darlington, C. H., and is now prepared to execute work, in a neat and workman-like manner, and at the shortest notice, in the above line of business, both new work and repairing. He thinks it unnecessary to say anything concerning his ability, as to whether he can compete with any other Manufacturers in the above named business or not, as he never in one single instance, failed to give satisfaction to those who purchased new gins of him.
He would respectfully solicit the attention of all whom it may concern, to give him a call when in need of Gins, or a gin, and try his before purchasing elsewhere, and if he fails to give satisfaction, no harm done, he will receive them back again.
He would respectfully say to those who have heretofore so liberally patronized him, that he is indeed thankful for past favours, and hopes by his industry, promptness and personal attention to business, to merit a continuance of their patronage.
All work warranted to give satisfaction.
R. DICKINSON.

Darlington Hotel.

DARLINGTON COURT-HOUSE.
THE above House having been purchased and fitted up anew by JOHN DOREN, is again opened for the accommodation of the Public. Strict attention to the wants and comforts of guests will be given, and no effort, calculated to merit the patronage of all who may favor the establishment with a visit, shall be spared.
All that the market and surrounding country afford will be found upon the table.
Comfortable rooms, for families or individuals, are prepared.
The Stables will be attended by careful and attentive hostlers.
Dresses can be well accommodated, as any number of horses and mules can be kept in the stables and lots expressly prepared for them.

Bounty Land.

The Subscriber will act as the Agent and forward all applications for Bounty Land, for all persons entitled under the "Act of the 28th September, 1850. He will attend punctually to the whole business connected with the application. All persons who served in the war declared by the United States against Great Britain on the 18th June, 1812, or of any of the Indian wars since 1790, their surviving widows or minor children, are entitled to draw under the act."
Those who have lost their certificate of discharge need not fear to apply.

Epping's Compound Fluid

Extract of Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight.
Recommended by the editors of the Southern Journal of Medicine and Pharmacy, and prescribed and recommended by most all respectable physicians of Charleston and the surrounding country.
This preparation (by adding Queen's Delight, &c., to the Sarsaparilla) combines in a more perfect degree than any known remedy, tonic and alterative powers: and is highly recommended by eminent physicians. It is prepared in consequence of the recommendation given by Dr. H. R. Frost, Professor of Materia Medica, in the College of Charleston, S. C., in his work on Materia Medica, and concentrated by a process of the subscriber's, render it more convenient for administration, and with the exception of the addition of mercury, which may be at all times added when necessary.

As a general purifier of the blood, and an eradicator of all obnoxious diseases, this preparation will undoubtedly take the precedence of all other remedies. It gently operates upon and regulates the bowels, restores to the blood its wonted purity, gives tone to the stomach, and promotes digestion.

It is the best remedy known for scrofulous affections, sores, and breaking out in young children, and is safe and efficacious in removing entirely every trace of hereditary diseases from the system in the tenderest infant; in fact in all eutaneous affections it is invaluable.

It is highly recommended for all diseases of the skin, chronic as well as acute.
There are few cases of chronic and painful Rheumatism that will not yield to the influence of Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight, if duly persevered, especially if taken in conjunction with Hydr. of Potash.

J. P. M. EPPING,
Chem. and Drug, 227 King-st., Opposite Society-st., Charleston.
Who also offers for sale, a general assignment of Medicines, for plantation, family and physician's use, on the most reasonable terms. Orders from the country put up with care and despatch.

The State of South Carolina.

DARLINGTON DISTRICT.
D. Washington Munn, who is in the custody of the Sheriff of Darlington district, by virtue of a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum, at the suit of the State of South Carolina, having filed in my office, together with a schedule on oath of his estate and effects, his petition to the Court of Common Pleas, praying that he may be admitted to the benefit of the Acts of the General Assembly made for the relief of insolvent debtors. It is ordered that the said State of South Carolina, and all others the creditors to whom the said D. Washington Munn is in anywise indebted, be, and they are hereby summoned, and have notice to appear before the said court at Darlington Court House on Thursday the 18th day of March next, to show cause if any they can why the prayer of the petition aforesaid should not be granted.

N. Phillips and
A. J. Requier, }
vs. } Ca. Sa. Case.
Hasting Stokes, } Hasting Stokes, who is in the custody of the Sheriff of Darlington District, by virtue of a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum, at the suit of N. Phillips and A. J. Requier, having filed in my office, together with a schedule on oath of his estate and effects, his petition to the Court of Common Pleas, praying that he may be admitted to the benefit of the Acts of General Assembly made for the relief of insolvent debtors. It is ordered that the said N. Phillips and A. J. Requier and all others, the creditors to whom the said Hasting Stokes is in anywise indebted, be, and they are hereby summoned, and have notice to appear before the said Court at Darlington Court House, on Thursday the 18th March next, to show cause if any they can why the prayer of the petition aforesaid should not be granted.
